Grain Markets Very Unsettled; Harvest Begins

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Domestic grain markets were very unsettled during the week ending July 12. Wheat prices made further declines, influenced by increased offerings of new winter wheat, continued slow export inquiry for the large North American stocks and generally favorable prospects for the new wheat crop in the northern hemisphere, according to the weekly grain market review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. Feed grains, on the other hand, were firmer under a good demand for the moderate offerings. Corn prices advanced, while oats and barley held steady at moderate markets. Rye was lower with wheat and flax declined sharply with spot prices near the new crop basis.

crop July 1. Of this, approximately 340,000,000 bushels is hard winter, 175,000,000 bushels soft red winter and 43,000,000 bushels fall-sown types of white wheats. A spring wheat crop other than Durum, of 193,000,000 bushels was indicated by the July 1 condition, with the Durum wheat crop forecast at 57,000,000 bushels.

The Canadian wheat acreage is slightly larger than last season and is officially reported at 24,553,000 acres. The condition of the crop July 1 was placed at 81 per cent of the year average yield, which would indicate a harvest of approximately 305,000,000 bushels, compared with the final estimate of 300,000,000 bushels harvested in 1929. European wheat crop prospects are irregular. Harvesting of winter wheat is nearing completion in the Mediterranean countries. Trade reports indicate a downward revision of the early official Spanish forecast from the near record figure of 151,000,000 bushels. French and Italian crops also may be considerably below expectations. On the other hand, yields considerably above those of last year are reported for the countries of the Lower Danube where the harvest is in progress. Conditions in Northwestern Europe, including the Scandinavian countries, Germany and Poland, are generally above average, although recent dry hot weather has resulted in damage in some areas. Supplies of old wheats remaining in the principal exporting countries appear to be around 60,000,000 to 75,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago, but this increase is probably more than offset by smaller stocks on ocean passage and in Europe.

Harvesting of the domestic wheat crop is now general in Kansas and Nebraska, and is completed in much of Southern Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Marketings increased sharply during the week and over 5,500 cars were received at Kansas City. The quality of the new wheat is excellent, being of heavy weight and unusually low in moisture. While large amounts are reported being placed in storage, offerings were heavy and were a weakening factor in several markets. Demand, however, was active, particularly from the domestic mills and current arrivals were readily taken. Pacific coast markets were weaker but declines were less marked than at eastern points. Prices at Portland and Seattle declined about 2c per bushel. No. 1 hard white of Big Bend bluestem or early Hart varieties was quoted at Portland at $1.02 and at Seattle at $1.04. No. 1 soft and western white at Portland at 91c and at Seattle at 93c. No. 1 hard winter, northern spring and western red at Portland 89c and at Seattle 92c per bushel. 14 per cent dark hard winter in bulk was quoted at Seattle at 90c-90c, and 14 per cent No. 1 dark northern spring at $1.06 per bushel. Export demand continued dull with only a few parcel lots of white wheats reported sold to the United Kingdom. Freight rates are unusually low, some space being available as low as 85c per ton. Harvesting of winter wheat began during the week in the Walla Walla and Pendleton district with shipments of new wheat were not expected to reach the coast markets before July 20.

LADY DOYLE IS GIVEN MESSAGE

(Continued from Page One) began drowned out her words. Lady Doyle declined to say what the remainder of the message was, merely explaining, "I can't. It's precious and sacred. I am perfectly convinced the message is from my husband. I am sure of that and I am sure that he has been here with us as I am sure that I am speaking to you. It is a happy message, and one that is cheering and encouraging."

12 AGREE TO GO TOGETHER ON NOMINEE

(Continued from Page One) receive a cut of the political pie and other recognition that Eastern Oregon is entitled to. That vast inland empire has been smarting for years because of the belief that Portland and Western Oregon have dealt unfairly with the people east of the Cascades. We shall watch with interest the outcome of the demands, and our judgment is they will win.

As time passes, regarding state politics along with it, Eastern Oregon is likely to be made the battleground for nominating a candidate for governor on the republican ticket and the two possible candidates from that section of the state are equally capable, honest, conscientious men, which goes to show that that section of the state is capable of putting on a real show on the latter part of this month.

BAILEY PRESENTS PLATFORM

E. F. Bailey, Oregon nominee for governor, announced his platform for the November campaign, carrying with it an attack on the republican party. "That the republican political machine in this state is controlled by those who are seeking special privileges is apparent to those who have watched the trend of our political affairs," he said. "In choosing your government, we must decide whether the machine, dominated and controlled as it is by special privileges, shall be kept in power, or call for a new deal wherein the people will have such voice as is consistent with a free system of government."

HOPS REMAIN BRIGHT SPOT; QUOTE PRUNES

PORTLAND, Ore., July 14 (AP)—Hops remain the one bright spot on this Oregon agricultural horizon at present. Most of the activity is in the California market where prices ranging from 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c are reported to have been paid for 1929. This is the basis for the belief that hops are facing a rising market everywhere because of a shortage of crop and a downy mildew. A short hop crop is predicted. In Yakima 16c is reported to have been paid on contract. There is little activity in the Oregon market.

Prune packers at Portland received the first quotations of new crop northwestern dried prunes, for October delivery, from the United Kingdom today. The quotations are with prices c. l. f. Liverpool, of 3 shillings for 30-40 sizes, and 23 shillings for 40-50 stock. Deducting the usual transportation and packing costs, this price is the equivalent of around 9.5c per lb. net to northwestern growers. Above c. l. f. quotations are for 112
