From Portland—Mr. Thompson, of Portland, plant man for the Western Union, is installing teletype machines which will be in use Monday morning along with the Morse system, except for branch stations. The teletype machines operate similar to the telegraph machines of The Observer.

From Elgin—Mrs. J. P. Weatherspoon and daughter, Lois, and son, Perry, of Elgin, were in La Grande visitors Thursday.

Alexander's Solution—The expression the "Gordian knot" has its origin in the tale of Gordius, a Phrygian peasant, owner of a yoke of oxen, who became king. He dedicated his cart and oxen to Zeus, and the knot of the yoke was tied so skillfully that an oracle declared that whoever should untie it would be ruler of Asia. When Alexander the Great came to Gordium he cut the knot in two with his sword and applied the prophecy to himself.

No "Perpetual Motion"—If such a thing as a perpetual motion machine were possible, running without fuel, or other form of external energy, it would be of immense value to mankind, producing energy from nothing. According to the law of the conservation of energy, however, the energy of the universe is constant and can be neither created or destroyed.

"Cannel" or "Candle"?
Cannel coal burns with a bright, candlelike flame, and it is probable that the name is a corruption of candle coal. This coal is found in Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana, and some believe that it is a product of an accumulation of animal as well as plant remains. The same kind of coal is found in Scotland, where it is called parrot coal.

Consider Only the Best
Every year of my life I grow more convinced that it is wisest and best to fix one's attention on the beautiful and the good, and dwell as little as possible on the evil and the ugly.—Joubert.

Moon's Craters
One theory of the formation of the craters on the moon is that rapidly moving meteors, penetrated deep into the moon's crust, then exploded and threw up a rampart similar to craters caused on the earth by an aerial bomb.

Shortage of Water Is Serious, Report

SALMON, Ore., July 16 (AP)—Shortage of water on Oregon sheep and cattle ranges, threatens to be more serious this season than ever before, Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, said today.

It has been proved, Lytle said, that water can be hauled to sheep on a practicable basis, and he thinks this may prove true to cattle. Tests have shown that water for sheep can be hauled 10 miles at a cost of 3 cents a head per month, due to the small amount daily that sheep actually require and their ability to go two or three days without water.

Los Angeles To Spend $38,000,000 To End Water Rights Controversy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—After 20 years of feuds over water rights, Los Angeles hopes to end the controversy by buying outright five towns and numerous ranches.

The city plans to spend $38,000,000 and reach out 330 miles to enlarge existing water facilities, which are considered inadequate to supply the city until the Boulder dam supply is available.

Bitterness among ranchers over water diversion in the past has resulted in dynamiting of water works, armed conflict with city officers and prolonged litigation.

Besides buying outright the towns of Laws, Bishop, Independence, Big Pine and Lone Pine for $5,700,000, Los Angeles plans to build an 11-mile tunnel to connect Silver Lake with the Owens river, buy the Mono basin property and water rights, purchase $4,000,000 worth of privately-owned farm land, build more storage dams and enlarge its existing aqueduct.

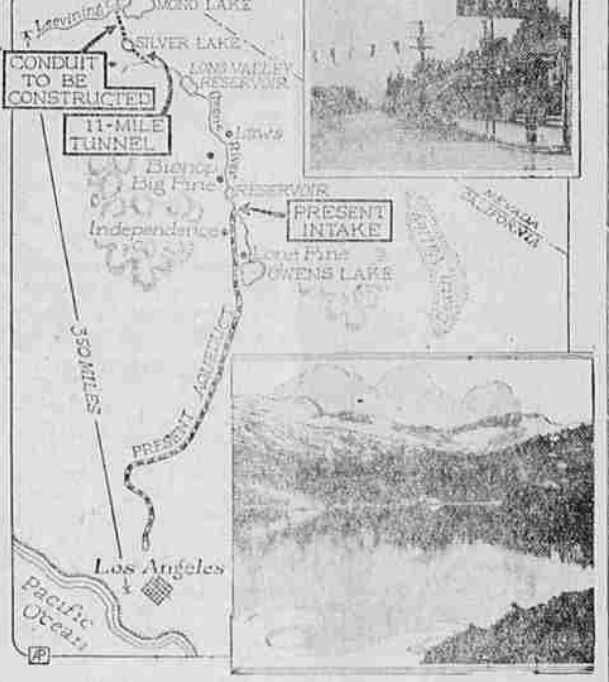

The money will be raised by a bond issue.

Los Angeles has owned water rights on the upper reaches of the Owens river for 20 years, but ranchers and business interests in the surrounding towns were bitter at diversion of the precious fluid from their territory. They felt the "moral right" to the water was theirs.

At one time 65 armed men stood off the city employes and sheriff's deputies for three days while they let water pour through opened gates into their own semi-arid lands. Arrests were made subsequently but no convictions could be obtained.

Construction work on the new project is scheduled to begin this fall, and extensions will be available in three years, engineers say. The Colorado river supply, part of which will be available for Los Angeles, will not be ready for another 10 years.

REJECTION OF NAVY TREATY IS DEMANDED

quately "except through naked rejection of it." Senator Moses took particular exception to the escalator clause and that section relating to submarine attacks on merchant vessels.

What it allows

The escalator clause would permit any of the three signatories to build outside the prescribed category limits if a non-signatory built ships to a point which the United States, Great Britain or Japan regarded as dangerous.

This clause, Moses said, leaves the general stipulations of the treaty "to a mere psychologic whim which might settle down upon one of the signatories—and in the event of the exercise of such a whim the United States would find itself carrying a still heavier burden of restriction upon its freedom of action."

the flames. But the evidence was not sufficient to discourage the world wide hunt for the woman.

William Ray Lamphere, employed as a farm hand, was convicted of setting the place afire and was sent to prison where he died. At his trial he insisted Mrs. Guinness was in the house when it burned. Later, however a convict at the state penitentiary said Lamphere told him Mrs. Guinness was still alive.
