"FIRST LADY" APPEARING ON TURK HORIZON

By Priscilla Ring (Associated Press Staff Writer) ANGORA, Turkey (AP)—A "First Lady of the Land" is at last appearing on the Turkish horizon.

Socially repressed Latife Hanim, the divorced wife of President Mustapha Kemal, and replacing the exiled Halide Edib, politically, Alet Hanim, is now coming forth as Turkey's most prominent woman.

In another year she will probably be Turkey's first woman member of parliament. In a few years more she may even be the first woman cabinet member.

Alet Hanim is one of the five war orphans Kemal has been educating. After studying in Switzerland and in Istanbul, Alet Hanim returned to her adopted father's villa in the capital, and quietly took a job as teacher of civics and history in an Angora school.

Her name never appeared in the Turkish press until this spring, when with the extension of the franchise to women, it was announced that she was the first woman to be admitted to the People's party, Kemal's party, and the only political party allowed in Turkey.

Since then, accounts of this studious, good-looking young woman, and pictures of her clad in trim tailored suits and small hats pulled down over short bobbed hair, appear constantly in the Turkish press.

An old adopted daughter of President Kemal, she figures socially as first lady of the land, and accompanies him to nearly all official functions.

Well A Thirsty Sailor Vowed to Dig Restored In Massachusetts Town

AMESBURY, Mass. (AP)—A shipwrecked sailor's monument to his awful thirst will be rededicated here July 24.

Off to India when he was 18 sailed Valentine Bagley, to be shipwrecked on the Arabian coast and wander, tortured, for weeks in the searing desert.

Bagley's story, handed down in legend, is confirmed by a tale published in 1794 by Daniel Saunders, one of several others cast up with Bagley.

Natives robbed the sailors of every stitch of clothing, and they set out naked for Muscat, 400 miles across the sands.

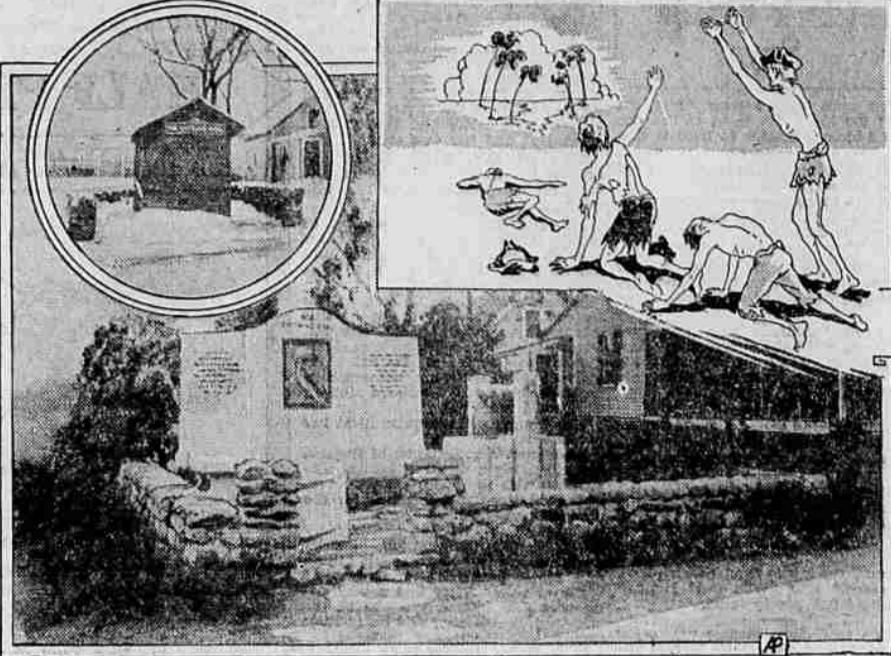

Terribly blistered, famished and thirsty, a group of friendly natives were at last encountered and hired to take them by camel to Muscat.

Only six of the 17 who started arrived. While wandering in the desert, the legend goes, Bagley prayed as never before. Whittier, the poet, a later resident of Amesbury, put that prayer into verse:

Pity me, God! For I die of thirst; Take me out of this land accursed; And if ever I reach my home again, Where the earth has springs and the sky has rain.

I will dig a well for the passers-by; And none shall suffer from thirst as I. Home Bagley did come, six years later, and with his own hands dug the well. Then he sat back to watch passers-by quench their thirst, and to reflect upon what a good thing is water and plenty of it.

It is 100 years and more since Bagley came back from the sea — the Gay's tractor.

When Valentine Bagley, a sailor, was shipwrecked more than 100 years ago, he vowed, if saved, to dig a well so that others might not know the thirst he did. The well (above) has recently been restored at Amesbury, Mass. Inset shows it before restoration.

Women Displace Men as Chief Of Bandit Bands

HONGKONG (AP)—Women are pushing men into the background in the Chinese bandit picture.

Roving bands of women brigands are sacking villages in parts of Kwangtung province, according to reports here, with men bandits in secondary places.

In one instance the band was estimated to consist of about 230 women and 100 men. The leader was a woman with her husband as first lieutenant.

This band, it is charged, swooped down on Shekhi City at midnight, firing it after robbing the occupants. Later the band sacked Woo Chung and fled to the hills with 100 citizens of the better class, holding them for ransom. Ten were released when the chief bandit convinced herself they were poor and had no property.

Another daring coup by women robbers is reported from Manchung, on the island of Hainan.

Under pretense of paying taxes four women entered the bureau of militia. Taking officials off guard the leader shot the chief dead as he sat at his desk.

The Amazons then lined the staff up against the wall and ransacked the place for cash, arms and ammunition.

Caution authorities are taking steps against the women robbers and Admiral Chan Chak has been sent to Hainan with a force of marines.

AGRETTES WORN BY PARIS STYLE LEADERS

PARIS (AP)—Agrettes, forbidden plumage in the United States, are worn by some of the recognized style leaders here.

Senora Martinez de la Hoz, considered one of the best dressed women in Paris, appeared at the Auttuel race course recently in a lace straw hat of beige with a brilliant orange agrette fan at the back.

Another agrette trimmed hat much commented upon was worn by an English woman at the garden party of the Maharajah of Kapurthala.

South Plans Giant Co-operative To Market Fruits And Vegetables

By W. J. Davis (Associated Press Staff Writer) ATLANTA (AP)—A giant new co-operative is in the making in Dixie.

The proposed organization, which would market fruit and vegetable products of the south, got its inception at a meeting here of commissioners of agriculture from seven states.

The plan will be taken to the federal farm board in Washington.

The co-operative would revolutionize methods of marketing fruits and vegetables in the south, which in the last decade has added a rapidly growing output of truck crops to its large fruit output.

Action of the commissioners was the first move ever made to form an organization serving the entire south for distribution of farm products, other than cotton and tobacco, to eliminate competition between states and communities.

Commissioner William A. Graham, of North Carolina, proposed the co-operative. Harry D. Wilson of Louisiana, president of the Southern Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, was an enthusiastic second.

The other commissioners favored the plan unanimously.

Details of the organization will be worked out by Graham and Wilson who, with other southern commissioners and state market bureau chiefs, will submit the plan to the bureau of agricultural economics and the federal farm board in Washington.

Out of the Washington meeting, Graham and Wilson believe, will come a strong union that will enable each state to know at all times what the other is placing on the market and govern shipments to avoid glutted markets and low prices.

New Ship Canal To Bring Water Lines Eastward

OSWEGO, N. Y. (AP)—Three shipping developments that promise to affect northern United States from the Detroit to the Atlantic seaboard, and much of lower Canada, are in the making.

This summer is expected to see the opening of the $115,000,000 Welland ship canal, connecting Lake Erie and Lake Ontario, for the first time, to large ships plying the other Great Lakes.

Opening of the lower Hudson river to ocean vessels, as far north as Albany, is slated for 1931. The third project is the federal government's $3,500,000 program for opening the Lake Ontario harbor of Oswego to Great Lakes shipping for the first time.

The Welland canal will enable ships now making Buffalo their eastern terminus to extend their lanes into Lake Ontario. Their possible terminus then will be Oswego, 171 miles nearer tidewater.

Women To View Coronation In Sheba's Land

By Sue McNamara (Associated Press Staff Writer) WASHINGTON (AP)—With trunks carrying formal dinner gowns, Harriet Chalmers Adams, president of the Society of Woman Geographers, is embarking on an expedition at variance with her usual following of hazardous trails.

Mrs. Adams will attend the coronation ceremonies of His Imperial Majesty, Haile Selassie I, King of Kings of Ethiopia on October 7.

Instead of the trusty knickers, tweed coat and bob-nailed shoes worn on her ordinary explorations, Mrs. Adams will be arrayed in silks and velvets to mingle in the colorful 30 day festival which marks the coronation. She will be the guest of the U. S. minister.

Nowhere else, outside of Hollywood, do women who have witnessed similar events in Ethiopia, is there such a gorgeous costume display. Gold and silver and precious stones, plumes and gold braid will mark the coronation of the new monarch in this land once ruled by the Queen of Sheba.

The coming coronation is expected to surpass anything of the kind ever held in Africa. There will be parades, sham battles and reviews of troops. The Abyssinians are expert horsemen and indulge in the most spectacular stunts at these festivals.

Adis Abeba, the capital of Abyssinia, or Ethiopia, as it is now called, is situated 8000 feet above sea level. It is a stronghold of beautiful churches as the Abyssinians are the only Christian race in Africa.

MISSOURI'S STATE FLOWER HARBORS PEST OF APPLES

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—The hawthorn, Missouri's state flower, is a wolf in sheep's clothing, say officials of the Missouri agricultural experiment station.

According to Dr. Leonard Haseman, state entomologist, the hawthorn tree whose color adds to scenic beauty in the Ozarks, harbors perhaps the most injurious of apple pests, carpocapsa fernaldiana. It is a maggot-like worm which enters the ripe apple late in the season and causes damage after fruit is packed.

The fruit of the hawthorn tree, called "red haws," supply the only safe refuge during the winter for the pest, says Dr. Haseman.

Pajama Gown Keeps Vogue; Jacket Loses

By Diana Merwin (Associated Press Fashion Editor) PARIS (AP)—Chiffon pajama frocks promise to keep right on going when autumn and winter styles are launched.

Evening pajamas is the name bifurcated chiffon frocks go under and they are having a colossal success for wear in their own homes.

Pull skirted pajamas which fall into long straight Grecian lines are most favored. Paris prefers chiffon but the people who make the styles hint that satin and chiffon velvet pajama frocks will be forthcoming for winter.

Most of the evening trousers-dresses have special coats which contrast strikingly in color. In that they are still faithful to the pajama idea as contrasted with the one-color ensembles for formal evening wear.

Costs for pajama frocks may be bright colored chiffon velvet, supple lame or printed satin or taffeta. One Parisian pajama costume combines gray chiffon trousers with shirred hips and a pigeon vult red velvet coat lined with gray.

A handful of style leaders have decided to discard short evening wraps in favor of mantles which are long in back and elaborately fur trimmed.

The feminine half of society got a shock at the recent opening of a fashionable night club when the outstanding style leaders, almost to a woman, appeared in heel-length wraps.

Some women go even further and sport trained evening wraps and formal wear. An important model of the trained type is cut away from a surplus front which crosses just below the waist.

Some of the new long wraps follow closely on the Roman toga line, with scarf collars banded with fox fur. Others are closefitting affairs of chiffon velvet with wide sleeves bordered with fox.

All the ambitious wraps of hem-line length are fur trimmed, with fox the favorite.

YOUTH OF 23 IS DIRECTOR OF 50 FIRMS

NEW YORK (AP)—Director in nearly 50 industrial concerns at the age of 23—such is the responsibility on the shoulders of James C. Brady Jr.

Slightly more than a year ago "Jim" Brady was graduating from Yale, proud of his major "X" won as a member of the hockey team, and of his membership in Scroll and Key, senior honorary society.

In college he had forecast his own future as that of a banker. Now he has plunged into the financial world that brought vast fortunes to his uncle, Nicholas F. Brady, and his father, James C. Brady, both now dead.

Taking up the reins of the family fortune, he is about to succeed his uncle on the boards of directors of a list of companies that makes up much of the "blue book" of American industry. Already he is a director of

ATTORNEYS TO CONFER

SALEM, Ore., July 23 (AP)—City Attorney Trindle will confer with City Attorney Frank S. Grant of Portland relative to the Oregon statute concerning street vacations by city councils. The Oregon Pulp & Paper company seeks the vacation of a part of trade street so that it may build an extension to the plant. A petition of protest has been filed. Trindle believes the protest, under the law in the case, is a complete barrier to the vacation unless the paper company produced a petition signed by two-thirds of the citizens of the city over 21 years old.
