Don Moe Winner In Opening Test Of Title Defense

BEVERLY COUNTRY CLUB, Chicago, July 23 (AP)—Don Moe of Portland, Oregon, made a successful start in defense of his western amateur golf championship today by defeating Vincent Huntington of Chicago, 3 and 2, in the first round of play.

The youthful champion played the 16 holes in three strokes over par while his less experienced rival was six over perfect figures. Moe led two up at the turn and ended the battle with a par four on the sixteenth green.

Moe played the first three holes in par to snatch a one-up lead. The sun beamed and only a slight breeze swept the course.

A three putt by the champion on the fourth, where he took a five on the par four hole, squared the match. They halved the fifth with par threes and the short sixth with fours, one over par.

The champion broke the deadlock on the par 5 seventh with a sparkling birdie. Another birdie 3 on the eighth where he holed out a long putt sent Moe two up. The ninth was the nine in even par.

Pears Arrive On Oregon Markets; Digging Spuds

PORTLAND, Ore., July 23 (AP) — Trade in butter and eggs has slackened somewhat following the brisk demand which characterized it for a few days. High grade eggs still had an appeal for some of the trade. Prices were fairly steady for both products.

Reviewing the fruit and vegetable situation, the Portland bureau of the U. S. department of agriculture says:

California Bartlett pears made their initial appearance on the Portland market this week, moving to retailers at $3.00 per box of medium to large fancy stock. Cantaloupes are firm, with some price advances over last week's levels. Higher prices have not curtailed consumption however, according to local distributors.

Demand for loganberries on the farmers' early market was easier and prices dropped considerably. Canners continue to receive a few black raspberries, but the season is virtually completed.

Harvesting of early potatoes—reds and Cobblers—in Washington, is being completed this week, and Netted Gems are now being dug in limited volume.

Receipts of tomatoes from The Dalles were the heaviest of the season, and prices declined to $1.50 per box. Lemons advanced $1.00 per box.

No Arguments Provided For Two Measures

SALEM, Ore., July 23 (AP) — The anti-cigaret bill and the bill providing for the filling of vacancies in the state legislature will appear in the voters' pamphlet with neither affirmative or negative arguments. The period for filing negative arguments expired Tuesday. The period for filing affirmative arguments had previously expired.

No negative arguments were filed on the two companions measures providing for the licensing of motor vehicles according to age, on the bill repealing the state guarantee of interest statute applying to reclamation district, the bill providing $500 salaries for members of the legislature and the bill providing for a lieutenant governor.

The Commercial Fisheries association, the Macleay Estate company and the State Federation of Labor filed negative arguments on the bill to close the Rogue river to commercial fishing.

The state grange bill providing for the organization of water and power utility districts brought negative arguments yesterday signed by W. S. U'ren of Portland, the Greater Oregon association, and 191 persons headed by J. C. Ainsworth of Portland.

An argument was filed by the Greater Oregon association against the state income tax bill.

A legislative interim committee filed a negative argument on the state cabinet form of government bill, and another negative on the bill was signed by the State Federation of Labor and several railroad workers' organizations.

misrepresentation during the last seven months."

Walter B. Cary, chairman of the recall committee, announced his organization is going out of existence with its purpose of "rebuking an unfaithful administration" accomplished.

Mayor Bowles, who rose from political obscurity to head of the fourth city in the United States within five years, was elected last November as a reform candidate, with the support of the anti-saloon league and similar organizations.

He appointed Harold H. Emmons, prominent attorney and business man, police commission and later made Gillispie commissioner of public works. This latter appointment was said to have turned many of Mayor Bowles' supporters against him.

Discharges Emmons

The mayor returned from attending the Kentucky derby last May to find his police commissioner had authorized a sweeping series of raids on race handbook agencies against which a newspaper crusade had been waged for weeks.

He discharged Emmons.

This precipitated the recall movement with charges he had "tolerated lawlessness" and "fired Emmons for enforcing the law," heading the list of accusations.

Prairie Creek Families Join In Picnic Sunday

By Leona Thornburg
(Observer Correspondent)

JOSEPH, Ore. (Special)—A picnic was thoroughly enjoyed Sunday down on the Minam near the old fish hatchery by the Conrad and Varney families of Upper Prairie creek. Going from here, were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Varney, daughter, Violet and sons, Vester and Otis; Mrs. William Conrad and sons, Bill and Vernie; also a niece of Mrs. Conrad's, Miss Blanche Conrad. Mrs. J. Anson of La Grande, sister of Mrs. Conrad met the party at Minam and returned home with them that evening. She will visit here a few days before returning to her home in La Grande.

Willis Walker, of Yakima, Wash., is back in Joseph visiting old friends this week. He was a resident of Joseph until last fall when he left with several others of Joseph and Enterprise to work for the Pacific Power and Light company at Astoria. He was then transferred to Yakima and will return there in about a week but has three or four days work to do here in Joseph for the same company.

If the weather permits, the majority of the farmers will have their first crop of hay taken care of by the end of the week. Only a very few fields will be left.

The storage water in the Wallowa lake seems to be holding out better than was first expected and according to last reports, there will be enough water to irrigate all the second crops of hay.

There are more men around Joseph looking for work than there are jobs just now, but the fall grain in the lower valley will soon be ready to harvest and there may then be enough work for all; although the main harvest will not begin until the spring grain is ripe. There was a shortage of laboring men here last year, due to so much construction work. About 40 men were employed by the Pacific Power and Light company in building their plant in Joseph and laying the pipe line. Also, a number of men were required in enlarging the dam at the foot of the Wallowa lake.

Highway construction has been progressing very rapidly the past two weeks on lower Prairie creek. They now have the road all graded and ready to gravel from the road going south and joining the Sheep Creek highway at the Fred Marks house. They then, plan to gravel the Valley Loop road, beginning where it leaves the Sheep Creek highway and going as far as they can before cold weather forces them to abandon the work for this year. The Valley Loop road is also a mail route, besides being traveled by a number of people all the year.

The L. E. Thornburg family was picking pie cherries Monday afternoon from the orchard owned by Wm. Marr, of Joseph. Not all the cherries are ripe yet but those that are seem in very fine condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Meek, of Upper Prairie creek, were in Joseph on business Monday afternoon.

Mr. Johnson and J. Justice, of Enterprise, made a business trip to Joseph Monday.

Mrs. William Freedenburg and daughter, Frances, of Lower Prairie creek, who were shopping in Enterprise Monday stopped in Joseph for a few minutes on their return home.

The fear of a hard freeze which would damage the grain here has been eliminated for a while by the return of the hot sunny weather. Although not as warm as a couple of weeks ago, the weather has been quite hot for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Laird and daughter, Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Foster, Mrs. Geo. Boner, Mrs. S. A. Foster and Mrs. Loretta Simon and son, Alton, all of Joseph, motored to Lick creek Sunday, where they spent the day fishing. They went as far as Lick creek in their cars and then walked on down to the Imnaha. They caught a number of fish and everyone had a very enjoyable time.

Among those from Joseph, who were picnicking and fishing at Lick creek and down on the Imnaha Sunday were Russel Blevans, Larry and Mary Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Lra Waterman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keener and daughters, Alta, Shirley and Frances, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Reams and son, Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Blevans. Mr. Keener succeeded in landing a small salmon while the rest of the party caught a number of nice trout.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Spencer and children from California visited over the weekend at the Paul Wilson home in Joseph. Mr. and Mrs. Epencer wefe Joseph residents several years ago. Mr. Spencer was an electrician here.

John D.'s Cousin Quietly Laboring

CHICAGO (AP)—Up along the lake shore, where a man with a liking for the sea may hear white-caps breaking, William Avery saws boards, drives nails and admits he is a second cousin of John D. Rockefeller.

John D.'s mother was an Avery, first cousin of William Avery's father, and she lived on a neighboring farm in New York state. Avery remembers that Rockefeller, as a boy, visited his Uncle Solomon's farm.

Although he has been a carpenter for 44 years, Avery's hobby has been upon the water.

In the summer of 1893 he invited his girl friend out for a sail. A storm blew up and the boat capsized. The girl was battling with the waves when Avery tried to reach her.

"Better let me go, Bill," she shouted, "you're getting weak." But Bill didn't let her go. They were married 35 years ago.

He has sailed in hundreds of races. He was skipper of the Cherry Circle in 1907, racing for the Lipton cup. He defeated Commodore Price's crack boat, the "Spray." He also flew with many aviation pioneers.

"THE SOCK" IS ACTIVE

PORTLAND, Ore., July 23 (AP)—"The Sock," Portland's most elusive and notorious gunman, effected his 25th holdup last night, taking $116 in his second robbery of the O. K. rental service. Two weeks ago "The Sock" held up the place and took $75.

Termed "The Sock" because he places the money in a long, brown, narrow canvas sack, the bandit has been sought by police for two months.

Visitors Many At Grave Of War Chieftain's Wife

ROME, Ga. (AP)—Many visitors come to Myrtle Hill cemetery here to see the well kept grave of Ellen Louise Axson Wilson, first wife of America's war president.

The lot in which Mrs. Wilson is buried is in a prominent position in the cemetery. It always has been well cared for.

The grave is marked by a beautiful marble monument, executed by the Tiffany studios in New York, after designs approved by President Wilson himself. This labor of love was performed by President Wilson during his lifetime and at his own expense.

Mrs. Wilson rests beside the grave of her father, the Rev. S. E. Axson, who for 17 years was pastor of the Rome Presbyterian church. Buried in the family plot also is Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Jane Axson.

The stones marking the graves of Mrs. Wilson's parents and the marble tomb to the war president's first wife stand on the southwest slope of Rome's beautiful hilltop cemetery.

The monument to Mrs. Wilson bears this inscription:

"Sacred to the memory of Ellen Louise Axson, beloved wife of Woodrow Wilson, Born, 15 May, 1863, Savannah, Ga. Died, 6 August, 1914, Washington, D. C.

"A traveller between life and death
The reason firm the temperate will
Endurance foresight strength and skill
A perfect woman nobly planned
To warn to comfort and command
And yet a spirit still and bright
With something of angelic light."

The Rome Chamber of Commerce recently adopted resolutions asking the City of Rome of improve the roadways leading to the grave of Mrs. Wilson. A recommendation also was made that a new sexton's office be erected and located at the main entrance of the cemetery so that some one would be available at all times to give information and directions to those visiting the cemetery.

"Peace Policy" Marks Alaskan Political Joust

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—No more are chips to grace the shoulders of Alaska politicians in dealing with the federal government.

Sobered by the economic depressing caused by loss of population following the world war, a policy of soft persuasion is planned.

A new delegate to congress will be elected this November, and republicans, who dominate Alaska, have chosen Judge James Wickersham to be their envoy of peace.

Wickersham 10 years ago retired from politics after serving the territory 12 years in Washington.

Now 73, he has been the center of much controversy in 40 years of growing up with the territory. Always champion of local interests, he takes the name republican, but actually has been a whole party by himself.

He expects to "get along more peacefully" with the national administration, if elected, than did Dan Sutherland, whose 10 years at Washington have been stormy.

Opposing Wickersham is his old political foe, George B. Grigsby.

Grigsby is the only democrat ever to go to congress for Alaska. The house of representatives finally decided the post he held in 1919-21, rightfully belonged to Wickersham, after the judge contested the election.

With half of the population of Alaska natives, the Indian vote is an important element and in a close election, which possibly can occur this fall, probably would be a deciding factor.

Wickersham always has had their backing. He is retained as attorney by several tribes in their fight to obtain payments from the government for "their land" as Indians have been paid in the United States.

Wickersham has spent most of the last 10 years in quiet seclusion occupied with writing, completing a bibliography of Alaska and studying Russian to decipher musty records of the first settlements.

SHIP'S SAFETY FEARED

MARSHFIELD, Ore., July 23 (AP)—Fear was expressed in shipping circles today that disaster may have overtaken the coast steam schooner Tiverton, now 72 hours over due here. The freighter in command of Captain A. Madsen, with a crew of sixteen, left Eureka for Coos Bay Saturday afternoon and should have reached here Sunday morning.

No word has been received nor has any trace of the vessel been seen by other ships.

Farm Population Drops; Output Is Gaining, However

By Frank I. Weller
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

WASHINGTON (AP)—The exodus of workers from the farm to the city will increase rather than diminish in the future, and yet farm production will not suffer as a result.

That is the conclusion drawn by the American Research Foundation after a survey of the shifting agricultural population.

"The drift of population from the farm to the city need cause the United States no concern over agriculture's future," the foundation says, "since fewer farmers are now actually doing more work and producing greater crops."

More widespread adoption of power machinery is given as the reason a shrinking farm population is able to maintain and even increase agricultural production. Between 1870 and 1929 the acreage farmed per worker increased 48 per cent and the production in dollars per man increased 419 per cent.

In colonial times 95 per cent of the economic producing population was farmers, yet they produced scarcely enough to feed and clothe their families. In 1920 the agricultural population was 330 per cent of the total, whereas today it is estimated at less than 24 per cent.

"By 1950 there probably will be 150 million people in the United States," the foundation predicts, "yet they will be fed by fewer farmers than were required to feed the nation's 25,000,000 inhabitants in 1850."

The largest single development contributing to the farmers' augmented production capacity is the increasing use of trucks, petroleum driven tractors and other power machinery.

Only 11,600 trucks were manufactured in 1912. In 1929 approximately 200,000 were made and the number operated on American farms is approaching the 1,000,000 mark.
