For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, that he would grant that Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, may be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; and to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God.—Eph. 3:14, 17-19.

GOOD TASTE

At a recent convention of merchants it was the consensus of opinion that the tastes of the American people have improved greatly in the last few years and that they are constantly growing more discriminating.

Better taste on the part of the buying public imposes on manufacturers and merchants and their organizations the duty of keeping pace both with their products and their own powers of discrimination between what is in good and what is in bad taste.

In this connection it is interesting to consider the change that has been gradually transforming the relationships between individuals and the nations, and it is safe to say that the same influences which have brought about the advancement in "taste" have been at work in moulding character so that we are becoming more and more interested in the welfare of others.

AUTOMOBILES AND PROSPERITY

Figures from the world census of automobiles recently completed prove that it is actually possible for every man, woman and child in the United States to be provided with space in an automobile at the same time without crowding.

These statistics explain the nation's traffic problems, and indicate the vast sums that must be expended each year upon highway construction and maintenance.

MRS. JOHANNA GANGLOFF

To write words of appreciation that will adequately express the feelings of the family and friends of the one who has so recently passed on is more than a task for one who has so recently come into the community.

In reading the history of her useful life and in listening to the words of praise being spoken by those who knew her we wish to join in a tribute to this one who braved the difficulties that beset the early settler, and who entered into all the experiences of life with a desire to be helpful; continuing interested and active to the end.

The gift to the city of the park, which bears her name, was an expression of her thoughtfulness for everyone who makes this city their home or passes through on the highway.

It is a benediction to all when one lives a useful life and through the experiences comes to the closing days with courage and hope for the future.

What then is courtesy? It is doing the many little things towards making one's pathway just a little easier; it is having due regard for the other person's rights and feelings.

There can be no doubt as to the value of true courtesy as a business asset. Many men have climbed high in the business world because of their courtesy and respect to their associates and customers.

In Washington

By Herbert Plummer WASHINGTON—Presenting one of the outstanding members of the widely-heralded "young guard" group in the United States senate.

He was nationally known long before he was appointed to the senate to fill the unexpired term of Charles Curtis, who left his seat to become vice-president of the United States.

He set up in Kansas a court of industrial relations while governor—a tribunal composed of three appointed judges who had jurisdiction over all labor disputes in the state.

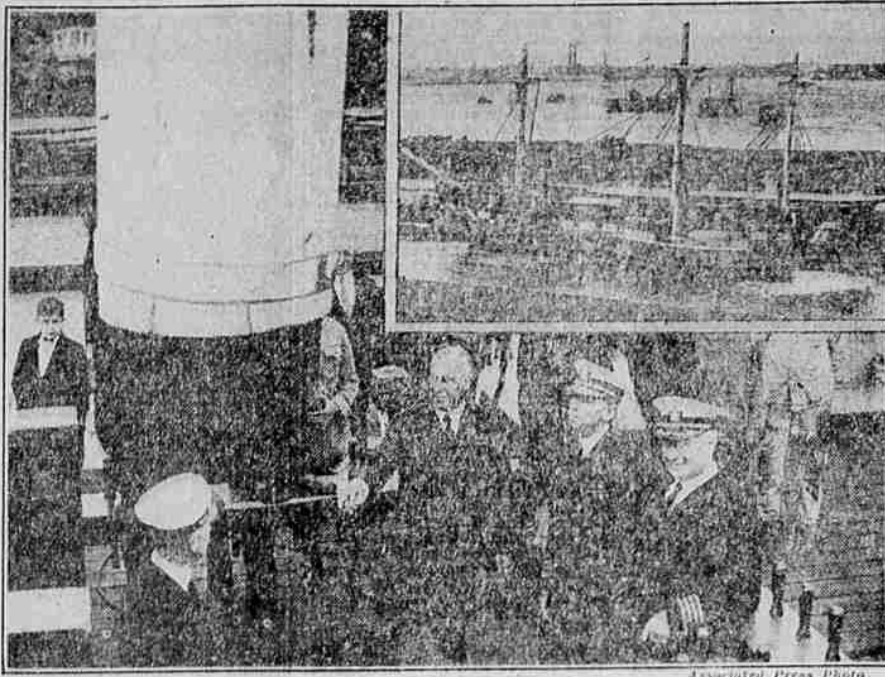

And he got into a controversy with the war department over the conduct of the battle of the Argonne.

The first brought a system of protest from labor leaders and prompted them to stamp the state asking for his defeat.

In the second, he charged that the war department was withholding the truth about the battle of the Argonne; that American troops did not have adequate artillery and airplane support, and as a result many were needlessly slain when they ran into their own barrage, and at the hands of the Germans.

He defied the war department again during the war while serving with the Red Cross overseas. He insisted on writing parents of slain soldiers, while army officials insisted that no word be sent until the names appeared on the casualty lists. His stand is characteristic of the man.

OLD IRONSIDES READY FOR SEA DUTY AGAIN

The famous frigate Constitution after three years of reconstruction is ready for sea duty again. Gov. Frank G. Allen of Massachusetts is shown placing a silver dollar under the keel of the mainmast before it was stepped into place. At right is Rear Adm. L. M. Nulton, commanding officer at the Charleston navy yard, Boston, where the ship is being reconstructed.

His love of principle is evidenced by the fact that when he was governor of Kansas he ordered the arrest of his bosom friend, William Allen White, editor-author of Emporia.

White displayed a card in the window of his office expressing sympathy for strikers. Allen termed it a "conspiracy to intimidate workers."

SOME MONTHS later, however, he dismissed the suit, over White's protest.

He built the first skyscraper in Kansas—a 10-story structure in Wichita to house his newspaper.

He makes his home while in Washington at the capital's most fashionable hotel with his wife and daughter. He plays golf frequently and seriously. One of his favorite companions on the links is Senator Arthur Capper, Kansas' other senator. They call each other by their first names, and one would rather beat the other at golf than get a favorite bill through congress.

PASSION PLAY TO BE SEEN IN WALLA WALLA WALLA WALLA, Wash. (Special)—In 1928 a total of 60,000 Americans traveled to Freiburg, Germany, to witness the world's oldest Passion Play. In 1930 residents of the Inland Empire need travel only a short distance for on August 4, 5 and 6 the Freiburg Players will present the Passion Play at the Walla Walla stadium under the auspices of the Walla Walla Park and Civic Arts club.

The players are now in Seattle and it was only through the kindness of their musical director, Harold Loring, for Walla Walla where he lived 31 years ago that arrangements were made for bringing them here on their way east.

In 1924 the inhabitants of Freiburg first presented a Passion Play and they have given it periodically in Freiburg as well as nearly every city in Europe. The company was brought to America to dedicate the great Krug Park bowl in St. Joseph, Missouri, in August, 1928. In eight evenings more than 100,000 people paid admissions. They next visited St. Louis where in eight evenings more than 80,000 people attended. Walla Walla will be the smallest town in the entire world where this play will be presented.

The production begins with a prologue depicting Adam and Eve in the Garden and the Fall of Man. This is followed by a tableau of the Glorification of the Cross. The great drama of the Passion of Christ closes with the Resurrection and the singing of the mighty "Hallelujah Chorus" from the "Messiah."
