"Is baseball better off with the so-called lively ball? Are the games more interesting now than in the old days of more scientific, inside stuff?"

I put these questions to John Arnold Heydler at Chicago where the major league managers gathered recently and drew a quick reply from the National league's able chief executive, the man who came up from printer, score-keeper and umpire to the presidency of the league.

"It's a better game now than ever," said Heydler, who might have been expected to favor the old-time game with which he grew up. "It's faster and more interesting to watch. The fans like freer scoring, home runs and more action. They are getting it."

"Of course everyone can't be pleased but I venture to say that if the fans had an immediate choice between the home run and the squeeze play, the vast majority would elect the modern type, with its wider range of variety."

One of the outstanding developments of the National league race to President Heydler has been the strong showing of the supposedly hopeless Boston Braves. Brooklyn's uprising was not entirely unexpected, even though the Robins have sustained their drive much longer than was figured.

The Braves, however, were unanimously consigned to last place by all who inspected them before the season began. Even Bill McKechnie, taking hold as manager, was at wit's end to figure a respectable line-up, yet he has somehow found the combination of power and pitching skill, age and youth, sufficient to keep the club within striking distance of the first division.

In Heydler's opinion this ranks among the outstanding managerial achievements of 1930.

Horton Smith, in spite of a great getaway over the bunkered route, missed the main goal in the American Open golf championship this year but the tall, handsome Missourian moved up closer to the top.

Interlachen marked Horton's fourth bid for the Open crown and his best so far. He was tied for forty-fourth at Oakmont in 1927, tied for twenty-eighth at Olympia Fields in 1928, and tenth at Winged Foot last year, eight strokes behind Jones.

This year Horton finished third, five strokes back of Bobby. While he was leading, by two strokes, at the end of 36 holes, it looked as though the youthful pro might crash through to duplicate the feat of Jones in capturing the tournament on his fourth attempt.

The Atlanta amateur first competed in the Open in 1920 at Inverness and scored his first victory in 1923 at Inwood.

Thus another record is safe for Jones and Georgia—but Smith and Missouri may not have to wait many more years for something to cheer about.

Horton is only 22 now, with a great competitive record behind him, a fine temperament and splendid shot-making talent as his main assets.

that the city ordinances do permit them, we wish to recommend that the city ordinance be followed strictly as to the materials to be used and the type of buildings to be constructed; second, we urgently recommend that the city commissioners should not abolish any of the present loading zones now established in the city, or any part thereof; for the use of any private business whatsoever. Nor should the city lease any loading or parking space on this business street today, and in the event they grant any permits that require driving approaches from Adams avenue between Fourth street and Greenwood street, that the approaches be confined to the smallest possible space."

Mears Waiting For Better Weather

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 24 (AP)—John Henry Mears, globe trotter, waited today for good weather between New York and Harbor Grace, N. F., and hoped to get away by Saturday or Sunday morning on the first leg of a flight whose route runs "round the world."

His monoplane "City of New York," which will be piloted by Henry J. Brown, lately an air mail pilot out of Cleveland, has been ready since its final checking at Hartford, Conn., last Friday.

DIES OF ANTHRAX

CHICAGO, July 24 (AP)—The death of John Bloch, 48 years old, from a disease diagnosed as anthrax, puzzled the coroner's office today.

Anthrax is a virulent, febrile disease of cattle, sheep and horses, rare among humans except those working in wool or hair or handling the hides of infected beasts. Bloch's work as a clerk required him to handle nothing by which the disease is usually communicated.

Close Easy; Stock Market Is Weary

NEW YORK, July 24 (AP)—The stock market appeared weary today from the excessive bullish stimulation of yesterday and prices turned distinctly heavy in the final dealings although pivotal stocks were fairly well supported most of the day. Trading was close to the smallest volume of the year.

American Can. and radio closed off one point; U. S. Steel 1 1/2; American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and Columbia Gas 2. Allied Chemical and Eastman Kodak 3 and U. S. Industrial alcohol 8. General Motors and Standard of New Jersey sagged only fractionally. Atlantic refining was a strong spot, closing up 1/2. The close was easy, sales approximately 1,800,000 shares.

Storm Threatening Endurance Fliers

ST. LOUIS, July 24 (AP)—Storm clouds threatened today as Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien began their fourth day of sustained flight in an effort to recapture the refueling endurance record, so they took on an extra supply of gasoline in anticipation of "a bad day."

They started their fourth day at 7:11 a. m. central standard time, when they had been up seventy-two hours. Their plane, the "Greater St. Louis" was functioning perfectly.

33, long a storm center in Berkeley county's politics, was shot and seriously wounded as he stood before the post office here today.

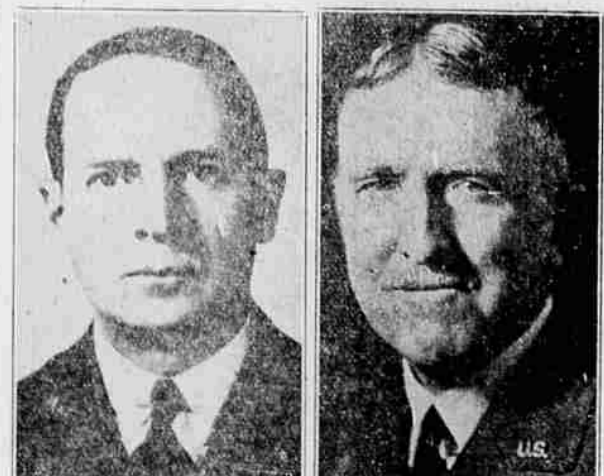

W. L. Thornley, of Monks Corner, was arrested and charged with the shooting. He refused to make any statement.

OLDEST CITIZEN DIES

PENDLETON, July 24 (AP)—Unattainable county lost its oldest man today in the passing of Robert Parnell, 98, from infirmities of old age. He was a Civil war veteran under General Sterling Price.

A liquor raid by Shawnee county, Kas., officials ended suddenly when they opened a beehive, thinking it might contain rum.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the large, dry, evacuation bowl called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug store. Glass Drugs, Inc.—Adv.
