Turkish Tornado Fatal to Twenty

ISTANBUL, Turkey, July 28 (AP)—A tornado and hailstorm killed 20 persons and injured hundreds in Adrianople yesterday. Eighty per cent of the houses were destroyed and crops in the surrounding country were ruined. Nine minarets crashed to the ground, as did the tops of the four minarets atop the famous mosque of Sultan Selim, one of the greatest treasures of Moslem art. The Red Crescent Society, or Turkish Red Cross, has rushed aid from Istanbul.

Domestic Wheat Markets Firmer During the Week

WASHINGTON, July 28—Domestic wheat markets developed a weak ending during the week ending July 25, under a continued export inquiry and some slackening in the movement of new winter wheat, according to the Weekly Grain Market Review of the United States bureau of agricultural economics. Corn prices advanced sharply, influenced by reports of serious deterioration of the crop as a result of drought and hot weather. The advance in corn strengthened the market for oats and barley. Rye was stronger with wheat while flax held steady, reflecting the less favorable prospects for the new domestic crops.

Wheat Markets—Crop prospects in the Northern Hemisphere were generally maintained, with improvement in some areas offsetting less favorable prospects in other sections. Spring wheat in the United States and Canada was benefited by rains, particularly where deterioration from drought has been most rapid. The domestic crop, however, has tipped early in many areas as a result of heat and dry weather, and is therefore beyond the point where rains will be of much benefit. An average crop is in prospect in Minnesota, but prospects are only fair in South Dakota and range from fair to poor in Montana, according to trade reports. The North Dakota crop is spotted, with prospects excellent in the northern part, fair in the southern section of the state. Prospects for spring wheat in the Canadian provinces were improved by showers and are materially better than a year ago. The outlook in Manitoba is promising. Conditions in Saskatchewan are variable with the condition of the crop good on fallow ground but fair to poor on planted and stubble land. More moisture is needed to maintain present prospects. Conditions in Alberta were improved by rains during the week, but some permanent damage has occurred.

Little Change in Europe—European crop prospects have shown but little change during the week. Trade reports, however, continue to indicate irregular yields with the quality below that of last season when the quality of the crop was unusually good. The French crop is generally good, the French crop is generally good, the French crop is generally good. The quality of the Hungarian crop is good, but yields have been materially reduced by the dry weather. Early samples of Yugoslavian wheat range from poor to fairly good. Early threshing returns in Czechoslovakia are below earlier expectations. Conditions in northwestern Europe, however, continue generally good, with the outlook for wheat crops improved by recent rains. While export demand for North American wheat has improved, overseas shipments are still below a year ago. Shipments for the week totaled approximately 7,500,000 bushels, compared with about 7,800,000 bushels for the corresponding week last year. Southern Hemisphere exports for the week were less than half those of a year ago, but part of this loss was made up by shipments from India and Black Sea ports. Russian shipments totaled about a half million bushels. Large quantities of new Russian wheat are reported being offered for August to December shipment at the Liverpool future price. Premiums for quality to be fixed.

Urges La Grande To Advertise Its Assets To World

A tall, polished gentleman from Portland, one of those more successful citizens who are alert to the temper of things business, chatted a bit in the La Grande hotel last Friday night after the Oregon Titlemen's banquet, and wondered why in the world somebody doesn't do something about La Grande.

He was Ralph M. Calk, a young man who has gone and got himself pretty well known as an attorney, along with his father, Judge Will Calk. They are the Portland firm of Calk and Calk. Mr. Calk spoke yesterday afternoon before the Titlemen on the examiner's viewpoint. He was representing the Commonwealth Trust and Title company and the Equitable Savings and Loan, of Portland. What he meant about La Grande was that there has to be a city progress in its development are generally slipped up on. Opportunity to reach tourists and rubbing sealers is passed by regularly, he said, when the city does not have a thorough advertising system. Not that there has to be any ballyhoo or too-rosy propaganda about it, he pointed out. Simply that they know the real fine things that you have here for home-making. You know, today it isn't simply the 'growth' idea that appeals. It has become a question of what a community has to offer in real worth—and most certainly La Grande has a great deal of it. I think your own citizens don't quite realize what a superior place you offer. Reach more people with information about your town and its location and its beauty. So advised the Portland attorney who, it seems, is closely in touch with the work that has been done in Portland in such programs of intelligent educating people on what Portland actually holds.

But there was one suggestion, made by the visitor, that he admitted a little later didn't hit so sore a spot. He pointed out that Portland is just now spending great sums on building, as a thoroughly sound economic means of meeting the present situation. Thereupon Mr. Calk was taken to the city of La Grande, and commended the wisdom of La Grande's in such a construction policy.

Mr. Calk was bound for Boise on business and left early this morning for Idaho. He called on a number of friends—both his own and his well known father's—while in La Grande. Just now Mr. Calk is marking time until he will hit for the tall trees and the fierce streams of the Bend country, there to spend a week deer hunting. Mr. Calk is a graduate of the University of Oregon and was a member of Phi Gamma Delta there.

Gehlbach Leads Air Derby With Last Lap Ahead

LOS ANGELES, July 28 (AP)—A crew of mechanics tuned up twelve tiny airplanes today for the last half of the all-American air derby which reached the Pacific coast yesterday with Lee Gehlbach, of Little Rock, Ark., former army pilot, leading with a total elapsed flying time of 26:17:25.

A week ago, twenty-five pilots left Detroit on a swing around the world, but less than half this number reached the Metropolitan airport yesterday after covering approximately 4,000 miles. In their wake were thirteen ships which fell by the wayside in crumplings.

The pilots will lay over here until Wednesday to overhaul their ships and take a needed respite from the strain of the race. They, by one-day jumps, will roll eastward through Ogden, Omaha and Chicago, ending the race at Detroit, where about $50,000 in prize money awaits the winners. Gehlbach held a comfortable lead of more than two hours over J. P. Weddell, of New Orleans, who jockeyed into second place with a time of 28:51:41, when Stubb Quinby, of Denver, Ill., did a Prince of Wales jump over a rut in the landing field at Douglas, Ariz., Sunday morning and wrecked his ship. He came out unharmed and also out of the race in which he held second place.

RACE DRIVER KILLED ROCKVILLE, Ind., July 28 (AP)—Frank Jenkinson, of Lafayette, Ind., race driver, was killed when his car skidded off a turn of the Jungle Park track yesterday.
