government helping in the manufacture but providing testing of dairy cows for production. It is the ambition of the New Zealand farmers to make a 300 pound butter fat production to the acre, and Mr. Dana stated that the present best production to the acre of pasture land was 260 pounds. This requires that about one cow be allowed to an acre on each dairy farm. The talk by Mr. Dana was well received.

Business Meeting Held The business meeting presided over by Tom Johnson, during which time the board of directors for this section was elected as follows: North Powder, Jack Gorham; Cove, Tom Johnson; Union, Walter Noyes; Elgin, J. E. Witherspoon, and La Grande, Ernest DeLong. Mr. Johnson was elected chairman of the board of directors. There was a prolonged discussion concerning the location of the creamery at Union but no new action was taken. A picnic luncheon was an enjoyable event of the day.

Press Comment

THE MAN AND HIS JOB Commenting on "Technological unemployment" the Albany Democrat-Herald observes: "The boy of today who starts out on life's journey depending on a strong back and a stout arm will find before he gets very far that he has not a ghost of a chance. Everywhere he will find himself in a deadly and ineffectual encounter with machines. Everywhere will he meet defeat. There is much of truth in this observation of the accomplished writer on the Democrat-Herald. The world of today as never before calls for adequate preparation and full equipment if one is to achieve success in the highly competitive environment which youth now enters. However the tragedy is not limited to those whose sole assets are a strong back and a stout arm in the industrial displacements of today. The tragedy is even deeper in the case of the trained men whose services are displaced through mechanical invention. In many cases skilled labor is thrown out on the streets while men and women who are mere automatons are called in to tend some machine which does a better job than the former artisan and does it faster. In fact critics of the machine age forecast a time when a few highly skilled engineers and technologists will be at the top and the great mass of men and women will be far below, with the intermediate grades of mechanic and artisan will be largely extinguished. In that event the trade which one acquired through long years of apprenticeship would be worthless to him. The skilled workman might even find himself at a disadvantage with the unskilled who could go through automatic motions with less thoughtfulness but greater swiftness. In that event ignorance would be no handicap and the lack of preparation which the Albany editor decries would be no bar to success. This forecast may be too gloomy, but the uncertainty of great uncertainty for the young man who sets out to choose a trade and train himself for its pursuit. Sometimes we think the specialized training of our schools and universities has gone too far. Our colleges are turning out far more engineers and journalists and lawyers than the market can absorb. We observe it particularly in the field of journalism. So many are crowding into this calling by the route of schools of journalism that they are unable to get places when they graduate. They must turn to something else. So we find trained engineers running service stations, warehouses, clerking in railroad offices, or working at employment far different from what they were trained to engage in. Vocational guidance does much in enabling youth to avoid callings for which he is ill-fitted; but we have not yet reached that stage in our vocational adjustment where men and women are trained to a line of endeavor may find proper placement, with any assurance that their occupations will be durable through their lifetime. —Salem Statesman on a delayed landing to avoid the necessity of valving of valuable gas to effect a landing in the full heat of mid-afternoon. St. Hubert is an excellent field, large and with all modern facilities, but it is a strange field to most of the men on the R-100, and it was plausible that these men preferred to take no chance merely for the purpose of making a slightly better time record. The morning must be, according to officers at the field, the last of the year, but there has never been used in an actual morning operation. Royal Canadian mounted police in their scarlet coats and yellow striped black breeches patrolled the field today, keeping all but those with official business behind the high wire fences which cannot be passed by the general public until the ship is safely swinging at its lofty mast. But there were few to be kept back—fewer visitors, in fact, during the first part of the day than there were police and soldiers. Canada seemed to be looking on the safe accomplishment of the other country's latest achievement in aerial progress as a foregone conclusion. There were no indications up to early afternoon that there would be any such crowd as stormed the naval reservation at Lakehurst, N. J., when the German Graf Zeppelin made its first crossing to America.

SKY LINER IS DUE TONIGHT AT MONTREAL

The guard at the field was not relaxed, however, for officials were convinced that as arrival time approached, thousands would jam the narrow road from the rear and the excursion trains leaving the city at frequent intervals throughout the day.

PASSENGER FATHER POINT

ST. HUBERT, Que., July 31 (AP)—The R-100 passed Father Point, Quebec, on its flight up the St. Lawrence river at noon (E. S. T.) today, according to a report from the signal service. Father Point is about 175 miles east of Quebec.

PEAR HARVEST BEGINS

THE DALLES, July 31 (AP)—With the harvest of Bartlett pears started at Yakima, Superintendent Day announced today the Libby McNeill and Libby cannery will open Aug. 10 on a heavier than normal pack of pears and apples. "We have a job for every local woman who applies at our plant," Day said. The run is expected to extend past the Christmas holidays.

skill on the part of the window trimmer. "If we might be permitted to make a general suggestion we would recommend that more general attention be given to the cleanliness of the bath inside and outside the store window. In our judgment that the windows ranked as follows: 1. Bohnenkamp's outing window. 2. Falk's window containing the dog. 3. Putnam's east window. Honorable mention: 'The Little Shop,' 'Richardson's Gift Shop,' 'Very truly yours,' 'H. T. VANCE.'

CROWD WILL SCAN SKY AS PLANES COME

erson, who spent yesterday in Wallowa county, said that a much larger crowd was coming from that territory than has been expected, and early estimates are that around 2,000 will gather at or near the field for the event. Grocery stores, meat markets, variety stores, barber shops, shoe stores, clothing stores, drug stores, banks and other business places will close from 12 to 2 o'clock tomorrow, according to a survey made by the Lions club and the chamber of commerce. Tickets may be obtained at the chamber of commerce office and people are urged to purchase them before going to the field as this will help to avoid possible congestion at the field. The Lions club reports that concessions have been let to various persons at the field.

PLANES LEAVE SPOKANE

SPOKANE, Wash., July 31 (AP)—Taking off from Peils field at 10:45 a. m., 37 planes of the Pacific Northwest air tour headed for Moscow, Idaho. After a brief stay here, the ships will spend the night at Lewiston, Idaho, before continuing their demonstration tour. Their arrival here yesterday from Pasco was uneventful, except that Virginia Ogden set her plane down in a field where gas ran short and a delay caused a search to be made. The usual air stunts were performed before the crowd inspected the ships.

Governor Young To Question MacDonald

SACRAMENTO, Cal., July 31 (AP)—Arrangements permitting the interrogation of John MacDonald, recanted by Governor C. C. Young and members of the advisory pardon board were to be made in San Francisco today when Vincent Kennedy, the governor's secretary, confers with Chief Justice William H. Waste and Lieutenant Governor H. L. Carnahan.

Water Feud In Wagontire Area Believed At End

PORTLAND, July 31 (AP)—The famous Wagontire mountain water feud, bitter as it is famous, was believed at an end today. Government officials and the Oregon Humane society were advised last night by federal officers that the disputed waterhole on the Frank Dobkins homestead on Wagontire mountain would be open to the range. Dobkins recently fenced this waterhole at which cattle and horses of the range lands had been able for years to get a drink. Investigation revealed, however, that other waterholes are available in the district. Federal officers here today expected Dobkins would comply with the government order to open the watering place to public use. Refusal on his part, they said, would undoubtedly result in his being called for trial. Attracted Wide Attention The case has attracted wide attention. Last year it opened with a humane society officer cutting Dobkins' fence to permit stock of other ranchers entering the waterhole. This officer said cattle and horses were dying of thirst. Since then it has been discovered other waterholes are available and plentiful. As a result of this disclosure more weight has been given to the charge that the trouble arises from a neighborhood quarrel. George Neuman, United States district attorney, said today Dobkins' fence had been cut open yesterday. Dobkins' attorneys advised him to cut the fence after the secretary of interior failed to allow a rehearing on his decision ordering homestead patents cancelled to part of Dobkins' land surrounding the waterhole.

Paris Launches New Colors And Fabrics

(Associated Press Staff Writer) PARIS, July 31 (AP)—Paris dress-makers, with skirt lengths and silhouettes settled satisfactorily from their viewpoint, are having fun launching new colors and fabrics. Winter styles, which are just seeing the light of day, introduce blues, greens, purples and reds which heretofore have been seen only in the paintings of the old masters. Lusterless wool fabrics for day time wear and rich fabrics for evening, including velvet and metal brocades, crepes and satins, have a color range such as Paris has not seen for many years. The beauty of the colors is accentuated by extensive use of black and white, both for day and evening. The new browns have a mixture of plum and garnet red in their makeup. Wine reds and rich shades of blue, green and purple are important, while dark greens for day wear and lighter for evening are apparently due for a tremendous vogue. One house uses the whole color card in sport costumes made of true Scotch tartans bearing the names of the clans. FASHIONABLE CLUB RAIDED CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—The fashionable Club Huron at 18 E. Huron street under the management of John (Cozy) Dolan, former coach of the New York Giants, was raided by prohibition agents early today and several cases of liquor, wines and beer were seized. Dolan, who figured in the Philadelphia-New York baseball scandal of 1924, was arrested. A dozen well dressed couples, as well as the club hostesses, were not detained. A card index bearing the names, the agents said, of several hundred persons, was seized and the names will be investigated. "FOUNDED ON HEARSAY" CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—The charges of Harry Brundage, St. Louis newspaperman, that Chicago reporters have been engaged in racketeering were described by the county grand jury today as "founded on hearsay" and "containing nothing of an incriminating character."

Unknown Airplane Dives Into Ocean

SAN FRANCISCO, July 31 (AP)—The identity of a large monoplane reported by coast guardsmen as having burst into flames and plunged into the ocean near Point Reyes, 30 miles north of here, remained a mystery today. Coast guardsmen reported the craft appeared shortly after 9 o'clock last night, heading toward San Francisco and flying only 200 feet above the water. A 40 mile northwest wind was blowing. Reaching 'Boolegger's Cove' the plane seemingly caught fire and plunged, guardsmen said. A preliminary check of Pacific coast airports failed to disclose any plane missing. A life saving crew put out from Point Reyes to search for the wreckage.
