Robinson Opens Late Fight For Arkansas Seat

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Issues that figured in the presidential campaign two years ago have sprung up in Senator Joe T. Robinson's first primary contest in 12 years.

Launching a campaign barely two weeks before the primary Aug. 12, after his opponent, Tom W. Campbell, Little Rock lawyer, had stumped practically the entire state, Robinson, the democratic vice-presidential nominee, came out strongly for national prohibition. He also recognized the activities against him of the grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Arkansas.

The vigorous manner in which Senator Robinson plunged into his campaign took the state by surprise. He previously had indicated a course of indifference toward the opposition.

Despite heated aspects the primary race has taken in closing days, it largely has been overshadowed by a well-defined boom for Robinson for the presidential nomination two years hence.

Prohibition boasts of the senator generally are regarded as a move to counteract any impression his presence on the national ticket with Alford K. Smith may have caused.

In the gubernatorial contest, the administration of the $72,000,000 highway building program and the state income tax law enacted last year are dominant issues.

Governor Harvey Parnell, seeking re-nomination, is supporting the highway administration and the income tax law. It is opposed by Brooks Day's, 32-year-old Little Rock lawyer, Judge C. Sheffield, of Helena, and Thornberry Gray, of Batesville.

Little interest has been shown in any of the congressional races except where placed in effect at all shore stations of the coast guard.

DEATH TAKES E. H. STAHLMAN, NOTED EDITOR

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 12 (AP)—Edward B. Stahlman, publisher of the Nashville Banner died today after an extended illness. He was 87 years old.

His illness began in March, 1929 as the result of overwork, and he was forced to take his first vacation. His final relapse occurred a week ago, and up to that time he had kept in close touch with affairs. He was intensely interested in the campaign of his friend, Cordell Hull, who last Thursday was given the democratic nomination for U. S. senator.

As a newspaper publisher, Mr. Stahlman was fearless and never wavered in his bitter political and business fights, despite threats of personal violence made against him.

Besides his newspaper, the Stahlman building, one of Nashville's largest office buildings, stands as a memorial to the fiery publisher who surmounted physical handicaps to rise from day laborer to a place of eminence. He was generally known as the dean of American newspaper publishers.
