Traces of Aged Race Sought In Nebraska Plain

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Traces of men believed to have lived in Nebraska five or ten thousand years ago are sought by the University of Nebraska this summer.

A university party under direction of Dr. W. D. Strong, professor of anthropology, has set out for Eastern and Southern Nebraska. They are cooperating with the Smithsonian Institution.

Five hundred years ago cannibalism or human sacrifice, apparently was practiced near Murray in Cass county. Split and charred remains of human bones are found on dwelling sites there.

Fifteen feet below the present surface near Murray an extensive village site has been revealed by the cutting of a creek. There are two sites, one above the other, separated by two feet of water borne clay. Dr. Strong estimates the age of these villages at 500 years.

He assigns an age of 5,000 to 10,000 years to a site on the Platte river near Ashland. Fossilized bones and crude flint instruments indicate human habitation here.

Some of the bones appear to have been broken and buried. They were found in glacial gravel in a creek bed about 12 feet below the present surface.

"Nebraska," says Dr. Strong, "is located in the heart of the plains culture area and in addition is crossed by two great river valleys which were the roads of prehistoric as well as historic migrations.

"We have already abundant evidence that man has lived in Nebraska many thousands of years, and it is also clear that when we know his history here, much light will be thrown on American archeology generally."

PIANO DOESN'T LIMIT EAR'S HEARING RANGE

GENEVA, Ill. (AP)—Human hearing goes about half an octave lower than the lowest note on a piano, and something more than two octaves above the highest note, says F. W. Kranz of the Riverbank laboratories in a report to the Acoustical Society of America.

Pittsburgh—Joe Dundee, Baltimore, and Buck McTiernan, Swanton, Pa., drew (10).

20% MORE HEAT FROM TON OF COAL

Steel-riveted Lennox Torrid Zone Furnace Has Extra Large Radiator—And It's Gas-tight

Many home owners report a yearly saving of from $30 to $50 in fuel since buying a Torrid Zone Warm Air Furnace. The special oil-burning model saves even more, and is recommended by all oil burner manufacturers.

Design as such as construction is responsible for this economy. The steel plate, which is hot-riveted and cold-calked to prevent leaking of gas, smoke, or dust, conducts heat more quickly than cast iron and is more durable. But it is the efficient design of the fire-pot and radiator which gets more heat from fuel.

The deep fire-pot insures better combustion. The oversized radiator makes the gases and smoke escaping from the fire-pot travel up the chimney—squeezing heat from them every last possible bit of heat.

There are seventy-nine different Torrid Zone types and sizes for heating every different type and size of building—and they burn and save hard coal, soft coal, coke, lignite, wood, gas or oil. Made by the Lennox Furnace Company, Syracuse, N. Y.—Marshalltown, Iowa—Toronto, Canada.

William Haines Grows Up In "The Girl Said No"

"The Girl Said No," William Haines' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking picture, which will open at the State Theatre Wednesday, is said to be a sequel to "Brown of Harvard," one of his earlier hits, and deals with the adventures of a college graduate facing his first year in business life. Haines plays the irrepressible graduate, who starts with a diploma and an assorted collection of college tricks, and is hammered by responsibility and hard work until he becomes a real business man.

Sam Wood, who directed the picture, calls it a "post-graduate course" in life.

Haines starts as a football hero with vast confidence in his knowledge and himself; he faces responsibility when his father dies and leaves him the honor of the family, and his pranks while courting the heroine, Lella Hyams, have lost him his job. Then he sets out in earnest to make good. The climax includes a sensational "rescue" of his sweetheart from the rival she has been coerced to marry, and a real stroke of business that puts him on his feet.

The "rescue" with several hilarious comic angles, the scenes in the brokerage office, showing a typical Wall Street punch, in actual operation, the touching family scenes, the dramatic details of his home life, and the delicious clowning with the heroine, at the night club, are among the highlights of the picture.

Boy Accidentally Shot by Brother

By Leitha Cleaver (Observer Correspondent)

IMBLER, Ore. (Special)—It is reported that Billie Coe accidentally shot his older brother, Lyle Coe, with a shot gun. They were both out hunting for squirrels. Lyle was in the brush and as he stepped out, Billie unfortunately shot. Thirteen pieces of shot have been taken from his face. There are still two remaining in the corner of his left eye. He was taken to the Grande Ronde hospital Friday but is now at his home. The Coes live on the east mountain from Imbler.

William Greybeal, of Irigoin, Ore., is visiting relatives in Imbler. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mathews, of Baker, were visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Welch, last Sunday.

Mrs. C. C. Probst and daughters, Helma May and Marjorie Reil, of Pendleton, were visiting her sister, Mrs. E. J. Hazen, of Imbler. They returned home Sunday evening.

C. C. Welch and J. A. Gaskill, of Imbler, and T. Walsinger, of Albee, went to the wheat growers meeting in Pendleton. Alexander Leggs was the main speaker.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips recently moved to Calltopia, Wash.

The Ladies Aid of Imbler met Aug. 7 at the home of Mrs. Will Ruckman. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. J. A. Gaskill. General business was taken up and plans made for the fall bazaar. There were 12 adults and seven children present. Refreshments were served at the close. The next meeting in September will be held at the home of Mrs. Leona Bingham.

Mrs. Letha Cleaver is in Echo, Ore., visiting for a few days. Mr. Cleaver is working in the harvest over there. Donna Watson is taking up her work until Mrs. Cleaver returns.

IRISH MILLING DECLINES; ERIN BUYS FOREIGN FLOUR

DUBLIN (AP)—The Irish milling trade has suffered a serious decline, and the Free State is now forced to depend mainly on imported flour.

Seven years ago there were 42 flour mills working in the State. Eleven closed down, two others burned down and were not rebuilt.

Twenty-nine mills remain, and two of these, the largest in the state, have recently been purchased by an English company.
