PROTECTING THE BIRDS

Creating refuges or sanctuaries is proving more effective than legislating against hunting in the preservation of wild birds.

The urbanization of many broad regions is destroying lakes, swamps, streams and forests which are the breeding places, havens and feeding places of wild fowl. The sweep of a forest fire, the draining of a lake and consequent loss of shelter for game destroy more birds than the unethical hunter and predatory animals.

If gaps made in the flocks of game birds every hunting season are to be filled up during the breeding season, man must see to it that adequate breeding grounds are preserved or, if destroyed, restored or supplanted by new ones.

Wherever conditions are adapted to their requirements wild creatures will be found. Destroy their refuge and they will not return until it has been restored. Restore an old sanctuary and birds and other game will return as if by the call of some supernatural voice.

All know how easily one can attract wild birds to town yard or country garden by providing food, drink and protection regularly. They are quick to learn where they are wanted and just as instinctively know where they are unwanted.

What the nature lover can do in a small way in attracting birds and small game to his doorstep and arbor, can be accomplished in a large way by the creation of large sanctuaries.

THE BANK'S SERVICE

Bankers and business men realize that the general public is in need of a better understanding of the functions of banking in relation to the interests of the average individual. The public should be acquainted with the fact that banking is just as much a part of its daily needs as are grocery stores and electricity.

The bank is woven into the fabric of everyday existence, so that it is the lifeblood of our social and economic advance. The function and purposes, and in many cases the practices, of banks and financial institutions often are misunderstood or not accurately comprehended, through a lack of knowledge of the reason of their existence, and a lack of understanding of the part they play in the life of the community.

The great extension of the credit system and the payment of bills by checks and drafts, as well as the financing of large business and other enterprises, has given the banking business a new meaning even to the large number of persons who do not make use of the banks for their own personal convenience and the safety of their money.

FOOD AND HEALTH

We should not begrudge the wise expenditure of money for those articles which will add to the health and happiness of the human race, and it is interesting to note that the American people are unanimous in their approval of the change in food products which has taken place in the last few years.

Statistics show that in the past ten years in this country the value of food products consumed yearly has advanced from $14,000,000,000 to $22,000,000,000. This represents the greatest per capita outlay for victuals in the world's history.

There are many factors entering into this achievement and many benefits resulting from it. Transportation, such as the world has never known before, makes it possible for practically every section of the country to enjoy green vegetables and fresh fruits the year round. And this abundance and variety of foods has been one of the great factors in adding nearly a score of years to the average age of men and women.

As a rule a mistake has done a great deal of damage before it can be rectified.

Competition even makes ice dealers warm up towards their customers.

Wife Seeks Sub Trip Under Arctic Ice; 'I Could Be Cook,' Says Lady Wilkins

Susanne Bennett, who is the wife of Sir Hubert Wilkins, hopes to accompany him on his submarine expedition into the arctic.

NEW YORK (AP)—When one's husband has the nervous habit of bobbing off to the world's odd corners where ever letters are impossible, the thing to do is to go with him. So reasons Susanne Bennett, whose husband is Sir Hubert Wilkins. If it's possible, Lady Wilkins means to accompany her explorer-husband when he sets off in a submarine next year to see what's under the Arctic ice. "I really don't see any reason why I shouldn't go," Lady Wilkins said. "I've been down in a submarine and it isn't bad at all. Much safer, I'd think, than an airplane. Women can stand as much hardship as men; in some instances, for they have greater reserve strength. "I wouldn't mind that end of it at all—one couldn't have all the comforts of a New York apartment, but it would be marvellously thrilling. "Besides, I could make myself valuable. I can cook."

Lady Wilkins is on the stage, and the explorer were married about a year ago. Only a few weeks later he went to the Antarctic. This summer they have been in Europe on the "honeymoon." So far Sir Hubert hasn't been exactly won over to the submarine proposition for his wife. "Wait until you see the submarine," he tells her. "But he hasn't said 'no,'" Lady Wilkins points out.

Buying and Selling Your Money

When you deposit money in the bank, you are "selling" the use of that money to the bank. The bank pays you for your money—pays you in service in the case of a checking account, pays you in interest in the case of a savings or certificates of deposit.

Like the merchandise sold by a store owner, the bank in turn sells the use of your money and the money of hundreds of other depositors to people needing and deserving loans. If satisfactory credit has been established, people wishing to "buy" the use of money for a stated period of time can get it in the same way that they can buy merchandise on credit in various stores.

Your bank is a business institution. Money and financial service make up the merchandise it has to sell. Like a store, it must buy goods before it has any to sell. The price it pays you for your money is based on safety, on your lasting satisfaction. The merchandise slogan, "Satisfaction or Your Money Back," always applies when you sell your money to the bank.
