DREAM AND SUCCEED

Dreams are made of star dust, we are told, but a better recipe is suggestion and imagination. Those who can look at a brick and see a castle are builders of a bigger and better world.

To be serviceable an imagination must be exercised. Do you want a suggestion? Look about you; a weed becomes an industry. If you want more encouragement turn to the classified advertisements in this paper, and there you will find an ever changing department store full of opportunities.

The business manager advises you to read classified advertisements when you want a job, a used automobile or a musical instrument, but these things are all at the main entrance of the store. Visit all departments and you will find great treasure stored; uncensored news of human activities, relative values in various columns, heart-throbs and character studies to educate and entertain. Best of all, however, is the stuff that keeps dreams alive.

There are only three kinds of dreams; those that are forgotten, those that never change and those that come true. Mount your wishes on thought and effort and they will ride to realization.

WHAT CAUSES APPENDICITIS?

Insurance people are worrying about the increase of appendicitis as the cause of death in this country. They cite statistics to show that in 60 cities the appendicitis death rate in 1910 was 13.3 per 100,000, and in 1927 it was 17.5. It is a widespread belief that the technique of appendectomy has been vastly improved since 1910.

One explanation of the increasing death rate that may appear reasonable is the decreasing death rate from other diseases. In this world of mortals, people have to die some time, of something, and if the death rate from so many other diseases is being cut, it may be that the death rate from appendicitis is not being lowered proportionately.

However, it may be the worry on the part of the insurance men may in time lead to such an intensive study of the subject that the research laboratories and medical foundations will discover the real cause and provide a remedy.

The only country storekeeper we ever heard of who was not troubled with folks loitering about, was one who had an insurance agency as a side line.

If you want the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, you may get it from either the very old or the very young.

In Washington

By Herbert Plummer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Thomas Terry Connolly, junior United States senator from Texas—a thorough soldier and statesman—has been named in two wars—the Spanish-American and the World War.

He cut his law course to enlist at the outbreak of the first conflict. He left his seat in congress to volunteer again for service in 1918. He came out of the Spanish-American war a regimental sergeant-major, and in the World War he served as a captain and adjutant.

His law degree was conferred on him while he was in camp preparing to go forth for battle.

He has been in the senate only since March of 1929, but he has had 12 years' experience as a congressman, four years as a Texas state legislator and four years as a Texas county prosecutor.

NAMES AND FACES

He probably knows more names and remembers more faces than any man in the senate. He has a remarkable faculty for keeping in mind a man's first name and his initials and so greet him when he meets him.

He is one of the best speakers in the senate. He has a natural gift of oratory. His favorite role is that of a defender of the democratic party and its principles, not only on the floor of the house and senate, but as a campaign speaker in states doubtful for the democrats.

In personal appearance he is impressive. Tall, a little heavy set, coal black hair that is inclined to wave, and always immaculately attired, he is one of the most handsome men in the senate.

Now 53 years old, he started out in life as a "boy". In 1896 he graduated from Baylor university at Waco, Texas, with the degree of bachelor of arts, as well as degrees in oratory and military science. For a while after graduation he worked as a newspaper reporter on what was then the Waco telephone.

Long before he achieved his senatorial post he had been a consistent winner as a member of the lower house and as a state and county official in Texas.

POPULAR

He was twice elected to the state house of representatives before he voluntarily retired to resume his law practice. He was twice elected a county prosecutor before he again retired voluntarily to practice law.

He first came to congress as a member of the house in 1916. He was elected to his seat six times.

In 1928 he entered the race for United States senator and won from a field which included Senator Earl B. Mayfield, Representative Thomas L. Blanton, and Col. Alvin Owsley, former national commander of the American Legion.

He is tremendously popular on both sides of the hill where he is known and hailed by all as "Tom."

He delights to take time off from his duties as senator, slip over to the house side and renew old friendships.

Masons Will Meet In Washington, D. C.

TACOMA, Wash., Sept. 2.—Washington, D. C., was chosen as the 1933 triennial convention city at the concluding session of the 41st triennial convention of the general grand chapter Royal Arch Mason here Friday.

The selection automatically makes Washington the 1933 triennial assembly city for the general grand council, royal and select masters, which holds its meetings every three years in conjunction with the royal Arch Masons.

VACATION IN WARMTH

BOGOTA, Peru.—Because of the cool climate of this tropical capital, incensed residents spend at least two months of each year down in "the hot country," the seacoast region, as near the equator as possible. Traditional tropical heat is reached in three hours by train or auto.

Complete Work On Road Bridge Near Five Points

By Mrs. C. E. Thornburg

KAMELA, Ore. (Special)—Highway work is progressing quite rapidly, with the Kameka-Bodie stretch almost complete. The new bridge near Five Points over the Grande Ronde river is now finished and much work is being done to connect it on both sides with the highway. The course of the river is being changed somewhat, a steam shovel being used to dig out the new channel. Several curves have been eliminated and some fills have been made, between Glovet flat and Perry.

For several days it has been so hot in Kamela that another electricity storm is expected. The nights recently have not been quite so cold as they were a few weeks ago.

Many cars are passing through Kamela at present en route to the Round-Up. Many Kamela people were interested in an article which appeared this week in the "Fred Lockley" column in the Oregon Journal, relating an interview with Ed. McRoberts, 64-year-old Scotch piano tuner, who spent several days in Kamela about two weeks ago.

Tina F. Barnes and daughters, Betty and Melody, returned on Wednesday from Portland after a pleasant visit with relatives there. Mr. and Mrs. W. Lane and daughter, Helen Mae, were La Grande visitors on Tuesday. Mr. Lane, who has been employed on the afternoon shift, is now on morning shift.

J. Carlson, who is not working at present on account of ill health, left on Wednesday to spend a few days in Yakima with his family. Miss Helen Carlson who has been visiting friends here returned home with her father.

Mr. A. Lockett and son, Jimmie, spent Thursday in La Grande.

Mrs. R. Hoehne and children, Johnnie and Lorraine, who have been visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. R. Riggs, while Mr. Hoehne was employed in Kamela grocery store, returned to their home in Meacham on Wednesday. They intended going from there to Pendleton for the Round-Up.

Mrs. F. F. Brooks and grandson, Francis, also Mrs. A. Kenison and children arrived home on Wednesday evening. They enjoyed a motor trip to Portland and Castle Rock, where they visited relatives.

P. Blever, of Kamela, is in Pendleton with the La Grande band during the Round-Up days.

Miss Alta Smith, of Meacham, was in Kamela on business on Thursday. She expects to return to work in Kamela store next week.

H. O. Castel, of Meacham, was a business visitor in Kamela on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. R. Hoehne and family are in Pendleton at present visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Heath, who are former Kamela residents. While there, they will attend the Round-Up. Mr. Hoehne will remain with his grandparents and go to school in Pendleton this winter.

Herbert Castiel spent Friday in Pilot Rock helping his mother move from there to Kamela where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Brown and son, Barton, spent some time in Union last Sunday visiting relatives.

There have been approximately 110 fires in the forests in this region this summer, none of them very serious and almost all of them extinguished. J. P. Irwin, forest service supervisor, was a business visitor in Kamela this week.

Mrs. E. Horstman spent Tuesday in La Grande.

Mrs. B. E. Greaves, of La Grande, spent last weekend at the home of her son, Fred Greaves, in Kamela. Her grandson, Pete Greaves, accompanied her home on Monday spending the day with her.

Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Brooks and grandson, Francis, drove to La Grande on Thursday. They had the misfortune to drag their car on a rock on the highway where construction work is being done necessitating considerable repairs.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kelley, of Perry, and niece, Estelle Lyell, of La Grande, spent last weekend at the home of her son, Fred Greaves, in Kamela. Her grandson, Pete Greaves, accompanied her home on Monday spending the day with her.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thornburg and son, Ian, drove to Baker on Thursday visiting for a short time at the F. Finlayson home there. They were accompanied home by Mrs. E. Thornburg's sister, Mrs. H. Gordon, and nephew, Gordon Hazzett, of Brownlee.

Mrs. C. O. Schubert and daughter, Lillian, and grandson, Donald Johnson, are preparing to leave for Portland this weekend where the children will attend school this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Burton drove to Pendleton on Friday for the Round-Up.

Others attending the Round-Up on Friday from Kamela were Mr. and Mrs. W. Lane and daughter, Helen Mae.

Mr. Kenneth Pierson, of Perry, was a dinner guest on Friday at the home of his sister, Mrs. H. Horstman, in Kamela.

Government Rests Its Case Today

SEATTLE, Sept. 2.—The government concluded its testimony against Roy C. Lyle, former prohibition administrator, and four of his official associates in federal court here today.

Defense counsel for C. T. McKinney, former assistant United States attorney, immediately began argument for a directed verdict of acquittal for his client.

The jury was excused after hearing the final questioning of Frank Galt, last government witness.

The News Used To Be:

TEN YEARS AGO
(From Observer, Sun., Sept. 3, 1920)
Frank L. Pearson was elected secretary of the Elk's lodge at a special election last night.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning, 14,000 black spotted trout were liberated in the waters of Ladd creek.

Brooks Campbell, who owns a 700-acre stock ranch on Clover creek, has purchased the farm upon which he was born on the foothill road between La Grande and Ladd Canyon.

ONE YEAR AGO
(From Observer, Mon., Sept. 2, 1929)
The town of Wallowa has a new fire truck.

Swinging down Adams avenue between applauding crowds that lined both streets, Roy A. Purdom, young millworker, won first place in the annual Labor day hike this morning in the record time of four hours, 23 minutes and 49 seconds.

GLEANINGS

By O. N. S.

Many citizens retain the idea that private operation of public utilities is the best course to be followed. San Francisco voters defeated four power bond propositions at the primary election, providing for the purchase of gas and electric power companies by the city.

Fall, that magic season of Eastern Oregon's year, is just around the corner. This district's Indian summer, we believe, are unequalled in any corresponding section of the temperate zone.

And with the coming of autumn, King Baseball will be dethroned by the Old Man of the Gridiron. Which reminds us that both the Normal school and the high school schedules promise some rare treats for local followers of the smash, pass and kick game.

Another thought. Isn't it about time to order that coal and wood?

Down at Vale, Ore., the other day there wasn't so much argument as to who would get that epicurean treat, a fried chicken liver. The chicken that Dr. George Bean killed for dinner had two normal hearts, both of which functioned when the fowl was alive.

Who says there is nothing new under the sun? The sheriff of Seneca county, Ohio has a number of holes drilled in the bullpen wall and keeps a glass eye at one of them to make sure prisoners believe they are being watched.

"Hotel Registration Slow Work" (headline). We always thought the Russians had the longest and most difficult-to-write names.

A 14-year-old Texas boy defeated the nation's best marksmen at the national trapshooting event at Vandalia, O. recently. It doesn't seem as if the modern life is breeding less capability.

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

The Chinese pheasant is not a native bird? These game birds were imported to America from the Orient. The original shipment of Mongolian pheasants was sent from China to Seattle in 1881 by Judge O. W. Denney, who at the time was the U. S. council general at Shanghai. They were used for breeding purposes and it is from these few pairs that practically all ring-necked pheasants in this country west of the Mississippi have come.

AGRICULTURE STEPPING UP, LEGGE SAYS

serve that some mysterious way is going to be found where, through legislation the handicap under which agriculture is suffering will be removed and their position made secure without any action on the part of the farmer himself. This," he said "is a dream that would not come true."

In collaboration with the department of agriculture we can furnish the best information available as to market outlook and prospects and assist cooperatives in providing proper facilities for warehousing and handling of any agricultural commodity.

In all these matters, the start must be made by the producers themselves he said. Back of organized marketing lies the question of orderly production. Over production does not pay. Agriculture must take a leaf from the notebook of industry by paying more attention to a situation generally reflected in heavy inventories or carryovers for preceding years.

SEEK WATERWAY SOLUTION ABOARD ARMY ENGINEERS' MISSISSIPPI RIVER BOAT "GENERAL ALLEN," Sept. 2.—Seeking a solution to the most imminent problem of the entire inland waterways system Secretary Hurley took up today the proposed terminal for Clinton, Iowa.

Considered vital to agricultural and shipping interests of the entire northwestern and particularly in Iowa and Wisconsin, the project has been held in abeyance on account of the failure of a local bond issue with which it has been planned to be connected.

With a terminal at Clinton, Major General Thomas G. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways corporation, said today, joint rates highly desirable to shippers could then be put into effect with the Chicago and Northwestern railroad, the main artery of which to the west is at Clinton.

At present there can be no direct interchange of goods between the upper Mississippi barge line and the Chicago and Northwestern because of the lack of terminal facilities.

The rescued men were Harold Hanson and Alfred Elingsen, picked up clinging to wreckage after a long search in the fog, and Edward Landstrom, who was found unconscious on the beach of Sisters Island later.

Aided by tide he had swam there. As the sharp bow of the Admiral Nulton cut through the forward hull of the lighter vessel, water poured into the Orient's bow rapidly. But she did not go to the bottom. Presumably her oil tanks, full of fuel, kept her from going down entirely and was located later near the shores of the island. While the rescued men were taken to the island lighthouse to receive first aid, the Admiral Nulton stood by six hours, while a hopeless search for more survivors was made.

The three rescued men were taken to Bellingham on the freighter and to Seattle by automobile from there.

While United States steamboat inspectors were carrying on an investigation today, officers of the freighter refused to comment on the tragedy excepting to the inspectors.

What An INVESTMENT Really Is

SOMEONE has defined an investment as the careful loan of your money among one or more business enterprises or individuals, with or without specified security, either at known or unknown rates of interest return.

IN that case, a Certificate of Deposit in a bank is an investment—loan your money to the bank at 4 per cent, payable practically on demand. A public utility bond is an investment—loaning your money to a light and power company, a telephone company, at some stated rate of interest, payable at some future time.

THE important thing in making a loan—in investing money—is, therefore, to know how quickly you can withdraw your money in an emergency, how much interest it will earn, how certain you can be that your money will not be lost.

YOUR banker is naturally in the ideal position to tell you these things. If he hasn't the information you require, he can get it. His experience and his judgment are invaluable to you in making an investment decision. And he is always glad to be of service to you.

We Are Sorry---

that after advertising so many bargains for our picnic sale, and after having the values to back it up, we were not able to wait on all the people Saturday. We are therefore going to allow these prices to remain for Tuesday and Wednesday.

This is a sale of all broken lines, at prices that are but a whisper of their true worth. You may not find just what you want, but, Boy, what a bargain if you do! Think of it, women bought children's 49c wool hose for a thin dime; Men bought suits for $4.50. Hundreds of other bargains just as good. Remember this is a clean up of all broken lines.
