Charity never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away. For we know in part, and we prophesy in part. But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.—1 Cor. 13:8-10.

SCHOOL DAYS

Again the sound of the school bell is heard in the land, and as in response to a singular signal centuries ago the children of that period assembled, so those of today continue to respond to the law of civilization. In early years they must be prepared for the business of life, that they may be able to pick up the burden where their elders leave off, and carry on. The vacation is over for the children. They had a good time while it lasted. There was fishing and bathing and rambles through the woods and camping, also trips through the country and mountain climbing and baseball and tennis and field games and other play. But life is not made up of such things alone. Some of it is serious, and this last factor is what makes schooling the order of the day.

Life never stands still. The children of the present will be the controlling, achieving citizens of later years. Hence the schools, preparing for the needs of the future, that the men and women of tomorrow may be efficient and capable.

In the past it has been very hard to control population increase and decrease, but in an Indiana paper the following announcement recently appeared: "Owing to the lack of space, and the rush of editing this week's issue, several births and deaths will be postponed until next week."

City folks are the best walkers. In the country you can park within a block of your destination.

Few people care what you think. It is what you do that creates attention.

You have not lost everything until you have lost hope.

CARE OF THE HAIR
Hair, like the enamel of the teeth and the nails, is a special form of the skin covering.
But while the latter two are now accorded a fair degree of care, the hair frequently is neglected.
There are many scalp conditions that suffer from too much and the wrong kind of care.
It is not uncommon to find a history of years of neglect followed when the first bald spot appears, by an aggressive and intensive abuse of the scalp through excessive washing and the application of too strong medicated tonic preparations.
The normal scalp and hair—that is, neither too dry nor yet too oily—require shampooing not more than once a week, nor less frequently than once a month.
Shampoos of unadorned composition are not to be trusted, and for wash-

Chats With Parents

THE MUSIC PIPE
By Alice Jindra Peale
Four-year-old Dick came to his mother with shining eyes.
"Look, mother, see what I found. It makes music."
In one hand he held a piece of lead pipe. In the other a long, heavy nail he had picked up somewhere. He struck the pipe with the nail and sure enough it did make a pleasant, ringing note.
"It's a lovely noise, isn't it, mother?"
"It surely is, and I think I know a way that daddy can fix it so that it will make an even prettier sound and you can play it like a real musical instrument."
That evening daddy, under mother's direction, made a simple stand with a horizontal bar from which, by strings, they hung the pipe. Now Dick was more pleased than ever. He took great delight in beating out rhythmic accompaniment to the music which came in over the radio or what he liked even better, playing with mother at the piano so that they formed together what he called a "regular orchestra."

A few days later father came home with a triangle which was installed next to the pipe, which charmed Dick with its new sounds.
The little episode is an excellent example of the sort of opportunity which comes to parents very often when their children are little and to which they all too seldom avail themselves.

Children bring to their parents charming discoveries and enthusiasms only to be met with a cool "Yes, that's very nice, but run along and play, dear, mother's busy."

The germs of talents and life-long interests may be given a genuine impetus toward development through a sympathetic and helpful first reception.

ambassador to Rome because he had tired of living so long outside the United States and wanted to return to private life and his estate at Greendale, Pa.

His acceptance is believed by many to be the result of his close personal friendship for the president and Hoover's insistence that he was the man for the job.

Long a Diplomat
Now 57 years old, Fletcher's career in American diplomacy extending over a period of more than 25 years has been an illustrious one. From the day in May of 1902 when he went to Havana as second secretary of the American legation until he left the field of diplomacy in October of 1929 his service was one of distinction.

He has represented this country at such important posts as Mexico City and Santiago, Chile, as well as Rome. He also served as under secretary of state under Charles Evans Hughes, and he accompanied Mr. Hoover on his South American tour made shortly after he was elected president.

His years of service in Central and South America have won for him a popularity and a place in the esteem of government officials of these countries. Fletcher knows them all and enjoys their confidence.

Newspapers printed columns about him and the way he was regarded in Pan-America.

A Rough Rider
His career has been eventful in war as well as diplomacy. After being admitted to the bar in his native state of Pennsylvania, he joined Theodore Roosevelt's Rough Riders for the Cuban campaign in the Spanish-American war. He took part in the battle of San Juan and was wounded.

He also saw service in the Philippines during the insurrection there after the war with Spain ended. He left the army after these two campaigns and entered the field of diplomacy.

A wealthy man, Fletcher is married and has made his home since leaving the diplomatic service at his big estate at Greendale.

In addition to his love for horsemanship, the new tariff commission head is an enthusiastic golfer. His friends say he plays an excellent game.

LA GRANDE LABOR DAY MEET SUCCESS

The La Grande Labor day celebration is reported a splendid success. The program started at 6 o'clock in the morning with the men's hiking contest of 25 miles, and ended with dancing until 12 o'clock at night.

The program in addition to the men's hike included a women's hike, horseback pitching, boy's race, swimming meet, sports at the park, tug-of-war, boy and dog race (dog, leash), and boxing matches at the high school ball park. In each of the contests cash prizes were awarded the winners.

Fletcher's acceptance of the tariff commission post came as a surprise to many. All knew that he asked to be relieved as American

RIVERS MAKE STEEL FURNACE GAS-TIGHT

Lennox Torrid Zone Has Revolutionized Warm Air Heating in Thousands of Homes

The manufacturers of this unusual warm air furnace have taken a lesson from the builders of locomotive boilers, tank cars and submarines. The Lennox Torrid Zone is made of boiler-plate steel. It is hot-rolled and cold-calked for safety and permanence. No gas, dust or smoke can escape into the rooms of your home.

But safety and cleanliness are not the only improvements the Torrid Zone brings. It furnishes the vital humidity lacking in so many homes during the heating season. The Torrid Zone humidifier has twice the evaporating area of ordinary water pans right inside the casing and is over the firing doors for rapid evaporation. It can eliminate in your home that dried-atmosphere which causes sore throats and colds and makes furniture crack and loosen at the joints.

Burn your favorite fuel in the Lennox Torrid Zone—hard or soft coal, coke, lignite, wood, gas or oil—and save money. Plans and estimates quickly furnished for all types of buildings. Factory engineering service for special problems. Made by the Lennox Furnace Company, Syracuse, N. Y.—Marshallsburg, Iowa—Toronto, Canada.
