

Conditions Of Weather In Wallowa

WALLOWA, Ore. (Special)—Ideal winter conditions are prevailing over this section of the country at this time. Warmer weather has come during the past few days, followed by some light flurries of snow. Toward the latter part of the week it became warm enough to cause some thawing of the snow on the south slopes and at places in the valley. The snow even in the timbered sections has not reached the depth that is usual at this season of the year. A number of logging contractors who have been busy on small logging projects during the past several weeks have found it an excellent time to go forward with their work at a good pace. Roads are still in excellent condition for truck hauling and most of the logs are being hauled to landing places along the railroad tracks as fast as they are being cut. A considerable number of men are finding work at the several small camps and this in addition to the number who are employed on the highway crews of the county are helping to a considerable extent in solving the problem confronting the unemployed in this community. Much hauling of wood, hay and other feeds has been done by farmers and others during the past few weeks while sledging and trucking conditions have been good. Heavy feeding of livestock has been done here during the cold spell which started in early December and continued until after the first of the year, where large bunches of stock were being fed some fairly heavy rations were made on the hay supplies. A number of the cattlemen have been feeding straw to many of their older cattle since the start of feeding and with practically all of the stock going into the winter in excellent condition they are still looking fine. Reports from some of the farmers having hay for sale state that there is a steady demand for hay in small lots, but no advance in prices is reported as yet. A general scarcity of water for stock and in places for domestic use also has proved very troublesome to many during the past several weeks. With many of the wells and springs being at a low point at the start of the cold weather, hard freezing has made the supply shorter all the time. Many in the Dry Creek section have been hauling water for house use and also for watering hogs and small stock. Valley farmers have also experienced some shortage from the small supply in many of the ditches freezing up during the cold weather.

GERMAN 'VON' STUCKS—IT'S A SYLLABLE NOW

BERLIN (AP)—Once a "von" is always a "von" in Germany, even under the republic. The prefix is now considered by law to be a mere syllable of a noble name, but it cannot be dropped at will. A former German aristocrat, who had gone into business thought his "von" a useless encumbrance. The registrar of companies objected, and the courts sustained his view, holding that the "von" is an integral part of the surname.

CIGARETTE WAR IN AUSTRALIA

MELBOURNE (AP)—Australian prohibitionists have declared war upon cigarettes because customs figures show that 7315 gallons of alcohol were used in the treatment of the 2,400,000,000 cigarettes made in Australia last year.
