FRUIT THROWN AT RUDY CAUSE OF EXPULSION

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 30 (AP)—A grapefruit barrage laid down on Rudy Vallee, crooning entertainer, in a Boston theatre recently has had its reaction today in the requested withdrawal from Harvard of James S. Angier, son of Professor Roswell P. Angier of Yale.

Simultaneously, William F. Blanc, of New York, was placed on probation by the college authorities. Angier and Blanc, both freshmen, were taken from the theatre audience with another student by police soon after the grapefruit was thrown.

Under police questioning, Angier and his companions denied having thrown the fruit which splattered over a member of Vallee's orchestra as Rudy crooned "Please Give Me Something to Remember You By." Angier was reported, however, to have said the incident came under the head of "great ideas."
