When the Oregon State basketball team journeys to Seattle for games with Washington Friday and Saturday nights the names of the winners of the Pacific coast conference, northern division, may be written. Last week at Corvallis the Beavers gave the Huskies their first defeat of the season. That victory and the one Saturday over Oregon, 40-26, put the Oregon State team in position to lead the division if they can take both games on north.

The scores in the two-game series at Corvallis were: O. S. C. 23-37, Washington 31-23. Washington now has seven wins and one loss against O. S. C.'s six wins and three losses.

Cougars Trim Idaho
Washington State showed itself still in the running for the title, however, by defeating Idaho 37 to 13 last week. If that action should be repeated tonight at Moscow, Idaho, the W. S. C. Cougars would be tied with the Beavers in second place.

Oregon, which has yet to win its first victory of the season, will go to Moscow for a two-game series Friday and Saturday nights. The two schools will fight it out to evade the bottom of the division.
Standings in the southern division closed up during the past week. Ucla, at the top, is only a single game ahead of California, which is at the bottom of the standings.

Two Women Stage Endurance Swim

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 2 (AP)—Mrs. Katherine Rehna, a 34-year-old woman whose husband has been out of work for nine months, entered an endurance swimming contest here yesterday to earn enough money to buy food for her four children, one of which is only nine weeks old.
She swam 47 hours and 53 minutes, said to be several hours better than she finished second to Mercedes Gietze, who kept up the grind for 23 minutes longer.
Her prize was $500 and Miss Gietze contributed another $500 from her winnings of $1,500. Mrs. Rehna and her husband said they had spent their last shilling for carfare to the pool where the marathon was conducted.

Australia Offers Bill Tilden $50,000

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Big Bill Tilden has received a cable offer of $50,000 to make a two-month visit to Australia. The offer, announced yesterday by Jack Curley, manager of Tilden's professional tennis tour, calls for the former amateur champion to play six matches against three approved opponents. He might also be called upon to compete in an open tournament. Curley said he would forward the offer to Tilden in Florida for his decision.

Hornby Insists Upon Condition

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (AP)—Manager Rogers Hornby of the Cubs, who insists that baseball players under his charge be in good physical condition, makes no exception of himself.
The "raja" headed today toward Catalina Island, California, spring proving ground of the Cubs, almost two weeks ahead of the first contingent of Cubs so he could get in some extra ticks of drill.
His wife and son were in the party, which started in the Hornby light automobile. An expensive limousine was left at home.

OREGON PIONEER DIES

SPOKANE, Wash., Feb. 2 (AP)—William Henry Warren, 78, who settled near Beaverton, Ore., 45 years ago, died at a hospital here yesterday. He had lived here for the past six months.
Warren is survived by three sons, Ed Warren, Hood River, Ore.; Charles Warren, Portland, Ore.; and George Warren, New York, and six daughters.

Winter Sports On Mount Hood Attract 15,000

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 2 (AP)—It was the crowd, not the ski jumpers, that broke the records at the first Pacific Northwest title tournament yesterday at Government Camp on Mount Hood. Traffic officers estimated the number of spectators at 15,000, by far the largest throng ever to turn out to a winter sport event here. Automobiles were parked on both sides of the highway for five miles, officers said.
John Elvrum, of the sponsoring Cascade Ski club, Portland, won the Class A jump with a 138-foot mark. Arnt Ostad, Bend, Ore., Skyline, was second, and Olaf Locken, Leavenworth, Wash., third.
Hjalmar Hyam, Cascade club, was named cross country champion and was given a special prize as the only contestant to tour the direct course as mapped. The course for that event was about nine miles and Hyam's time was 1:10:33.
The Class A cross country title went to Erick Bolstad, Seattle Ski club, his time, 50:57. August Haugen, Vancouver, Wash., was second with a time of 51:10. Third, third, Distas was not announced.

Class B cross country results were A. Roth, Cascade club, first, time 50:30; H. Paulson, Portland, second; Mickey Mickel, Vancouver, third.
Class B jumping results: Roth, first, 77 and 73 feet; Martin Moen, Leavenworth, second; Ray Ostad, Bend, third.
In the only near accident, Ole Amoth, Bend, dove into a snow-dammed creek to avoid striking spectators who had crowded too close to the runway.

Abe Espinosa Takes First In Texas Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 2 (AP)—Abe Espinosa, veteran Spanish professional of the Medina country club, was $1,556 richer today, the result of three sparkling rounds of sub-par golf in the tenth annual Texas open tournament.
The elder of the two golfing Espinosas, who lost his last import at tournament in 1929, the Western open, mastered the difficult Brackenridge Park course with rounds of 89-74-69-59—281 to beat out his closest rivals, Harry Cooper, Frank Walsh and Joe Turnesa, by two strokes.
Victory of the genial Abe, who admitted he was playing the greatest golf of his life after a two year vacation from the principal tournaments, was a surprise.
Densmore Shute, dapper defending champion from Columbus, Ohio; Harry Cooper, young Chicago star, and Joe Turnesa of Edinburg, N. Y., started the final round in a triple tie for the leadership, each with 210 strokes, and two lower than Espinosa. Shute, previously a model of consistency, went sky-high on the home nine and finished with a 74. Turnesa and Cooper took 73's, two over par to divide the second, third and fourth money with Walsh, curly-headed Chicagoan, who wound up with a par cracking 69. Turnesa's misfortune in three-putting the last two greens cost him the difference between $566 and the healthy check handed, Espinosa.

MEDALS HONOR FARMERS FOR RECORD CORN YIELDS
LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Chester Troyer and R. H. Ellis, Indiana farmers, could wear almost as many medals as an army general.
The two this year received their ninth decoration for raising more than 100 bushels of corn to an acre of Indiana land. Troyer is from La Fontaine, and Ellis from Tippecanoe county.
Troyer and Ellis, to whom corn growing is almost a religion, were awarded medals at the Indiana corn growers banquet during Purdue university's agricultural conference.

SKI JUMPER OF UTAH BREAKS WORLD RECORD

BIG PINES, Cal., Feb. 2 (AP)—All Engen, Salt Lake City, Utah, had marked off a new world's record of 243 feet today on the snow-covered ski jump here, where the Southern California winter sports carnival ended yesterday.
Sliding down the 700-foot runway of the new jump, the world's highest at an estimated speed of 95 miles an hour, Engen glided off the brink and made a perfect landing, the officials crediting him with 17 points for form, the maximum awarded here, to set the new mark.
On three of his four official jumps in competition in the $1,000 professional ski jumping event, Engen exceeded the recognized world's record of 229 feet, set by Henry Hall, of Detroit, at Quebec in 1925. Once he jumped 231 feet and on his last try he made 241 feet. In all he was credited with 1,005 points, easily taking first place money of $255.
Two others exceeded the old world mark, one of them, Lars Haugen, of Lake Tahoe, Cal., twice. Haugen twice jumped 231 feet and Halvor Hvalstad, professional of this Los Angeles county recreation camp, cleared the same distance on his final leap.

There is no disagreement on the theory that Jack Dempsey, if he makes any fluke come-back at all, must try it this year, but there are at least two outstanding obstacles to the return of Old John.
The first is his own lack of an incentive, unless the big money lure is too substantial to resist.
The second is the lack of a promoter of the type of Tex Rickard, willing to take a gamble and shoot the works.
There are some other factors, such as the very important one as to whether Dempsey again can get into real fighting condition. For that matter, he rather thinks he could do so, but he admits that the vital urge to attempt another ring battle is largely missing.

and disturbed to find his front door effectively blocked. Mr. Ground Hog came to a pause, growling or snarling or something. What is it that these rodents do when they feel mean, anyhow? Maybe it's a "chirrup," but we know it isn't a "neigh."

"The whole situation has changed, so far as I am concerned," he said in a chat around the dinner table.
"When I was fighting for the championship, there was a real incentive. I took a great deal of pride in my ability to stick to the top and even after I lost the title to Tunney, I was convinced I could regain it in the next year.
"That's all over now. I don't like the idea of fighting just for the sake of giving or taking a sock. Big money is attractive and no doubt I could collect a chunk for a go at either Sharkey or Carnera. But I'm fixed O. K. so far as the dough is concerned. I've got a $700,000 trust fund that will keep the wolf from the door.
"I can do pretty well without putting the gloves on. Then maybe in a few years I can settle down to some steady business."

In spite of the business depression that has hit the Madison Square Garden box-office, a number of heavy wallops, the situation is ripe for an outdoor "natural" such as a return Dempsey-Sharkey match this year.
New York has been left high and dry in the heavyweight shuffle so far for 1931, with Stribling and Schmeltz slated to fight for the title somewhere in the mid-west, presumably Chicago, and the winner committed to meet Carrera later in the same locality.

Sharkey also is "out in the cold," despite the fact that the Three Dukes of the New York Boxing commission consider him the No. 1 heavyweight.
The Madison Square Garden millionaires might recoup with Dempsey but they have been embroiled in their own troubles; increasingly so since the death of Tex Rickard. Until these are solved or unless there is a big shake-up, the chances are slim that an attempt will be made to regain control of the heavyweight situation, once so firmly dominated by Rickard.

MR. GROUND HOG PREDICTS COLD

Mr. Ground Hog saw his shadow, although the sun beamed down only for a few minutes on Feb. 2, 1930. But here's what followed: Feb. 3 was clear, and from then on every day in February was cloudy or partly cloudy, the maximum was only 59, seventeen days were freezing or below freezing, 2.77 inches of rain and more than two inches of snow fell, and the weather was consistently chilly.

"What do you mean, keeping me from my home?" the animal, nature's weather man in person, queried at last.
"I desire to interview you and learn of the future," was the reply, quickly followed with the question: "What is your weather forecast for the next six weeks?"
"Rotten!"
"Of course! When I see my shadow on Feb. 2 it means six weeks more of winter!"
"But, we haven't had six weeks of real winter yet! How come six weeks more?"
"You would be technical, wouldn't you? Well, anyhow, the weather will be as near winter as my forecast can make it!" And with these words, the rodent was allowed to enter his den, and the newspaper man trudged his weary way to his typewriter.

Seriously speaking, however, lots of people believe thoroughly in Mr. Ground Hog's prognostications. They believe that if he fails to see his shadow on Feb. 2, known as "Ground Hog Day," spring is here; if he sees his shadow, he holes up for another six weeks, expecting six weeks more of winter weather.

Let us look at last February. Mr. Ground Hog saw his shadow, although the sun beamed down only for a few minutes on Feb. 2, 1930. But here's what followed: Feb. 3 was clear, and from then on every day in February was cloudy or partly cloudy, the maximum was only 59, seventeen days were freezing or below freezing, 2.77 inches of rain and more than two inches of snow fell, and the weather was consistently chilly.

Mr. Ground Hog's predictions worked last year, but personally, and we hope you'll all join with us, were hoping that it would not be a flop this year.
They say that there is no one who can avoid making an occasional mistake, and we hope that today was the occasion for Mr. Ground Hog to make one.

HERE'S VERIFICATION
CANOE RIDGE, Punxsutawney, Pa., Feb. 2 (AP)—The original and official ground hog today emerged from his hole, and the weather scouts predicted there's need for more winter coal.

Br'er Ground Hog saw his shadow twice this morning, but the first time didn't count because the first shadow was cast by light by a lantern. The weather scouts were overzealous and came to Canoe Ridge with a lantern about the time the ground hog makes his appearance from his long winter sleep. Br'er Ground Hog mistook the lantern's light for that of the sun, and hurried to cover.

The second appearance, however, resulted in a bona fide prediction. The ground hog saw his shadow shortly after 8 a. m. and it was cast by the sun's rays. The old fellow went back to bed, and everybody knew that for the next six weeks there'll be winter weather.

Gentlemen:

My attention has been called to your campaign against "Spit-Tipping" in the manufacture of cigars.

You are a commercial organization and obviously are interested in your own product. However, in carrying on this particular campaign, which awakens the public consciousness, against the "Spit" evil, whether it be in the public highway or public places, or elsewhere, I feel that you are doing a work which deserves commendation. Any use you may care to make of this letter will be agreeable to me.

Very truly yours,

What's A Friend Good for Anyhow?

SOMEONE said once that a friend is one who knows all your faults and is still your friend. We think, too, that a friend is some one who likes you well enough and is interested in you enough to hear all your troubles and joys and help you or congratulate you as the case may require.

When you have financial success, no one is more pleased to hear about it than your banker. When you have financial difficulty, no one is more eager to give friendly counsel and aid than your banker. He's your financial friend. If you cannot go to him with money difficulties or success and immediately secure his friendly attention and interest, something must be wrong with him—or possibly with you.

He's not only glad but anxious to be your financial counselor. It's his reason for being—it's what he's good for; if he's good for anything.

Give your banker a chance to be a valuable friend of yours. He may not always be able to lend you all the money you want all the time, but he'll be able to tell you in good business reasons why, for your benefit as well as the bank's, he thinks it shouldn't be done. And he'll always be able to give you the benefit of long financial experience, of business counsel that should prove very much worthwhile. He is truly anxious to help you realize your financial ambitions in a way that will be safe, honorable, and enduring.
