SLEEP FACTS

Sleep, apparently a periodic phase in the life of all living things, has been subjected to many studies and interesting facts bearing upon it have been revealed.

Sleep varies in depth. A normal person, falling asleep usually reaches the greatest depth in the first hour. Subsequently the soundness of his sleep will decline until he is in the light sleeper the maximum depth is reached more slowly. There is some experimental evidence showing that a person retiring after midnight reaches the maximum depth of sleep more slowly than one who retires earlier.

Children, according to Czerny, have two periods of profound sleep, the first reached during the first or second hour, the second during the seventh.

Among adults there appear to be two types of sleepers, evening and morning. In the evening type the greatest depth of sleep is quickly reached. This type of person usually awakes fresh and energetic. The morning type or sleeper reaches the maximum depth later and is said to do his best work in the evening.

The consequences of prolonged periods of ordinary sleeplessness are considered by many to be disastrous. While the victim no doubt suffers a great deal, his sufferings are of a subjective type and none of the disastrous results which the layman commonly fears has been experienced clinically.

Scientists experimenting upon themselves have gone without sleep for as many as 115 consecutive hours. Their subjective sufferings were great but constitutionally they suffered little.

Not only did they survive these periods of sleeplessness intact, but recovered rapidly after an appropriate number of hours of sleep.

'Antique' Bricks Reproduce Home Of Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—Where George Washington was born 189 years ago, 250,000 hand-kneaded bricks are piled high for use in reproducing the White House.

Already the foundation is laid, and the house exterior probably will be complete by mid-summer. The White House national memorial association, volunteer organization sponsoring the restoration, hopes to be able to complete the project before February 14 of next year, birthday of Washington under the old calendar.

This birthplace has been selected as the time for presenting the restored birthplace to the American people. In its search for the authentic, the memorial association has hunted up many facts on the long-vague story of Washington's boyhood. Excavations checked with existing records by research experts have convinced the association that Washington's birthplace was no wooden cottage on the Rappahannock, but a handsome brick structure on a beautiful estate at Pope's Creek, Potomac river, Westmoreland county, Virginia.

No "copy" in modern materials is this slow reproduction of the old proud home of the Washingtons. Men whose fathers and grandfathers made brick by hand, studied and used until finer hardened the clay-pits, at mixer, burning-kiln, and drying racks.

Old Process Used The bricks were made of the same yellow Virginia clay, processed the same way, as those turned out by the brick construction more than two centuries ago. No modern hot-dog stands will mar the approach to this page-from-the-past reproduction of the old proud home of the Washingtons. Men whose fathers and grandfathers made brick by hand, studied and used until finer hardened the clay-pits, at mixer, burning-kiln, and drying racks.

MAKE CEREAL SURVEY OVER EAST OREGON

PENDLETON, Ore. (AP)—Unmalted grain shows the greatest standardization of grain varieties in the state, in addition to producing the most wheat in Oregon, according to a survey recently completed by the farm crops department of the Oregon experiment station.

This county has 97 per cent of its wheat acreage devoted to two varieties, Federation and Hybrid 128, one of which was introduced from the experiment station and the other from Washington state college.

Eastern Oregon as a whole shows better standardization than Western Oregon, it report shows. More than 90 per cent of the wheat of four standard varieties, Turkey and Forty-fold being the other two.

In Western Oregon Holland, White Winter, Jenks and Arctie, song writer, 65 per cent of the production, although a total of 32 varieties are grown in the 11 counties. A total of 43 varieties of wheat are grown in commercial quantities in Oregon, a drop from 56 ten years ago.

"There is usually but one best variety for a given section or condition," said D. H. Hill of the college, who made the survey. "Oats, barley and wheat varieties differ greatly in yielding ability, quality and other characteristics. Fewer varieties make for greater yield, better quality and higher returns."

GOOD LAMBING WEATHER

THE DALES, Ore. (AP)—Ideal weather for lambing, for which sheep owners are preparing, prevails over this section of Oregon. As a result of the mild winter, feed conditions are now excellent. Because of lack of moisture, however, herd owners fear lowland pasturage may be dry.

Scientists experimenting upon the movement of sheep to mountain ranges.

MAY HONOR DEAD PILOT

THE DALES, Ore. (AP)—It has been proposed that The Dales airport, to be formally dedicated this spring, be named for Walter E. Case, mail pilot, who recently lost his life in a crash north of Cape Horn, Wash. He was a veteran pilot, flew in the war, and formerly lived here.

Nobody can tell to which help your cough will soonest yield. So experts have combined in Creomulsion all best helps in one. No narcotic, nothing harmful to a child, but a seven-way help to deal with all conditions.

The price is $1.25—a little higher than a lesser help. But your drug store guarantees it. Your money is returned if it fails to bring the quick complete help you desire. Don't you think it worth that little extra to be sure that you are doing the utmost for a cough?

Creomulsion combines seven major helps in one. Some coughs yield best to one help, some to another. Doctors often differ on the best help, for coughs are not alike. So here we combine all the best—to be sure, Creosote stands first. Here it is blended, emulsified and made palatable. For soothing membranes and combating germs, it is considered the supreme help in this type of cough. But other helps are sometimes

Creomulsion is made for coughs from colds that hang on. For coughs deep and difficult—coughs where you dare not risk a less effective help. CHILD SLAVES' BUILD SILK NESTS FOR ANTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A kind of "enforced child labor" is in vogue among a species of spinning ants.

The ants build silk nests with material which is produced by the glands of the grubs, or young ants, says Austin H. Clark, biologist of the United States national museum.

The ants hold the grubs in their jaws and pass them back and forth from leaf to leaf until the spinning of the nest is completed.

Moths Make Own Spits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Young moths make suits of clothes for themselves before they are ready to spin. Their hairs are cut from clothing by the young moth in the caterpillar stage and are woven into a sort of jacket about its body.

Soybeans Boost Milk Yield

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Records of highly successful cow testing associations in Iowa for the last three months indicate the value of cracked soybeans in the dairy ration.

Bats "See" With Wings

BOWLING GREEN, O. (AP)—Although bats' eyes are blind, they can "see" with sensitive membranes in their wings and faces which indicate the approach of objects while they are flying, according to Prof. Edwin Lincoln Moseley of the Bowling Green state normal school.

Scientists Will Outline Ideas in 'Talkie' Reels

BALTIMORE (AP)—The ideas, achievements and personalities of the great scientists are going into talking pictures for students of today and scientists of the future.

Dr. John J. Abel, head of the pharmacology department of the Johns Hopkins medical school has just completed a talking film, the second "volume" of a scientific picture library collected under the auspices of the Chemical Foundation, New York.

Abel ranks as one of the greatest authorities on the chemistry of hormones, is credited with the first isolation of adrenalin, and has made an "artificial kidney," which is attached to a vein of artery and removes impurities in the blood.

The first "volume" in this series was made by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, head of California Institute of Technology. Several Johns Hopkins men are on the picture program.

UTRECHT HELPED EROSION CARVE GORGES OF YOSEMITE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two forces of nature working against each other carved the gorges of the Yosemite valley in California, the geological survey has discovered.

The Merced river, flowing through the valley, cut through a considerable depth. Then the vast earth block of which the valley is a part was raised higher by movements of the earth's crust, nullifying the river's work.

The river began again to cut back to its former level once more. This process was repeated through the ages. Later glaciers invaded the valley and helped carve it to its present depth of from 2000 to nearly 6000 feet.

SCREENS' OF ELECTRICITY KEEP FISH IN HOME WATER

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP)—"Screens" of which the mesh is only an electric current are used to keep fish in the Yakima river from entering irrigation ditches.

Chains are suspended several inches apart across the mouth of a ditch, under water. An electric current, which is produced by a generator, is conducted into the surrounding water. Fish attempting to enter the ditch feel the current's "tingle" and swim away.

The electric "screen" was adopted when it was found ordinary screens collected refuse and blocked the flow of water through the chains and die when the fields are drained.
