Comedy of Satire To Be Presented To College Women

An opera matinee attended by the smart and fashionable set is the setting for "The Opera," a one-act play which the literature group of the American Association of University women in presenting at a banquet this evening at the La Grande hotel at 6:15 o'clock. Miss Catherine Sartain and Miss Edith Darby are directing the performance. All types of women who make up the "set" are represented and their repartee is amusing.

Mrs. Florence Payne Johnson, of Portland, state president of the association will be the honored guest and speaker at the dinner. She is making her official tour of Eastern Oregon, her first visit into this territory.

"The opera" setting is three boxes at the opera-house in each of which four are seated. Mrs. Lysander, "who thinks she can stand at the gate and tell St. Peter which of her crowd she wants taken in," furnishes a great deal of comedy played by Miss Mary Druley. Her companion, the first Mrs. Archibald Harrison is played by Miss Caroline Baumann. Mrs. Harrison's sarcasm matched with Mrs. Lysander's conceit creates an amusing situation.

The countess, vivacious and extreme, is played by Mrs. Warren Gilbert. Other characters in the play are Miss Mildred Hawkswirth, Miss Jean White, Miss Anna Laura Lee, Miss Lula Grace Allen, four debutantes who complain at the "manless matinee;" Miss Madeline Larson, Miss Vivian Johnson, Mrs. Elmo Stevenson, Miss Helen Moor, Miss Florence Williams, Miss Catherine Osborn and Miss Bess Duke.

Portland Opera Opens March 12

Thirty-eight cars, traveling in three sections are necessary to transport the 285 persons who are appearing with the Chicago Civic Opera company, which will open a three-day session in Portland, March 12, according to Homer Saunders, promotion manager of the organization in an article which appeared in the Oregonian this morning. Many La Grande music lovers are planning to spend the three days in Portland.

The entire opera company is coming to Portland, Mr. Saunders said, with stage equipment valued at $700,000. The full orchestra is coming and the entire ballet, as well as the company's own electric lighting plant and light effects, so Portland will see and hear everything but the Chicago opera house.

Portland's public auditorium, Mr. Saunders said, has one of the few stages west of the Mississippi large enough to accommodate the scenery of the Chicago Opera company. The drops, for instance, are 75 feet wide, and the rest of the equipment in proportion.

The Portland season will open on Thursday, Mar. 12, with a performance of Verdi's "La Traviata." The cast includes Claudia Muzio as Violetta, one of her greatest roles; Tito Schipa as Aldredo, John Charles Thomas as Giorgio, Alice d'Hermanoy as Flora, Desire Defrere as Baron Douphal, and a large support cast. The ballet appears during the third act, and the work is conducted by Roberto Moranzoni. Except for John Charles Thomas, who will be making his operatic debut in Portland, all the artists of the first night's cast are well known to Portland music lovers.

The second performance by the Chicagoans, Richard Wagner's "Die Walkuere," will bring before the Portland public a number of artists who have achieved world fame, and who are singing in Portland for the first time. Frida Leider as Bruennhilde, Marie Olszewska as Fricka, Emma Redell as Sieglinde, Theodore Strack as Siegmunr, and Alexander Kipnix as Wotan, are principal members of the great German wing of the Chicago company which is hailed far and wide as the finest on the opera stage today. Chase Baromeo, the Hunding, is already well known to Portland. The eight Valkyries have been selected from among artists who sing leading roles in other productions, notably Thelma Votipka, Coe Glade, Sonia Sharnova, Constance Eberhart and Jenny Tourel. Emil Cooper, the brilliant Russian conductor, will be at the desk.

For the matinee of March 14 "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be the opera. It is an excellent vehicle for the dramatic talents and vocal mastery of Tito Schipa and Margherita Salvi in the roles of Edgar and Lucy. Richard Bonelli as Lord Henry Ashton finds rich opportunity for the display of his beautiful baritone, and in the role of Raymond, Chase Baromeo will present another of his satisfying characterizations.

The final performance of the local season, on Saturday evening, March 14, is one of the most popular on the operatic stage. "Cavalleria Rusticanna," with Claudia Muzio, Jenny Tourel, Constance Eberhart, Antonio Cortis and Desire Defrere, will open the program, and will be followed by "I Pagliacci," with Hilda Burke, Charles Marshall, Cesare Formichi and Mario Fiorella. Artists new to this city in the double cast are Tourel, Burke and Fiorella.

STATE DEMANDS DEATH PENALTY IN BOWLES CASE

the call telling of her presence there but a few minutes after 9:30 a. m.

Introduction of evidence against Nelson C. Bowles and Irma G. Loucks, both of Portland, began yesterday and seven witnesses were heard before court adjourned. The defendants are accused of fatally stabbing Mrs. Leone C. Bowles with a bread knife in Miss Loucks' Portland apartment.

To the casual observer testimony adduced yesterday was of minor importance but George Mowry, deputy district attorney in charge of the prosecution, told the jury in his opening statement every bit of evidence should be considered carefully because, when regarded as a whole, such evidence would be pertinent.

Mowry stressed the importance of the time element in the case and the seven witnesses called yesterday, including O. B. Cronkite, Wapato, Wash., fruit grower, father of the dead woman, dealt chiefly with the time of Mrs. Bowles' various activities the day she died.

In his opening statement Mowry related the life story of Mrs. Bowles. He told of the alleged intimate relationship that had flourished between Bowles and Miss Loucks, who once served as Bowles' secretary. Mowry alleged Bowles virtually supported Miss Loucks even after she had left his employ and that he spent much of his time with her. He declared Bowles spent the night preceding his wife's death in Miss Loucks' apartment.

The defense advanced the suicide theory in discussing the case before the jury. John A. Collier, chief of the defense battery of attorneys, said evidence might be presented which heretofore had not been revealed.

The jury which will attempt to determine the guilt or innocence of the defendants is composed of 12 men.

ALL-BRAN BROUGHT WELCOME RELIEF

THOUSANDS of letters attest to the efficiency of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in overcoming constipation. For instance, Mr. James D. McEnery, Alto, Texas, relates his experience:

"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of laxative medicine of any description."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the largest-selling all-bran cereal in the world. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to give relief. How much safer than using habit-forming laxatives.
