With the president Mrs. William Berry, presiding, the Greenwood P. T. association met at the school on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. Ferdinandson, and then the nominating committee, composed of Mrs. J. K. Charlton and Mrs. J. S. Hendrickson, reported and the following were elected as officers for the coming year: president, Mrs. Jack McGhean; vice president, Mrs. J. W. Ferdinandson; and secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Viola Fuller.

Mrs. Berry reported that a health clinic for children would be held on May 1. Children will be brought to the school where cars will convey mothers and children to the Foley building where Greenwood, Central and Willow associations are to be entered. For the clinic, the health committee, composed of Mrs. W. E. Denny, chairman, Mrs. Harold Chadwick and Mrs. Harry Newberg, will be assisted by Mrs. Ferdinandson, Mrs. J. S. Hendrickson, Mrs. McGhean and Mrs. Berry. Mrs. Berry also reported that the Greenwood association had been asked to decorate the windows of department stores in co-operation with their owners featuring health week. The committee in charge of this feature includes Mrs. Viola Fuller, chairman, Mrs. Smith Hendrickson and Mrs. Rippy.

In the attendance contest, Mrs. Eleanor Gable's room received the picture for the coming month.

The program announced by Mrs. Frances Thompson opened with the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by the audience. Songs, including "April" and "Arbor Day" with the encore of "My Poor Gray Kitty" were sung by the pupils of the fourth grade in Mrs. Eleanor Gable's room. Those singing were: Emogene Weis, Vern Fields, Aldean Chadwick, Margie Folsom, Oneta Winburn, Ruth Fullmer, Anna Dockweiler, Genevieve De Loney, Jean Smith, James O'Neil, Kermit McClain, Clayton Klein, Edwin Lovell, Marjorie Fishman, Mildred Sailing, Marie Ritter, Lester Howard.

The Blue Mountain Wranglers delightfully entertained the association with eight selections including: "Soldiers Joy," "Golden Slipper," "Moonlight on the Colorado," "Blue Ridge Mountain Home," "When You Were a Tulp," and "Dill Pickles," by the entire group; a trio "Durang Horn Pipe," by violin, guitar and banjo, and "Fannon Ball Express," by harmonica and slide.

FIFTH OREGON PROGRAM WILL BE PRESENTED

By Leona Price (Observer Correspondent) COVE, Ore. (Special)—The fifth of the series of Oregon programs was given Thursday at the meeting of the Women's club by Mrs. W. A. McNeil, on early Oregon history dealing with the period from the time of the earliest knowledge of the Oregon country up to the time it was made a state. These programs are proving especially interesting to those who prepare them as they report that they can only sketch briefly from the abundance of material they find at their disposal. It was suggested that each topic be elaborated upon at some future time to cover several programs. The next program will be given at the gymnasium with H. G. Avery speaking on Oregon dairying. The program is arranged by Mrs. Ralph Comstock. Anyone interested in this topic is welcome and the staff and dairy club members are especially invited to take advantage of this program. Another program scheduled for the immediate future is the one on Oregon poets and poetry arranged by Mrs. J. R. Fletcher at which M. L. Carter will be invited to give some of his original poems and some of the works of the late Miss Ida Roberts and other Cove people will be used. The Camp Fire Girls have been asked to embroider the name of Dr. W. T. P. and the date of his gift to the Cove school upon the gymnasium curtains as a reminder to the future pupils of his kindly thoughtfulness of the boys and girls.

ISLAND CITY PERSONALS

By Wesley L. Hershey (Observer Correspondent) ISLAND CITY, Ore. (Special)—Mrs. C. C. Prouty and two daughters, Evelyn and Utah, were visitors at the home of Mrs. M. A. Whisler at Cove Friday. Last Sunday Lee Reynolds and W. H. Bohnenkamp enjoyed a boat trip on the river near Rhinehart in Mr. Bohnenkamp's 16 horsepower motor boat. They reported a very enjoyable trip. Betty Dolan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dolan, won third place in the non-humorous lower grades division of the Union county declamatory contest held at La Grande Friday evening. Betty recited the story entitled "The Doll's Bazaar." Miss Alice Marquardt, county health nurse, was a visitor at the Island City school early this week. Vois Rinker, who has been ill all week, is reported to be better now. Thursday evening he had his ears lanced by a specialist in La Grande. In order to attend the Easter cantata which is to be given at the Methodist church in La Grande, there is to be no evening service at the Island City community church.

Fired Policeman Returns to Duty

PORTLAND, April 11 (AP)—Recently dismissed from the police department on charges of hit-and-run driving, intoxication, and disobedience, Patrolman George W. Russell was back on duty yesterday after reinstatement by Mayor Baker, following testimony of a number of witnesses that Russell had been a victim of amnesia at the time of the offenses charged against him. Dr. J. J. Sellwood declared Russell had apparently been struck on the head, the blow causing the mental disorder. The patrolman has but ten months to serve before being eligible for reinstatement on pension.

He announced he plans to leave early next week for a tour through Colorado, Wyoming, Arizona, and New Mexico, visiting Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana before he returns to the capital.

ENGLAND'S AMOS 'N' ANDY ARE ALEXANDER AND MOSE

LONDON (AP)—England has its own "Amos 'n' Andy" now. Britons didn't exactly understand the lazy pair when broadcast over here, but Alexander and Mose have been doing very well. Alexander is James Carew, who was married to the late Dame Ellen Terry, while Mose is Billy Bennett. Both are well known on the English stage and began their radio blackface as more of a lark than anything. "The fact is almost negligible," Bennett said when their identities were discovered, "but it's been great fun."

Mrs. Dougherty Recalls Early Days in Valley

By Mrs. A. G. Conklin (Observer Correspondent) COVE, Ore. (Special)—Mrs. Juliet P. Dougherty was honored guest at a birthday party Thursday at the home of Mrs. Ella Landers in the eastern part of town. Mrs. Landers' son, Earl, of La Grande, was also honored. Thursday being his birthday anniversary also, Mrs. Earl Landers and the two children, Helen Virginia and William Charles, were guests.

Mrs. Dougherty was born in Knoxville, Iowa April 9, 1853. She was the oldest of eight children and at the early age of four years her services were required in caring for the younger children. Her father went into the army leaving her mother to care for this family of small children. As a girl she had become adept in all the useful arts and in this time of stress they proved most useful to her. Knoxville was a small town and with not much opportunity for a spirited young lady like Mrs. J. R. Fletcher at which M. L. Carter will be invited to give some of his original poems and some of the works of the late Miss Ida Roberts and other Cove people will be used. The Camp Fire Girls have been asked to embroider the name of Dr. W. T. P. and the date of his gift to the Cove school upon the gymnasium curtains as a reminder to the future pupils of his kindly thoughtfulness of the boys and girls.

Keith Hallmark, two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hallmark, is ill again. The cause is severe indigestion or a form of poisoning which was also a cause of his spending a week at Hot Lake in February. He was also ill of pneumonia during the Christmas holidays when he was taken to Hot Lake for some time. Keith was to have celebrated his second birthday with a party Friday until his illness interfered.

DIET IN TUBERCULOSIS—II In view of the wasting away of the bodies of the tuberculous it is but natural that food and feeding habits have played a prominent part in the history of the treatment of tuberculosis. Today, while food is regarded as an aid in treatment rather than a specific, the tuberculous individual must watch his diet and his feeding habits. He must eat enough to counteract the wasting tendencies of the disease and should endeavor to maintain his weight at the ideal level for his age and height, or slightly above that. But he should also avoid fresh or fat diets and over-feeding. Fat is no defense against tuberculosis, nor can body weight alone be taken as an index to the progress of the disease. Whereas formerly the special diets proposed for the tuberculous were urged either because of their richness in food content, or on the basis of some unobtainable virtue, the latest ones have been developed and recommended for their influence on the chemical balance of the body. In substance these new diets are rich in calories, low in table salt and poor in animal meats and in starches. They are rich in fats and in vitamins. The mineral content of these diets, the chemical reaction of their residues, and their vitamins, are thought by the proponents of these diets to hasten healing and to help circumscribe the disease. The administration of these diets is a rather complicated affair and the reports from those who have studied their effects are contradictory. This phase in the treatment of tuberculosis, therefore, must be adjudged as still very much in the experimental stage.

contracted tuberculosis in her work. Another daughter, the wife of L. D. Sutherland, left a large family of children when she died a number of years ago. At this time Mrs. Dougherty was a widow and she went into the stricken home and cared for the motherless. After their children grew to manhood and womanhood and no longer needed her care, she was suddenly confronted with the task of caring for a six months old babe, her great-granddaughter, the child of her granddaughter, Ruth. This child, now nine years of age, has become her companion, the pet and comfort of her declining years. Mrs. Dougherty and Burnett have a little home in town where they moved a year ago and with the indefatigable industry that has marked her whole life, she has planted the lawn and flowers and is already planting her garden. She has a bed of pansies that are full of blossoms. The veterans' loans are coming in and the ex-service men are making good use of them. Darrel Fulp has purchased a house with his loan, the house known as the Stevens place which belonged to Mrs. Minnie Stevens. There is about an acre of land with the house, Leonard Millman, another veteran, has bought a truck which he will operate in hauling.

Claire Smith has been awarded the contract to furnish 50 cords of wood to the school district at $5 per cord. There were several bids offered but this offer was deemed the best by the board. Mrs. G. Blank has been elected janitor for the ensuing year. Miss Jean Welmer, who has been employed at Hot Lake sanatorium for the last year and a half, is at home. She has resigned her position because of the illness of her mother. Mrs. S. J. Welmer went to Hot Lake for a tonsil operation Friday.

Mrs. Homer Lefel and Lorna Jean of La Grande, were visitors at the home of Mrs. T. R. Conklin Wednesday. The many friends of the Lefels are very happy that they have moved back to La Grande from their home in Keweenaw, Ind. Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Sarvis and Mr. Sarvis' mother, and Mrs. P. Steffin, of La Grande, were Sunday visitors at the Chris Bertsch home in the canyon.

Political Storms Fill Bruening's First Year as German Chancellor

By Louis P. Lochner BERLIN (AP)—For the second time within the year that Heinrich Bruening has been chancellor of the young German republic, the country is operating under emergency powers granted to the president by article 48 of the constitution. Post-war chancellors all have had a tough time of it, but probably none has experienced a stormier stretch than Bruening has undergone in his first 12 months. Soon after he took office, March 30, 1930, he found it necessary to call on "Father" Von Hindenburg to suspend the reichstag and put the national budget into effect by executive decree. Now, after another reichstag session marked by much political battling, the same presidential power has been evoked to control the riotous extremists of the right and left who would tear down the republic.

Little Known At First Bruening, although leader of the Catholic Center party, was little known to the country at large when President von Hindenburg called him to head the seventeenth cabinet formed since the abdication of Emperor Wilhelm. But those who did know this quiet, studious bachelor hailed him as a "coming man." Now some call him "the strongest chancellor since Bismarck." The task he faced was at least as big as any of those which confronted his predecessors, all of whom had their troubles. Bruening had the thankless job of awakening Germany from its dream of living on borrowed money, and he had to preach and enforce a program of Spartan economy. He had to promulgate higher taxes and forestall foreign credits, thoughtlessly solicited. Ordered New Elections How little the country understood its own necessities as conceived by Bruening became apparent when, after trying in vain to make the reichstag see his point of view, the chancellor prevailed upon von Hindenburg to order new elections. Then Bruening saw the country turn for its salvation to extremists of the right and left. The vast land-aid of September 14, which put 107 wearers of Hitler's brown shirt in the reichstag, started the political world. Foreign credits were withdrawn. In France and Poland, alarmists saw a new war, provoked by Germany, around the corner. In Germany a feeling of panic pervaded most classes. Hard-headed bankers came rushing to Bruening and urged that he yield power to the Nazis. Hitler proclaimed in Leipzig that "heads would soon roll." One of the few men who remained cool was Bruening. Some-one must govern, he said, and he continued to govern. Only occasionally did he mutter the restraint of the reichstag, but what he said was delivered with such quiet assurance and convincing logic that his cabinet weathered one crisis after another.
