Acquaint now thyself with him, and be at peace: thereby good shall come unto thee.—Job 22:21.

NOW FOR PROSPERITY!

The following was written by an Easterner who has allowed his optimism full rein:

"The West Coast has taken the bull of depression by the horns and has thrown it so far its return should be indefinitely postponed. They are staging a business revival 'out there' that exhibits lasting qualities and should scatter its blessing over the rest of the land of erstwhile plenty.

"Activity in the Pacific Coast states is taking several forms, all of which will bring business and employment in themselves as well as creating new enterprise.

"The Hoover Dam project, shipbuilding for the trans-Pacific trade and public and private construction form the hub of this new wheel of prosperity. In them the nation will find the springs of new business and work for the idle.

"For this new hope that has come to the Far West the whole nation is thankful, both because of what it means to the states directly affected and because of what it means to the country at large. The new business germinating in the West is already sending its prolific roots in the business subsoil of other sections. There is no sectional isolation in the United States, although some politicians would have the public think so.

"Materials for the Hoover dam will come from many states and its power and water will supply several states. The ships slipping into the blue Pacific will bring trade from the Far East to every city and state, and a prosperous West is always a generous buyer from the East, South and Middle West."

And out here in the West we have been looking for the East to start prosperity rolling this way.

BASEBALL

The major baseball leagues open their seasons today with an interest on the part of the public that extends from coast to coast. Baseball is more commercialized than it was formerly, but it is not on that account losing its grip on the people.

It is a sport that enlists the interest of great numbers from every walk of life. While there are magnates financially interested in the game, that fact has not spoiled it. There is still alert competition, dramatic moments, suspense and the thrill of honest effort. Every team wants to win and tries to win.

All clubs report themselves strengthened for the 1931 season. The American League race promises to be much tighter than last year. In the National League the hot rivalry of the last several years will be intensified by the appearance of some of the second column teams of last year, as serious contenders for the league crown.

Every club feels like a winner in April. May that frame of mind continue in both leagues until late in the summer, at least. It will not be a successful season in any league, whether major or minor or sand lot, if one team jumps too far in the lead early in the season.

BUY FROM UNION COUNTY MERCHANTS

From time to time house-to-house salesmen come into La Grande and Union County and with high-pressure talk, or some hard luck story, try to sell goods.

Reports have reached the Chamber of Commerce that there is a group of such salesmen operating in this vicinity at the present time. In another column appears a letter from the Secretary of the Union County Chamber of Commerce on this subject.

It has been demonstrated time after time that Union County merchants can sell goods of equal or better quality and at lower prices than can be done by peddlers. It is only fair that we should buy from those who are conducting established businesses in Union County and who are paying taxes here to support our institutions, providing the goods we require are handled by these merchants.

Investigate before buying.

Expects New Farm Relief Legislation

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—New legislation to redeem Republican platform pledges of farm relief was forecast yesterday by Chairman Haugen of the house agricultural committee.

Haugen proposed the equalization fee as a solution of the agricultural problem if the federal farm board has not bettered conditions by the time congress meets. The Iowan twice sponsored the "McNary-Haugen" bill containing the fee. The measure was voted by President Coolidge.

"The board has tried to make the tariff effective but has failed," said Haugen. "That was their major purpose.

"The board has cost the government at least $200,000,000. The equalization fee would have met the farm condition without any cost to the treasury."

Governor Patron Of Bridge Tourney

Both celebrities as Governor and Mrs. Julius Meier and Mayor and Mrs. George Baker, of Portland, and many others from points over the state have been named patrons and patronesses for Oregon's first state contract bridge tournament to be held in Portland on April 20, 21 and 24. By adding an air of official approval to the tournament through the appointment of Governor and Mrs. Meier to head the list of patrons and patronesses, it indicates that the tourney winners will be recognized universally as champions of the state and will rank with the outstanding players of the east.

Thousands of contract bridge players in Oregon are interested in the strides which bridge fans are making to establish this game as the outstanding indoor game for all classes of people, according to local bridge enthusiasts.

McAdoo Praised by Women's League

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—Resolutions lauding William Gibbs McAdoo were adopted yesterday by the National Woman's Democratic Law Enforcement league after Chairman Hannah and four prominent Democratic leaders had been assailed for their anti-prohibition views.

Mrs. Jessie W. Nicholson, chairman of the league, demanded Chairman Raskob's resignation and described four "unqualified wet candidates" for the Democratic presidential nomination whom she later identified to reporters as Governors Ritchie of Maryland and Roosevelt of New York, Alfred E. Smith, and former Senator Reed of Missouri. She later led the group to the White House to call upon President Hoover.

The women sent McAdoo a telegram commending and thanking him for refusing to serve on the committee to welcome Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic national executive committee, upon his arrival in Los Angeles.

NEW BUDGET DIRECTOR IS NAMED TODAY

any announcement of it. He stated he had no plans to announce at this time. Kozer again refused to confirm or deny the reports he would be a candidate for state treasurer at the next election, to succeed Tom Kay.

Appointment a Surprise

The announcement of the appointment of Hansen came as a surprise at the state capitol. Hansen had been considered one of the attorneys for Governor Meier, and had his desk in the governor's office. Kozer has been budget director four years, or ever since the office was established under Governor I. L. Patterson. Kozer was former secretary of state and prior to that time was state insurance commissioner.

Hansen was born in Idaho and attended the University of Idaho. He entered newspaper work in his native state in the meantime studying law. He was admitted to the bar in 1906 in Idaho, but left shortly afterward to engage in newspaper work in the middle west. He came to Salem in 1909 and worked on the local papers, going from here to Portland where he worked on the Portland Telegram. Hansen managed the primary campaign of the late Senator George W. Joseph and the general election of Governor Julius L. Meier.

LEWIS DEFEATS WRESTLING KING

George's Reign in Heavyweight Field is Brought to an End.

By Paul Zimmerman
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

LOS ANGELES, Apr. 14 (AP)—For the fourth time in a decade, Ed (Strangler) Lewis today assumed the role of claimant of the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world.

Considered by many in recent years to be too decrepit to return to the troubled throne of grapplers so recognized in California and several other states, Lewis last night humiliated Ed (Don) George's reign which had lasted four months, defeating the former Michigan University athlete in straight falls.

The 39-year-old veteran of many wrestling wars smashed his 29-pound opponent into submission with a series of headlocks in the first session, and then made short work of the former national amateur champion to pin his shoulders to the mat for the deciding fall.

Lewis Gives Chase

And strangely the 12,000 who shrieked through the long first period at Wrigley field, roared their approval for the grappler who had been greeted with boos as he entered the ring.

Six headlocks in a row terminated the first session after 1 hour 10 minutes and 5 seconds of spectacular maneuvering. George appeared to be out cold, and was an easy victim for the second fall, brought about by a dumbbell-lock in 7 minutes 42 seconds.

The first fall was as eventful as it was long. Lewis showed more cleverness and vigor than he had since Gus Sonnenberg threw him for the loss of the disputed title at Boston in 1929. George kept matters fairly even by breaking flying tackles each time he slipped from the Lewis headlocks.

Reverting to wristlocks, Lewis held George at his mercy and then executed the attack of headlocks which terminated the proceedings. Another series as the second session opened seemed to add to the 1928 Olympic performer's distress but a raging moment as he attempted a body slam brought the sudden end.

Lewis craftily took advantage of the opening and clamped on the hammerlock from which George could not release himself. The Wolverine's head muscles hold his chief asset, studied none nothing. At no time was he able to clamp it on the Grantland Cal. cafe owner's bullet like head. George weighed six pounds less than Lewis who entered the ring at 228.

The Final Touch

Billy Sandow, Lewis' manager, added the final touch to the show by leaping into the ring and speaking to the press, shouted, "So Lewis' days are gone! He's through, is he?" Then he announced the Strangler was ready to meet anyone.

George became a title claimant by defeating Sonnenberg here last December. Lewis first held claim to championship in 1920. He reappeared in 1922 and in 1928. He has long been considered the leading member of the Sandow grunt and groaner troupe. Jim London is the recognized titleholder of their class.

In the semifinal last night, Joe Savoldi of Notre Dame grid fame, made short work of Myron Cox, Venice, Cal., He gained with a body slam in 9 minutes, 30 seconds. Savoldi weighed 205 and Cox, 210.

TUNNEL FIRE IN CHICAGO FATAL TO 10

One fireman, James O'Neill, was still missing. Fire Marshal Corrigan said.

It was a dramatic moment as the little group of workmen rose to the street. Firemen were pumping away, watchmen the shaft opening hesitantly, ready to attack any flames that reached the surface and threatened the shafts at the mouth. Suddenly the elevator bell rang, the cage ran up and the grimy faces of the first identified appeared.

Trenchless Shoot.

A tremendous shout went up, and firemen and rescuers surged to the entrance of the pit. Again the cage dropped, brought up another gang, then a third time to hoist a load.

John Turpen, one of the tunnel workers, told of the horrible night in the underground prison. They had sought refuge in the eastern air chamber when the fire drove them back from the shaft last night. There in the circle 20 foot square room they spent the night, some praying, singing at times, some even sleeping despite the stress.

Through the long hours of waiting for rescue they had been supplied constantly with fresh air pumped down from the surface, and the smoke that had seeped in at first was forced out. But toward 9 a. m., the air supply failed, and the prisoners knew they must make a break for the shaft or die of suffocation behind the bulkhead.

Up to Safety.

Making ready, holding their breaths as long as they could, they pushed open the door and dashed for the shaft, now clearing of gas. They rang for the elevator cage and shot up to daylight and safety.

These survivors were certain all in their bulkhead had escaped and that some had taken refuge in the western safety chamber.

The dead follow:

Fireman William Coyne.
Fireman William Karvesta.
Fireman Edward Pratt.
John Litwin, laborer.
John Gwalda, laborer.
John Miller, laborer.
John Pallonos, laborer.
Joseph Brodericks, laborer.
Julius Jurgula, laborer.
An unidentified laborer.
Policeman Harry Fielder, killed by speeding ambulance.

Poulterer was general agent at Kansas City for the Union Pacific before coming here.

Idaho Officials Given New Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, April 14 (AP) — Conviction of Herman J. Rosei, mayor of Wallace, Idaho, and R. E. Weniger, former sheriff of Shoshone county, Idaho, on seventeen counts of conspiracy to violate the United States prohibition laws was reversed here yesterday by the U. S. circuit court of appeals.

The case was remanded for a new trial with Justice Curtis D. Wilbur dissenting. The mayor and sheriff had been charged with taking salaries and other illegal returns as a means of raising revenue for the city.

The court held that is legal to tax what is forbidden. The power to tax involves the power to destroy and is pressed far enough it accomplishes that result, it was held.

The court said the record disclosed an interesting chapter in the history of crime in northern Idaho during the period covered by the indictments.
