Notorious Gangster Goes to State Pen

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., April 29 (AP)—Fred Burke, notorious gangster who was sentenced to life imprisonment after he had pleaded guilty to the killing of Patrolman Charles Skelly here, Dec. 14, 1929, was moved swiftly and under heavy guard from Berrien county jail at 4:37 yesterday morning, for Marquette where he will begin serving his sentence there Wednesday.

After a good night's sleep, Burke appeared cheerful. He was dressed neatly in a tailored gray suit and a light colored topcoat. He had nothing to say to the small gathering of newspapermen who witnessed his leave. He will be eligible to apply for a parole after 25 years, less time off for good behavior, according to Michigan law.

specialist to make the proper inspection and to determine what should be done.

"An Ounce of Prevention." "There is the old saying that 'an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure.' This is particularly true in reference to the public health work of the county nurse and of the Union County Public Health association. A few dollars spent to make some child normal in many instances will make a useful citizen of that child, where otherwise and in years to come, there might have been a public charge upon a community that would cost many, many times the amount spent in correction in the first instance.

Governor Not To Remove Any From Education Board

EUGENE, Ore., April 29 (AP)—In a telephone conversation with the Register-Guard, Governor Julius L. Meier yesterday told the paper he has no intention of removing any members of the state board of higher education.
Further, he said, he does not intend to interfere with the board's work in reorganizing the higher schools or meeting budget cuts.
"That their business," the paper quoted the executive, "I'm not going to interfere. I think they can work it out by themselves."
The governor said any rumors that he intends to oust members of the state board are without foundation.

Another development in the higher education situation yesterday was the announcement of the postponement of the state board meeting which was to have been held in Portland today.
The office of Dr. Arnold Bennett, president of the university, received word from Dr. E. Lindsay, secretary of the state board, that the meeting was postponed, but received no date for the meeting.

Also, in checking epidemics, when the states are taken in the beginning, untold thousands in the way of lives and dollars are saved to the nation. Smallpox is not regarded as particularly dangerous in recent years, because of the high percentage of people who have become vaccinated, with the result that the attacks are light. In the centuries that are past, before the discovery of combating diseases of this kind, were heard of plagues swept over the people of the nations, of the continent. The Black death of the middle ages is so well known in history to every child that the details thereof are not repeated. Yes, under modern methods of sanitation and combating the spread of such a disease, it would never get really started. Indian tribes have been almost completely wiped out by smallpox.

"For the amount of good that is done in the way of prevention, there is no money spent in the entire country that does as much as the work of the public health nurse and the Union County Public Health association. There is no way of estimating the actual money saved in the years to come from the corrective measures taken as outlined above and as set forth in the report of the public health nurse. This work is not done with any glare of publicity and shouting from the house-tops, and much of it is work that cannot be spoken of for the reason that it deals with the private lives of people and you cannot speak of that in the open. However, the number of visits made by the public health nurse, the number of deaths averted and the corrections made show that much has been accomplished."

In the 12th annual report of public health work in Union county, Mr. Dixon, representing the association, called attention to statistics showing what has been done under the leadership of Miss Marquardt during the year of 1930.
Number of schools visited 56
Number of visits to same 202
Number of children inspected 2820
Number of notes sent to parents 650
Number of home visits 207
Defects found:
Defective vision 498
Defective hearing 85
Nasal obstruction 255
Enlarged glands 744
Skin eruptions 173
Various other defects 88
Free smallpox vaccine was furnished to 1600 school children throughout the county, and during the year a number of corrections—such as vision, throats and teeth—were made for children where parents were unable to pay for such corrections, the association standing the expense.
In child welfare work, investigation of cases have been carried on where children have been neglected, delinquent, mentally and physically defective. Child welfare cases on file during the year totaled 173 and 243 visits were made in the interest of these cases. Thirty pre-natal and maternity cases are on file, with 97 visits.
The association secured Dr. Van-Leon, child specialist in Portland, to conduct a training clinic at the high school and 190 children were examined.
Tuberculous cases on file totaled 98, with 57 visits. Six applications were made for sanatorium care. In general cases, (covering all cases ness history, and that labor and capital as well have suffered seriously from curtailed earnings and unemployment. In spite of this I am sure it will not be denied that there has been less actual distress and less social disturbance than ever before under similar circumstances.

(not specifically mentioned), 116 were on file representing 251 visits. Social service cases totaled 285 with 478 visits. There were 339 letters written, 740 office conferences, 11 talks to groups and Miss Marquardt covered approximately 10,000 miles in her work.

Capital, Labor Praised.
"Industry generally has shown an interest in the workers of a quality never before seen in this or any other country. Labor's attitude as well has been most enlightened one.

"This voluntary assumption of the part of industry involving as it has the finest type of cooperative spirit and collective effort, has been one of the most important factors in carrying us thus far without serious distress or disturbance through a major depression. And this attitude on the part of industry toward its common problems seems to me to hold out the best hope of the future."

Situation is Being Corrected.
Mr. Lamont said he had seen no way whereby the federal government could have helped the situation more than it has, that already there are some indications the present situation is being corrected.

He pointed out that the "severity of the picture of the severity of the depression—has been becoming greater in recent decades, and this still further emphasizes the necessity of serious efforts to bring about some means of control.
He emphasized that attempts to remedy the situation after a collapse cannot be very effective that industry must largely do the job of prevention itself."

HERE... IS THE "LAND OF HEART'S DESIRE"

SPREAD before you, on these pages, are advertisements. Take a few moments, and let their words and pictures reveal what life can hold for you, if you but choose!

Longer days of lighter tasks... appointments for your home of more deeply satisfying comfort, beauty, usefulness... devices, methods, that save anxiety, and effort, and time... others that offer new economies... things to delight you, from far corners of the world... once rare and fabled objects that are now within your reach... all these and more are in that treasure house to which advertisements give you the key.

No magic formula, no "open sesame," could profit you so well as this certain knowledge of what is new... what can bring you pleasure, leisure, security... what is yours to possess!

Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honor preferring one another; recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.—Romans 12:10, 17, 21.

GERMANY AND FASCISM

The decline of Fascism in Germany has been as sudden as its rise. The Hitlerites scored an astounding victory in the Reichstag election last September and they are now suffering defeats no less surprising. What little power was left to them was lost when Wilhelm Frick, pioneer fascist in Germany, was voted out of his position as minister of culture and the interior for the province of Thuringia. German Fascism can reap no encouragement from the defeat of the man who, prior to last September, was the best known fascist figure in the nation.

The rise and fall of Fascism in Germany are not difficult to explain. The great fascist poll of last year was in considerable measure due to economic discontent. Race hatred preached by Frick and Hitler appealed to the unhappy and illiterate peasant masses seeking an outlet, and to unpopular regimes and dynasties seeking a scapegoat.

But, like most opportunists and mountebanks, they carried it a little too far. The people were quick to discover that their economic ills were a part of a world condition beyond remedy by the republican government, and that the Hitler-Frick incitements were removing Germany from the list of nations of high culture.

Hitler and Frick were merely imitating the great American demagogue who gets into public office by creating false issues, stirring up class hatreds, dividing the country against itself, and making campaign promises he cannot and does not intend to fulfill. And like their prototypes in the U. S. A., they got away with it for a time. "—But you can't fool all the people all the time."

SEASONAL UNEMPLOYMENT

An important part of any permanent solution of the great industrial problem is the prevention of seasonal unemployment which so seriously aggravates periods of depression. A great gain will have been made when seasonal peaks and valleys can be evened into a more nearly continuous production.

This is one of the problems before the committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, appointed to consider this, together with the creation of an industrial reserve, as the best precaution against depression of major proportions.

The personnel of this committee commands public confidence. Its members are all practical industrialists and financiers who are just as eager as the jobless to end these recurrent lean years, for all lose heavily and many are ruined in every depression.

President Hoover's early conferences on the unemployment situation, when the nation was confronted with the present emergency, paved the way for the studies of this committee. The one is taking up the task where the other left off, without loss of effort or wasteful back-tracking. It is significant that the transition has been made without conflict of opinion.

You don't have to nurse a grouch very carefully to make it grow.

A man isn't licked until he begins to complain about the rules.

In Washington

By Herbert Plummer
WASHINGTON — Anxious hours were spent by the occupants of that brown stone mansion high atop a hill on Fifteenth street overlooking Meridian Park in the capital following the disastrous earthquake in Nicaragua.
There is housed Nicaragua's legation to the United States, presided over by the tall, mustached Juan B. Sacasa, minister.

POPULAR MINISTER

Dr. Sacasa is popular among those with whom he comes in contact in Washington. He came here in 1929 after a stormy and adventurous career in his country.
He was vice president of Nicaragua when the government was overthrown. He fled from Managua and set up a liberal government at Puerto Cabezas shortly after Adolfo Diaz, a conservative had been named president by congress in 1928.
The Diaz government was recognized by the United States. Sacasa's government gained recognition from Mexico.
Peace between the two factions was established.

REPRESENTS MONCADA

General Moncada, now president of Nicaragua, was commander-in-chief of the Sacasa forces which fought against the Diaz government. And it is as Moncada's personal representative Sacasa works in Washington.
He was greatly disturbed when newspapers began printing pictures of Managua—pictures that were assembled hastily from files of the Pan-American Union in the capital.
"These are not scenes of the present day Managua at all," said the minister in dismay.
"Look, the car that is more in evidence than the automobile. People will get the wrong impression." Whereupon he sat down and dis-
