JOHNNY FARRELL ON GOLF

OVER-LAPPING GRIP

Knuckles in line. Small finger lapped over to keep hands together.

Thumbs and index fingers form parallel V's.

By Johnny Farrell (Former American Open Champion) As told to Alan Gould NO. 2—THE GRIP

Maybe you have heard a lot of conflicting ideas about the proper grip in handling golf clubs.

This star uses the over-lapping, that one the inter-locking, another just the old-fashioned grip.

These varieties really make no difference at all in the results; that is, none of them involves any secret of success.

The whole thing is to keep the hands close together, first, so that the grip is comfortable; second, so that the hands work in unison.

It is essential to get the left hand over in any kind of grip. This helps cock the wrists at the top of the swing, thereby furnishing power in the stroke.

The thing I point out to pupils is that the knuckles of both hands, in the proper grip, are along the same line. This, as I say, means that the hands are going to work in harmony.

Of course, it is essential to use the same grip for all shots.

I use the over-lapping grip myself, with the small finger of the right hand over-lapping the index finger of the left hand. For another player, the inter-locking grip—with these two fingers locked together, may be just as effective. As I say, I do not consider this feature vital.

It is just as important to avoid tenderness in the grip as it is in the arms and body generally. It should be firm without being tight. Don't grip the club as a drowning man might grab a stick held out to save his life.

Another important thing is to have both hands go through without any check on the follow-through. Sometimes I notice players have a tendency to let one hand, especially the right hand, relax or even let go before the completion of the stroke. This is a bad habit.

Tomorrow—Use That Spoon.

Beach And Stone
Tell Fish Yarns

PORT MYERS, Fla., Apr. 30 (S)—Rex Beach, author, and Fred Stone, musical comedy star, were back today from a ten-day fishing trip with tales of tarpon to make any novelist proud.

They caught 52 of the gamest fish that fits in the gulf, they said, and weights were estimated at 125 pounds down. And of other fish they said there were many, so many that no accurate census was taken.

And, in addition, they could have had one more tarpon. An 80-pounder leaped into a boat one day without inducement of hook or bait, but after a council on the ethics on aquatic enterprise they decided it wasn't sportsmanlike to thus take advantage of unsophisticated tarpon—so back in the water he was tossed.

Prices Have Hit Rock Bottom
They Will Never Be Lower

Everyone knows that the time to buy to the best possible advantage is when prices are at the absolute bottom. There is no doubt about it, that time is here—in fact it is generally agreed that furniture prices are way below what they have any reason to be. That means that you will have to act at once if you want to buy before the inevitable advance in prices sets in.
