ately if Mrs. Fowler were convicted. Mr. Cherry said that in his opinion the state should have nothing to do with the matter, the shortage governing the payment of the bond. Some discussion followed and it was decided that Mr. Eakin write the bonding company in an effort to bring the exact status of the matter before any further action is taken.

Several business came before the meeting. Commissioner Lottes suggested that a quarterly report be prepared to show how the city is doing within its budget, and for comparison. Reorganization Of Company Is Urged

LOS ANGELES, April 30 (AP)—Immediate action by creditors and security holders of the Richfield Oil Company of California to effect a reorganization and refinancing of the company, called for by William C. McDuffie, receiver in equity. Under forced sale company properties carried on the books a year ago at $13,900,000, but estimated in a statement issued yesterday. The estimate was based on a valuation made for him by Stone & Webster on the properties, assuming the complete liquidation of the company. The valuation indicates holders of convertible 6% of 1944, of which $25,401,000 are outstanding, would receive less than 60 cents on the dollar.

General assets of the Pan-American Petroleum properties indicate holders of the outstanding 6% of 1944 would realize nearly their face value. The crude oil production, appraised at $24,115,000, is estimated, while a foreclosure value of $4,755,000 is placed on refineries appraised at $21,772,000.

"It is earnestly hoped," said McDuffie, "that the various classes of creditors will appreciate the desirability of an immediate reorganization."

Robbers Surprised By Night Watchman

Included in their intended loot were one hundred suits of men's clothing, packed in suitcases the robbers had taken from racks in the store.

The two had entered the establishment by sawing through a heavy iron screen. It was believed they took a small amount of money and some stamps.

The store last October was robbed of about $2500 worth of merchandise.

TREASURER KAY BURIED IN SALEM

Simplicity Marks Funeral Services Held at Capital This Afternoon.

SALEM, April 30 (AP)—Simplicity, in conformity with the wishes of the state treasurer, marked the funeral services of Thomas B. Kay, held at 2 p. m. today. The simple church service was to be held at the church and at the grave, no fraternal organizations participating.

Rev. E. J. Howe, pastor of the First Christian church, of which Kay has long been a member, was to deliver the brief sermon. Two old hymns favorites of the Kay family, were to be sung by Mrs. Arthur Rain, Salem soprano. Those selected are "The Old Rugged Cross" and "In The Sweet By and Bye."

All business in Salem was at a standstill during the services today, while state, county and city offices were to be closed during the entire afternoon. Early indications were that the large church will prove inadequate for those planning to attend the funeral rites of Oregon's veteran state officer.

"I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith," will be the text for the services.

Active pallbearers for the funeral are Dr. E. Lee Steiner, Fred H. Paulus, Rex Davis, Paul B. Wallace, W. I. Staley and E. L. Widen. Honorary pallbearers are J. C. Almsworth, Portland; Claude I. Ingalls, Corvallis; A. N. Bush, Salem; Hal E. Hoss, Salem; B. F. Irvine, Portland; J. K. Weatherford, Albany; Mayor George A. White and Henry Meyers, Salem.

ANTI-TRUST LAW CHANGE AGAIN URGED

(Continued from Page One) curtailment are to be permitted, then the government, federal and state, must be permitted to have some say about it, and to the generality of business men this would open the door for government operation and government regulation, and business sentiment is against that.

Edmund Platt, New York banker and former vice-governor of the federal reserve board, demanded relaxation of legislative restrictions which prevent combination of small banks with large ones. He said such combinations would sharply diminish the number of bank failures.

Henry I. Harriman, of Boston, an official of the New England Power company, said that the federal electric railway industry in the face of automobile competition testifies to its economic necessity.

BOY HERO SEES RECEPTION FOR KING AND QUEEN

(Continued from Page One) Boone said he almost had to drag Bryan away from the firearms display. From there they went to the streets where Lincoln was shot and across the street to the house where Lincoln died.

When he arrived back at the White House he found Mrs. Hoover awaiting to see him. He was taken to the open car which Mrs. Hoover herself drove. Bryan then got a ride around the city. The two older Hoover grandchildren were the other delighted occupants of the car.

There were no kings and queens mixed up in today's schedule but there were equally exciting prospects including a look through the door at the cabinet in formal session, another lunch with the president and some serious, well-planned sightseeing.

PAPERS GAIN IN IDEALS IN LAST DECADE

NEW YORK, April 30 (AP)—Newspapers have gained greatly in their ideals of public service and journalism has become one of the highest professions, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university told the Alumni association of the Columbia School of Journalism last night.

Dr. Butler compared the modern newspaper with its predecessors and pointed to the gains in the facilities for disseminating news. "The educational value of the modern newspaper and its power to form public opinion can hardly be exaggerated," he said. "Contrary to general opinion the president of the United States is not elected on election but long before. The next president is being elected now through the power of the public press to modulate public opinion. The newspapers supply the information on which public opinion aligns itself. And on election day the public merely votes the opinion it has held for a long time before through the power of the press."

Poet Laureate Of California Dies

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 30 (AP)—Dr. Terry Mead Brand, 68, poet laureate of California, died here last night of bronchial pneumonia.

By act of the legislature, Dr. Brand was named poet laureate in 1929, succeeding the late Ina Coolbrith. He was a native of Salano county and attended the University of the Pacific at San Jose, now the College of the Pacific at Stockton, being graduated in 1887, and as a classmate of Herbert Hoover received his master's degree from Stanford.

Dr. Brand in 1899 became professor of English literature at the San Jose State Normal school, now the State Teachers college. He held that position until his death.

He was the author of many volumes of verse, including "Stevenson's Children," "Prose and Poetry for Children," "The Golden Gate Birthday Book," and "A Song of Autumn."

BOY, 2, DROWNED IN BAKER RIVER

(Continued from Page One) aped the little body completely submerged under some debris and while the father, stunned by the tragic discovery, and the officer looked on, the body was quickly brought to the bank. In an instant the father had his babe in his arms and sped to the home. Officer McGovern rushed to a phone and summoned Dr. Blakely. Resuscitative efforts were made at resuscitation but to no avail; the spark of life had gone from little Richard's body, and grief-stricken parents weeping friends, exhausted, bowed to the will of fate and Richard was given up dead.

Officers McGovern and Linville, who made a thorough investigation, are of the opinion that the little Knutson boy found an automobile tire in the river in the rear of his home and apparently tried to move it around with a long stick. Then it is thought, he attempted to climb down the bank over some loose hay, stumbled and fell into the water. The body floated down stream about 400 yards and was exhausted, bowled to the other side of the river about an hour when rescued.

Records in the police station show Frederick Grady once admitted punching and attempting to punch 22 faces, while similar entries indicate George D'Orsay entered the Oregon prison in 1929 for a three-year term.

D'Orsay And Grady Trapped at Safe

PORTLAND, Apr. 30 (AP)—Picture the plight of D'Orsay and Grady. With an ax, hammer and chisels in their possession, and carrying between them $700 in unmarked and consequently valueless bonds, the two were trapped last night in a printery here as, police declare, they were completely absorbed in knocking the combination from a safe.
