JOHNNY FARRELL ON GOLF

Johnny Farrell here shows graphically the advantage of using a spoon instead of a brassie on full shots through the fairway.

By Johnny Farrell (Former American Open Champion) As Told to Alan Gould No. 3. USE THAT SPOON People often ask me what is the most important shot in golf. For the professional stars, putting is the most important part of the game, for it is the work on the greens that tells the scoring tale. For the average players, who make up more than 80 per cent of the whole golfing family, my conviction is that the drive is the most important shot. A good drive has a tonic effect on most ordinary players. It is the most satisfying shot to pull off well. The next one or two shots may be dubbed or partly dubbed, but a first-rate drive usually means the half-way mark to the green. In the full wood shot, the follow-through is most important. Once the fundamentals of an easy, relaxed stance are acquired, the individual player must adjust his own swing so that it is easy and natural, with a full follow-through. That's what gets the extra distance. Too much practice often does more harm than good. I think 10 to 15 minutes is plenty for the practice of any shot. An hour's practice is equivalent to a full round and too much. Ninety-nine times out of a 100, it is better to use the spoon than the brassie for full shots through the fairway. Seldom is a good brassie hit obtained, whereas the spoon, having greater loft, will produce better results. The spoon is a good utility club. For the average player, it gets better results than a full No. 2 iron. It can be used to advantage off the tee, if the driver seems a little out of control. Bobby Jones had a habit for years of using his spoon for the first three or four holes off the tee, until he feels he is warmed up and swinging smoothly. Tomorrow—The Stance.

Eight Amateur Boxing Crowns Awarded In N.Y.

NEW YORK, May 1 (AP)—Out of the milling crowd of 144 youngsters who started to ring leather Monday night, eight survivors were left today, each the proud possessor of a golden belt symbolizing the national amateur championship of the United States. Jack Pallet of Cleveland has two such trophies. The only 1930 champion to defend his title, Pallet swept through the heavyweight ranks to win his second championship with a technical knockout over Earl Sather of Minneapolis in the final last night. After a knock-out by Homer Brander of San Francisco in the semi-final. Pallet's victory gave Cleveland two championships. Babe Triscaro, Chunky little flyweight gained a declaration over Eddy Ceresole of Oakland, Calif., to win the 112-pound title. New York, holding its first national championship in 28 years, also had two winners. The other four champions from Boston, San Francisco, New Orleans and Reno, Nev. In addition to the two Cleveland lads, the newly crowned champions are: 118 pounds, Joseph Ferrante, Boston; 125 pounds, Anthony Scarpato, New York; 135 pounds, Al Gompert, San Francisco; 147 pounds, Edward Flynn, New Orleans; 160 pounds, Frank Fullam, New York; and 175 pounds, Arthur Power, Reno. The first night of the tournament, marred last night's program, which covered the semi-final and final bouts, Don Gonzalez, Cleveland, 125-pounder, landed several wallops in foul territory in his final bout against Sather. When he had piled up a good lead over Sather, the referee finally intervened in the second round and awarded the title to the New Yorker. The finals saw knockouts in the last two bouts. Before Pallet stopped Sather in the heavyweight final, Antonio, the Reno lad who the old timers said looked like the Jack Dempsey of 20 years ago, knocked out Joe Melham of Kansas City in the third round. The New Orleans brother act of Eddie and Dennis Flynn carried through to the finals but only one of the southern boys, who look and fight alike, could win a title. Eddie beat Jay Lyons of Lancaster, N. Y., but Dennis lost to Frank Fullam.

Senators Drop Third Game To Angels, 6 to 5

By the Associated Press As the series between Los Angeles and Sacramento progresses, the Angels are strengthening their hold on top position in the Pacific Coast league, while the Senators, who held the lead for some time, have dropped to fourth place. Los Angeles made it three straight yesterday by defeating Sacramento 6 to 5 at Los Angeles. They pulled the game from the flames in the closing innings when Loris Baker, of Salem, Ore., and John Schulte hit homers and Leroy Herrmann hurled hitless balls. Oakland batted out a 11 to 8 victory over the Seals last night at San Francisco. The A's banged away at four Seals pitchers. The Seals rallied in the eighth to get four runs. They got two more in the ninth. Then Tubbs relieved Pearson on the mound for Oakland and the rally ended. Senators staged a five-run rally in the ninth on the home lot to best Hollywood's Stars 8 to 4. The final blow for the Stars came when Louie Adams, Indian center fielder, cracked a homer with the bases full. After dropping the first two games of the series, the Mission Reds turned around yesterday and bounced the Beavers 6 to 7. The game was played at Portland. A fourth inning rally netted the Reds eight hits which they converted to six runs. The Beavers couldn't duplicate.

The youthful team of Frank X. Shields, of New York, Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, and Sidney H. Two singles matches are scheduled for the opening day. Shields meets Mexico's first ranking player, Ricardo Tapia, and Allison plays Alfonso Uda. J. B. Adams Jr., of Dallas, Tex., non-playing captain of the United States team, said last night that the matches with Mexico were not to be taken lightly and the players would have to do their best to win.

GIANTS CLIMBING IN ELDER LEAGUE

McGraw's Team Up to Third Place—Yankees Trouce Athletics.

By Gayle Talbot Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer) Of the two principal experiments conducted by the big league leagues this year, one gives every promise of being a howling success. The other is proving a keen disappointment to its sponsor. John McGraw appears to have made a wise move in shifting Freddie Lindstrom from third base to the outfield and putting the rookie, Johnny Vergez, at the warm corner. At least, the Giants were in third place in the National league today, the result of their third straight victory. Both Lindstrom and Vergez are clicking in their new positions.

Killifer Not So Lucky
Bill Killifer, on the other hand, has had no such luck with the "pony" infield he installed this spring on his St. Louis Browns. For a week the Browns went great, winning of their first four, but since then they haven't done anything except lost seven straight ball games. Today's sun found them resting at the bottom of the American league.

The Chicago White Sox handed the Browns their last job yesterday, 10 to 9, in 11 innings. The victory, Chicago's third straight, pushed the Sox into a tie with Detroit for fourth place. Harold McKinn was credited with his third win of the year. Nine errors marred the conflict.

Athletics Beaten
So relieved were the Yankees to get out of Washington after dropping three to the Senators, that they drove Rube Walberg from the mound and beat the Athletics, 7 to 2, in their opener at Philadelphia. Henry Johnson held the champions to six hits and struck out seven men.

Detroit dropped on Willis Hudlin for four runs in the first inning and got four more off Miller in the sixth.
