

Finance Genius, After Meteoric Career, Calmly Faces Court Battle

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Fate again is shuffling the cards for Rogers Caldwell, 41-year-old sportsman and financier, and this time his cards will fall upon the judge's bench in criminal court instead of the mahogany board of directors' rooms.

Dr. Caldwell, who has been intimate with himself did not know the extent of his millions, this youthful financier was widely known as a liberal entertainer, an enthusiastic turf fencer, and a breeder of fine horses.

Today his name is written in indictments returned by a federal grand jury at Greenville, Tenn., and by state grand juries at Nashville, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky.

King George Finds Crown Still Safe After Ruling For 20 Stormy Years

By Edward Stanley

LONDON (AP)—With 20 years of his reign behind him May 6, no modern monarch has brought his throne so unscathed through such warring storms as King George has weathered.

When later he returned to London from his seaside convalescence the route was thronged for miles.

Last year the anniversary of his accession to the throne was made an opportunity for a nation's thanks for his safe recovery. There was a modest celebration and thousands of messages of congratulations poured into the palace.

Last Year Busy.

This, his twentieth year, has been packed with events important to the British empire, which has been gradually changing its character.

Early in the year he opened the naval conference, which brought about a cessation of competitive building.

Later in the year at the Imperial conference the dominions pulled further away from the influence of Westminster, but gave the king added importance as an empire figure.

Then came the Indian round table conference, which the king opened personally. Upon the secure settlement of this problem many observers believe the future of the empire hinges.

CONTINUE SOWING POPPY SEEDS

The planting season for poppy seeds in the West is almost continuous. It begins in the early fall in the lower altitudes and may continue throughout the winter and early spring months. The intense interest in poppies is responsible for hybridists making a special effort to bring into being new colors and combinations of colors.

Some of the more recent introductions are American Legion, a tall stately poppy of brilliant orange scarlet; the Tall Double Poppies in salmon shades; the Double Poppies flowered poppy and those large round sorts commonly referred to as carnation-flowered.

Then there are the Eschscholtzias, which we call the California Poppy. These are in an endless variety of color, including the Aurantiaca, which is the true California Poppy; Tango, a bronzy red; Gelaha, orange crimson; Lovely, a rose salmon; and many others.

The seeds of poppies should always be sown where the plants are to remain. They are not particular as to soil and will thrive under ordinary garden cultivation. They are the best for bedding and make a most colorful garden. It is well to mix the seeds of poppies with sand before sowing. This gives a greater distribution.

MILCH COWS NOW SELLING ON DOLLAR-A-WEEK PLAN

BEAVERS, England—Milch cows are selling on the dollar a week plan.

After the partial payment or installment system proved successful in England, the plan was introduced here with a large London dairy company sponsoring the plan.

The farmer signs no contracts regarding the sale of his milk, but the dairy company gets the "break" in the bulk of the business, prices being equal.

COFFEE HELPS 'EM SLEEP

SPEAKING IN RAIN

Rainy weather didn't halt ceremonies opening the new $2,000,000 bridge that unites Northeast Philadelphia and New Jersey shore resorts. Here you see Governor Morgan Larson of New Jersey—sheltered by an umbrella—delivering the radio address which officially opened the span.

He Knows His Job

The explanation is that King George knows his job.

He has brought the theory that England's kings "rule but do not govern" near perfection.

Probably this is the result of the long apprenticeship he served to his father and to Queen Victoria.

He was a mature man, of wide

Russian Heads Abolishing Card Ration System

MOSCOW, May 13 (AP)—Premier Molotov and Joseph Stalin, head of the communist party, issued a joint decree Tuesday abolishing the card ration system for practically all commodities except food, fuel and certain building materials.

This system has been in operation more than a year. Due to a purported scarcity of commodities workers were required to obtain orders from their unions or factories to purchase shoes, clothes and other necessities from governmental cooperative stores.

The scheme was described in the decree as having caused a growth of bureaucracy, an accumulation of large quantities of goods, maldistribution of products and an artificial shortage.

The decree declares that "the outstanding of the private traders does not mean that trade will be abolished but on the contrary that government and cooperative trade must increase."

This statement was interpreted as meaning that light industry will be greatly increased and that there is no shortage of goods. Therefore under the new "khozraschiot" system, for which factories and other organizations are made responsible, the government will make an effort to place shops and stores on a basis similar to that existing in capitalist countries.

The government's move is visualized as killing two birds with one stone—gathering in excess rubles, for purposes of currency deflation and popularizing the Soviet regime.

NEVER TOO LATE

"I should have gone to school 35 years ago and then I would have been able to read and write at 50," declares "Aunt Bet" Gurganus, 75, above, residing near Jasper, Ala. Two years ago she started struggling two miles a day to a school in the mountains near her home. She couldn't read nor write then. Now she is versed in the "Three Rs."

ZARO AGHA, OF 157 YEARS, IS STILL GIDDING

ISTANBUL, Turkey, May 13 (AP)—Where, oh where can my sequen-tarian be, is the worry which is haunting Mrs. Zaro Agha just now.

The old man is gadding about Europe and does not come home. His 65-year-old wife and great-grandson expected him back in Istanbul in time for the annual mutton festival and sacrificed a big ram in preparation for the homecoming, but Zaro failed to turn up.

Zaro Agha, who claims to be 157 years old, came to the United States last July and sailed April 9 for Europe, intending to return home. He was equipped with a new set of false teeth.

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—Zaro Agha, Turk who claims to be 157 years old, took his first lesson in airplane flying at Brooklands field Monday.

He enjoyed his experience and momentarily took the controls. He hopes to have another try at it. As far as can be learned he is not at all anxious to get home.

DR. S. P. BROOKS IN COMA

WACO, Tex., May 13 (AP)—Physicians said Dr. S. P. Brooks, head of Baylor university, was in a weakened condition and approaching a state of coma from cancer in a form that precluded possibility of recovery.

WOMEN'S FOIBLES COSTLY

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Foibles of Uncle Sam's daughters, in the words of Henry Stude, are costing American farmers at least $500,000,000 a year. "They have abandoned comfortable cotton for sheep chaff and wholesome wheat for dangerous diets," he told the convention of the New York Retail Bakers' association, Stude, a Chicagoan, is president of the American Bakers' association.

ON GREENS

When the salad is served between the main course and the dessert, it should be appetizing, light and tart. It should not be too heavy. The fresh simple flavors of greens are most appropriate. Lettuce, endive, cucumbers, or cold vegetables, such as asparagus, Brussels sprouts or string-beans. These salads suggest a tart, stimulating dressing... Bachelor Club Dressing, Vinaigrette Dressing, or French Dressing.

To make French Dressing: Six tablespoons of Wesson Oil, one teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, two tablespoons of lemon juice, a dash of paprika, and season to your taste.

ON FRUITS

Fruits, fresh or canned, have a more pronounced flavor than the simple greens. They call for a dressing less sharp, with perhaps a dash of sweetness or the tang of cheese, to encourage them to give us back their sunshine and full fresh flavor.

The next time you have a fruit salad, try this Cheese Dressing: Cream a three-ounce package of cream cheese with two tablespoons of Wesson Oil. Blend teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon each of white pepper and granulated sugar, two tablespoons Wesson Oil and two of lemon juice. Beat into the cheese until it becomes light and fluffy. Then dust with paprika.

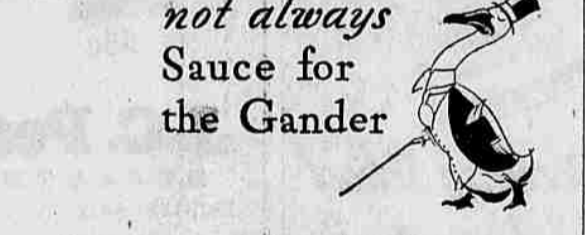

FOR SEAFOOD

When salad is the main dish at a meal, as at luncheon let us say, and boasts the full flavor of lobster, crabmeat, or shrimp, the finished salad should be garnished with Lemonaise or Tartar Sauce, but the fish should first have been marinated.

*To marinate: Mix six tablespoons Wesson Oil and two tablespoons of vinegar. Add a teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper. Pour this over seafood and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours. Serve with Lemonaise.

Sauce for the Goose is... not always Sauce for the Gander

SOME things go well together—like cranberry with turkey, jelly with duck, mint with lamb. And some things do not. Nowadays when we make so many different kinds of salad no one salad dressing will suit every salad.

mix a dressing appropriate to the salad

For instance on crisp, cool greens, a tart dressing such as Vinaigrette Dressing. On fruit, try a sweet-dressing such as Bar-le-Duc. Shrimp or fish, on the other hand, should always be marinated* in French Dressing and served with Lemonaise or Tartar Sauce.

WE would like to send you with our compliments, a little book by Mary B. Murray on appropriate salad dressings—a book that not only suggests what dressings go with what salads, but which offers many helpful suggestions to the hostess as to correct salad service.
