ROAD DRIVE SUBJECT OF CLUB LUNCH (Continued from Page One)

E. D. Towler, Bessie Pettigrew and Eleanor E. Vernon. At the luncheon today Charles Reynolds, chairman of the committee in charge of the drive, presided and after outlining the situation, and expressing appreciation of the donations already made, including the $104 by the schools, introduced two speakers, Aug. J. Stange, and W. C. Perkins.

Must Keep Faith, He Says. Mr. Stange emphasized the point that La Grande must keep faith with the forest service, which is putting $8000 into the project, or endanger the fate of the Ukiah-Starkey road and any other federal aid projects of the future. "We're on trial," he said, "and whatever action we take means either a lot for us or a very black eye. We're obliged, every one of us. If we fall down on the Mt. Emily road, how can we ask the forest service to help us on the Ukiah road, which means a great deal to this community?"

Mr. Stange said that the department now is favorable to the Ukiah road, but that it would be exceedingly difficult to secure if La Grande fails in this project.

Concerning the Mt. Emily road, he mentioned the fact that, although some timber will come over it, it distinctly will not be a logging road. "After it is built, we'll all go over it, and we will send tourists over it for the marvelous view it will afford," he said.

Mr. Perkins speaks. "The Value of the Road as Compared to What is Being Done in Other Communities," pointed out that in the east, great sums are being spent for recreational purposes. Pittsburgh is purchasing over 2000 acres of high priced land on which every sport will be developed. The Mt. Emily road would be an additional recreation feature aside from its undoubted economic advantages. He expressed the opinion, gained from his first view of the valley, that the major factor in bringing him into La Grande permanently, that such a view as would be afforded from the top of Mt. Emily, would be a great attraction for tourists and would undoubtedly lead many of them to locate here. Incidentally, he pointed out that $2000 raised by La Grande this year and $1000 next year assures practically all of $16,000 being spent in this community on the building of the road alone.

Mr. Reynolds also mentioned the fact that the roadway would be of dirt construction, eight miles in length, 12 feet in width and that the maintenance would be handled by the governmental and county.

near Howell Mountain, Napa county, the student body of the Pacific Union college joined fire fighters.

More than 500 acres of grass land was burning in lake county, near Clear Lake, forestry officials said. Another fire was fought in the Carmel area, Monterey county. Yolo county officials were battling a brush fire in the Cache creek canyon in the northern section of that county.

Low humidity and high temperature combined to increase the fire hazard, although weather bureau officials predicted relief by Wednesday.

While forest fires raged, firemen at San Jose fought a fire in the historic Santa Clara court house which was destroyed with an estimated loss of $200,000. Virtually all records were saved. No one was injured except firemen and their injuries were slight.
