gene's part in the discussion attending section of the national soldiers' home which is to go to Oregon, and the national soldiers' veterans' board today by a chamber of commerce telegram sent to General Frank F. Hines. This message followed word received here that the veterans' bureau office in Washington has been flooded with form telegrams. The chamber indicated these messages do not picture the situation accurately. A. F. S. Steele, secretary of the chamber, declared that Eugene is supporting Roseburg, but that if Roseburg does not meet all the requirements of the board, Eugene wants to be given next consideration. Eugene has offered sites for the home.

Central Point Man Falls For Another Stock Market Game EUGENE, Ore., May 28 (AP)—It was an old, old story to police, but it was brand new to A. V. Carlson, of Central Point. Strolling with Jack Lindstrom, who is now in jail, Carlson and Lindstrom kicked over a purse lying in the grass. It contained what appeared to be a $100,000 bond belonging to Fred M. Hathaway. With the bond was a code. They sought Hathaway who said the code enabled him to beat the stock market. He would let them in, he said, for returning the bond. They played the market. Carlson won. But more money was needed—$30,000, for marginal operations. Carlson was asked to help by raising $3000. He drew his $1950 savings from the Central Point bank. Officials of the institution were concerned about him. Police were informed, and yesterday just as Carlson was about to turn over the officers, arrested Lindstrom and John E. Mathes, said to be the fictitious "Hathaway."

GROWS AT MISSED PUTT SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (AP)—E. M. Wild, of the Baltunor golf club here, has a more than ordinary complaint over a missed short putt. Pope's Portrait Is Destroyed By Fascist Students ROME, May 28 (AP)—Destruction of a portrait of Pope Pius XI by fascist students during an attack on a Catholic publishing house cast new fuel today on the smouldering resentment of the Vatican toward the Italian government. The young blackshirts stormed the headquarters of Civiltà Cattolica last night, burning the windows and looting other objects of value. They tore an oil painting of the pontiff from the wall, carried it into the streets and trampled on it, crying meanwhile: "Here is a traitor to his country." Heavy copies of the book "Il Papa" (The Pope) out of the windows, they took them to Piazza Colonna, near the foreign office, and consigned them to a bonfire, together with copies of Osservatore Romano, a newspaper which has been publishing accounts of purported fascist indignities.

Benefit Concert Tonight To Help Scholarship Fund Tonight from 8 to 10 o'clock a musical reception will be given at the home of Mrs. Alfred L. Richards for the benefit of the scholarship fund of the Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs. The La Grande Neighborhood club has annually contributed to this cause feeling that the greatest work that women can do is to prepare young people to take their places. While that and in view of raising young girls for a broader life and citizenship through greater educational advantages, the scholarship fund was established in 1908. There were over a hundred beneficiaries last year and with the presence in this city of the Eastern Oregon Normal there is a rapid addition to the number of local beneficiaries through many La Grande girls have been assisted in earlier years while attending other schools of Oregon and continue to be listed at other institutions in Oregon. The outstanding loan funds in the United States and many local people feel it a privilege to assist in this wonderful work. The reception this evening is for the enjoyment and anyone interested is cordially invited to participate. It may be interesting to know the rules governing loans from this fund. Fred Smith, Roy Smith, residing in Oregon, so many students attending schools in our state apply but we have not enough to supply our own, consequently they are loaned by the endorsement of beneficiaries must attend Oregon schools, unless it is satisfactorily shown that the course desired is not available in an Oregon institution. Girls over the age of 21, one is a graduate of an Oregon university, taking her master's degree in an Eastern college. The other two are in nurses' training in California. Each application must be accompanied by three letters of reference from teachers, dean of women or someone of standing in the community, or by the endorsement of a chartered club which needs no other reference. Many of the requests come from orphan girls, girls from large families, or girls whose parents have met with financial loss. An amount sufficient to carry a girl through an entire college course cannot be loaned, since parents are expected to make their own arrangements. One hundred and fifty dollars is the average amount loaned. This may seem very small, but in the words of Edward Young, "Think naught a trifle though it small appears, small sums make the years, and small utilities the life." A note must be given for the amount loaned and carry one endorsement, usually that of the father or mother, and the amount of the payment is expected to begin as soon as the beneficiary becomes a wage-earner and to continue in regular monthly payments until the obligation is canceled. One orphan girl sponsored by a club writes: "I would like to get $150 to attend business college. I have had two months' schooling, but I am entirely dependent on my own resources." Her references were fine and she is in school. And that is only one example.

ALL PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS MARCH SATURDAY (Continued from Page One) America. Each section will be headed by its own colors. Another feature of the parade will be a float which is to be entered by the Women's Christian Temperance Union. The formation of the parade is to be under the direction of Captain Walter A. Bean and Lieutenant Jesse Andrews, of the national guard. L. L. Snodgrass is in charge of transportation to the Masonic cemetery where appropriate services will be conducted by the G. A. R. at their plot in the cemetery, with a bugle corps from the American Legion sounding taps at various stations throughout the cemetery, giving the impression of an echo. Taps will be sounded in this fashion also because the soldiers' graves are placed throughout the grounds. In past years the drive to the cemetery has met with some confusion since many cars were encountered driving in the opposite direction on the road. Police Chief Hynes and the veterans ask that traffic be clear on the road during the procession. Women's patriotic organizations will serve dinner to the veterans, the national guard and the Boy Scouts following the parade in the hallways of Pythias hall. Dinner is to be served at 12 o'clock with committees from the organization taking part in the preparation.

STORM PICKS CRACK TRAIN FROM TRACK (Continued from Page One) from the railroad, and deposited with a third on the prairie leaving only the engine and tender on the tracks. As it held up, about by the suddenness of the crash, a moment or two passed before realization of the actor of the wreck became manifest among the passengers. Men struggled frantically to make their way over the debris, through shattered windows and jammed doors. Medical aid rushed. Passing motorists sped into Moorhead, Minn., notified railway officials and within a few minutes doctors, nurses and ambulances were en route. Scores of volunteers, including police, farmers and Moorhead citizens, climbed into the coaches and passed the injured to waiting hands. Despite the tremendous shock of the impact, scores escaped uninjured, due chiefly to the fact all cars of the train were of steel. None of the coaches collapsed. The first of the injured were rushed to hospitals at Moorhead and Fargo in automobiles of passing motorists. A few minutes later a special train from Fargo reached the wreck and took the remaining injured and other passengers.

One other fatality was known to have resulted from the tornado. Melvin Bartdal, 18, was killed as he crouched in the basement with other members of the family at his farm home eight miles north of Watts siding. He was struck by a concrete block. The tornado apparently started north of Ruastad in Clark county and swept northeast, striking the Empire Builder near Sabin. Then it continued onward crossing Norman county to end its destruction near Fertile, cutting a swath of about 50 miles. Widespread damage was done to farm property in the two counties, with dozens of buildings, school houses and one church reported demolished or damaged. Nervousness and injuries supplied terrifying reminders to the 17 persons who were aboard the "Empire Builder" when it was brushed from the track. Virtually all traces of the wreck were erased by crews which cleared the right of way eight miles southeast of here. Traffic restored. The funnel-shaped cloud did such a clean job of tipping twelve coaches on the prairie while leaving the locomotive and tender on the tracks that the roadbed scarcely was damaged. Meanwhile most of the 57 injured, those less seriously hurt, were discharged from hospitals here and in Moorhead, Minn., where they were taken after the wreck near Sabin, Minn. Nine of the injured were trainmen.

WITNESSES TORNADO'S WRATH ST. PAUL, Minn., May 18 (AP)—From the rear platform of another train, Ben E. Lyons, general counsel for the Northern Pacific Railroad, witnessed devastation wrought by the tornado which later wrecked the Great Northern Railroad's Empire Builder. Lyons was a passenger on a Northrup Pacific train which left Moorhead, Minn., yesterday ahead of the Empire Builder and missed being hit by the fatal tornado. He described the rear platform of his train as "like a box seat at a baseball game." "A brakeman summoned the passengers to the rear platform," Lyons said. "To watch what he called a 'big black coming up.' We saw a greenish black cloud hanging over the country a few miles west of us. The cloud seemed to hover close to the ground, and moving very fast. It sort of heaved-heaved along and we saw clouds of dust swirl through the air and then earth was sucked into the funnel."

It headed for a group of farm buildings, dipped low and hurled the barn skyward. Planks and pieces of roofing were hurled what seemed hundreds of yards away. Other passengers said the house too was demolished. Cattle scampered away and the cloud rose. It was a question then whether it would strike a grove of trees. "Just as it seemed it would be missed, every tree was leveled. I can't vouch for that but other passengers saw it so." "We didn't think of the Empire Builder then. The cloud sort of circled behind us and cut toward the Great Northern tracks, about three miles away. "The brakeman at the time remarked, 'he's heading right for the Empire Builder!'" "He was right, though at the time he didn't know it. A few minutes later the Empire Builder was off the track, swept out of the path of the greenish black cloud."
