By Hugh S. Fullerton Jr. (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Just by emphasizing the superiority of the eastern clubs of the American League have shown over the western rivals so far, the Cleveland Indians, who failed to win a game in their stand against the east, have climbed back to a 500 average and fourth place in a little over a week of campaigning against the clubs of their home sector.

Some effective pitching by Willis Hudlin and Wesley Ferrell gave the Indians a 6 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday in their last game before moving east for another inter-sectional round.

Red Sox Split With A's

The Philadelphia Athletics, pounding the New York Yankees all over the lot, held sway in the east as well as in the west but could not do so well against the Boston Red Sox. The A's split two double headers with the cellar occupants over the weekend to finish the home-section campaign with eight victories and three defeats. Timely hitting against Miss Gaston gave the Athletics the first game yesterday 7-4, but the Red Sox turned in the second and won 7-3 on good pitching by Morris and Moore. The defeat was costly to the world's champions, who lost Catcher Mickey Cochran and Shortstop Joe Boley through leg injuries in the one game.

The Yankees, shored down to third place, picked up a game in Washington yesterday as Babe Ruth's ninth homer of the season gave them the run that produced a 4 to 2 victory. The St. Louis Browns improved their own record for the intra-sectional play and lowered Chicago's by taking the only game between the two 6 to 2, putting up four runs in the eighth as Jim Levey hit a homer inside the park with two on base.

Cubs, Robins Do Things

After suffering various indignities in earlier games, the Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Robins stepped out to compile the best intra-sectional record in the National League. Bob Smith pitched a two-hit game for the Cubs against Pittsburgh yesterday, giving them their fourth straight victory over the Pirates 5-0. The Cubs won eight out of eleven games. The Robins won seven and lost three and were just one stroke short of their eighth victory and a tie with Boston for fourth place in their second game yesterday. After winning the first game from the Braves 9-2, Brooklyn led 3-2 in the ninth inning of the second and Hollis Thurston had two strikes on Randy Moore. But Randy eluded a homer, his second of the game, instead of taking the third strike and the game ended in a 3-3 tie when darkness stopped it after the tenth.

The Giants and Phillies each ended their intra-sectional series with even breaks as New York won yesterday's game 10-5. John Berly gave the Phils 15 hits but escaped serious trouble.

The St. Louis Cardinals, who regained the lead with seven victories in eleven games, finally lost a game to Cincinnati on their home grounds yesterday. The Cards took the first half of a double header 7-5 as Paul Derringer won his first start but Johnny Ogdien stopped them with seven hits in the second game and

Pick Of Oregon Golfers Tee Off In Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1 (AP)—The pick of Oregon's golfers, including some of the most prominent in the nation, set out over the Multnomah course today in quest of places among the select 32 in the championship flight of this year's Oregon state title tournament.

Included among the starters were Dr. O. P. Willing, Frank Dolp, Eddie Hogan and Eddie Wilhelm.

The field is one of the finest the tournament ever has assembled. After the men complete the first half of their medal round, the women's field will begin its 18-hole medal test.

An unusual number of brilliant young players has entered the tournament. Bob Boyer and George Will were expected to give the veterans a struggle.

Trumbull's Experience

After serving in the Revolution, the artist, John Trumbull, went to London. Arrested there, he announced that he had been on the staff of General Washington. This occasioned his being confined in the tower of London for about eight months. The artist's life was saved by a direct appeal to the king, made by Benjamin West, with whom the artist had studied.

"GIVE ME SOMETHING"

"Will you give me something for this that or the other ailment?" is not an uncommon request for patients to address to their physicians.

Not infrequently such a request leaves the doctor staring with amazement. And no wonder!

The request is so simple and so naive. As if the important part in medicine consisted in giving the patient "something" for a headache, for constipation, for that tired feeling or for anything at all.

Prescription of drugs is seldom the most important part of medical care.

Diagnosis—that is, determining what abnormal condition, if any, there exists in the patient—must come before prescription.

And even then there is still much left to treatment. There are the environmental factors to be reviewed, to see what bearing they might have on the patient's condition, and also the patient's habits and his personal hygiene.

What is the patient's diet? How good are his eating habits? Does he have enough rest and enough exercise? What is his occupation and how hard does he work at it? What are his mental attitudes?

All of these and many other items must be considered before proper treatment can be established.

Prescribing drugs for the patient is easy, but of little value, except in such specific conditions as malaria or diphtheria.

More important, and in many ways more difficult, is the task of forming a complete picture of the patient, his difficulties and their management.

It is easy to purchase from the druggist a headache remedy, but only the physician can make a dependable diagnosis.

And correct diagnosis is the foundation stone of proper treatment.

BABY TALK

By Alice Judson Peale

A cherubic two-year-old of my acquaintance responds to her mother's question, "Who are you?" by answering proudly and distinctly "Mother's little cross-birdie." She clutches then and chuckles with pleasure over her achievement.

Baby charm is in no way diminished by an effort to speak clearly and perfectly instead of in the jargon of baby talk which so many mothers hate to relinquish because it is a sign that their babies are growing up.

Most mothers have now learned better than to encourage baby talk. Nevertheless, it has its place.

Since the tiny baby is able to respond to voices only in a vague way, he enjoys merely listening to the different sounds of his mother's voice. The repetition of sounds over and over again is pleasant and exciting to him.

He watches mother's face, he listens to her voice, he is happy in the attention he is receiving, and all the time his ear is being trained and there is perhaps the beginning of the desire to imitate.

So long as the communication between grown-ups and baby cannot be on the level even of the simplest conveying of meaning, the desire to listen and the feeling of pleasure in the friendly sounds probably play a very real part in getting the child ready for the time when he will begin to say words.

But once he knows that certain sounds belong to certain objects, he has passed beyond the stage where talking to him in baby talk is anything but a hindrance in his development of language.

His need then is to be spoken to simply and clearly, so that he will be progressively enabled to distinguish the meaning of syllables in the flow of adult speech.

IS YOUR HOME A TESTING GROUND for UNTRIED PRODUCTS?

WHAT CAN anyone gain by buying unknown products?

And why should anyone buy them, when you can always be safe by asking for brands of recognized quality?

The lure of unknown products is often a "bargain price." The clerk may say they are "just as good" as the popular advertised brands.

But isn't the approval of millions of people worth more than the word of one?

Advertising can not create character for a product. But it does place established character on trial.

The advertised product has a reputation at stake.

It must make good to hold your confidence. One false claim would be fatal.

The substitute product is an unknown brand, with nothing to lose.

In appearance, it may imitate the product you know.

Over the counter, any claim may be made for it.

Only by sad experience can you prove that claim untrue!

Think of this the next time anyone tries to sell you something "just as good."

Such "just as good" products are urged upon you for only one reason. There is more profit in selling them.

The merchant who permits and encourages substitution is looking at today's sales slips. Not at tomorrow's loyal customers.

These facts are published by this newspaper to protect its readers.

Whenever you shop, ask for standard advertised products. Insist on getting them. Be warned by the words "just as good" that there is something better.

When you are guided by names you know you can be sure of constant quality. Of definite purity. Of honest weight. Of full value in return for the money you spent.

THE ANSWER TO SUBSTITUTION IS ALWAYS....

"NO"
