two hours and then shut down ten minutes for smokes and rest. It was inevitable that this should result in all factories losing money. Now all of that is changed. Stalin persuades the nation that it needed an army to repel invasion. When he obtained the military support he instituted a new system. The workers no longer dominate, they are sold where and when to work and no man can buy food unless he can prove that he is working according to orders. These men are not prisoners but they are forced to work according to the dictates of the government. They are fed on cabbage, soup, black bread in government lumber camps. The lumber is sold for whatever it will bring and the men paid accordingly. In this country if a mill fails to sell its products for enough to make money the men refuse to accept a lower wage and operation ceases. Then there is unemployment. In Russia they must work and the wages are determined by the selling price of the product. How to compete with industries run on this plan is a problem for the rest of the world." Dr. Tappe, who now resides at Paso Robles, built the Hot Lake, Ore. sanatorium and is well known in Oregon. He spent considerable time in Russia on his European jaunt.

Give Jobs to Local Residents, Is Plea
SALEM, June 2 (AP) — A plea to communities to employ local residents first in all jobs was made yesterday by C. H. Gram, state labor commissioner. Gram stated he had received many complaints of late indicating transients were given preference in available jobs, both temporary and permanent.

No investigation has been made over the state as to what proportion of transients were employed, but Gram said a foreign licensed automobile was numerous where jobs were concerned. He declared local residents were entitled to available work, and that Oregon people should come first.

Conditions relative to unemployment had not improved and the labor commissioner was concerned over the outlook for the coming winter. He is now working upon an employment program for the state during the next year, which he will submit to state officials before making it public. His preliminary plan has met with favor in counties where he had discussed the proposal, he stated. The plan is understood to involve county and city cooperation with the state.

the $200,000 saving for the biennium will be achieved." Early said, "through the introduction of various other economies in the operation of the commission, among them is a saving of $700 in rentals, the commission having made arrangements for quarters in the Exchange building in Portland which is being remodeled at a much less rental than was paid for the quarters which have been occupied by the commission in the past."

COMMISSION TAKES OVER GUARDIAN CO.

Mortgage Investment company, its holding corporation, without any security as required by the building and loan act, and subsequent to other questionable investments.

"In addition to this item, which the officers of the company have admitted," Mott stated, "the examination disclosed their considerable investments involving more than $200,000 of the association's assets."

"By further examination," Mott's statement showed, "subsequent to May 29, the condition of the Guardian Building and Loan association, as well as the two affiliated companies has been ascertained. A certified audit of the companies and of the mortgage investment company is also being made."

Twenty days notice was given the board of directors of the three associations within which to restore them to a sound condition and to return to the associations the funds received from the liquidation. Failure to make the return leaves no alternative but for the commissioner to turn the association over to the attorney general for liquidation and for such further legal proceedings as may be warranted.

Others Not Affected
No other building and loan association in the state should be affected by this order, Mott emphasized. There is no reason why investors should withdraw their funds from any other association. The order today affects only the three firms named.

The condition of the associations which this action is directed against is due to the fact that their officers have violated the statute made for the protection of investors. It is due to the fact that they have built and loan business, "Mott said, "is a fundamentally sound investment."

The action of the corporation commission was taken for the protection of the investors pending further proceedings by the commission, Mott said. Mott added that as long as the mortgage investment company would see to it that every building and loan association in the state is operated honestly and for the purpose for which the statute was enacted.

ASK RECEIVERSHIP
PORTLAND, Ore., June 2 (AP) — A petition for receivership was filed in circuit court here today by the Guardian Building & Loan association.

A statement from the executive officers of the company said it had applied for receivership because of "warranted interference in the institution's affairs" by the state corporation commission.

The Guardian corporation commissioner, announced from his Salem office today that "the commission had taken over the Guardian company together with the Western Savings & Loan association and the Dime & Dollar Building & Loan association, affiliated with the Guardian. Mott charged the management of the banks with abstracting funds from the associations."

The Guardian, with its affiliated companies, the Mortgage Investment company, Western Savings & Loan association, and the Dime and Dollar Savings & Loan company, have assets of about $4,500,000, and have about 31,500 depositors.

Mott said the voluntary receivership obtained today does not stay his hand since he is acting in accordance with the terms of a specific statute.

Circuit Judge Lusk here today appointed former Circuit Judge John H. Kavanaugh receiver for the group of savings banks.

J. S. Moltzner, managing director of the Guardian group, issued a statement saying, "The statements of Commissioner Mott in the press today regarding the Guardian Building & Loan association

UTILITIES HIT BY GOVERNOR IN ADDRESS

nor Roosevelt. "A new economic social balance calls for positive legislation and definite experiments which have not hitherto been tried.

"More and more, those who are the victims of inflation and defects of our social and economic life are beginning to ask respectfully but insistently of us who are in positions of public responsibility why government cannot and should not act to protect its citizens from disaster. It thinks the question demands an answer and that the ultimate answer is that government, both state and national must accept the responsibility of doing what it can do — soundly with considered forethought, and along definitely constructive, not passive lines.

Situation is Reversed
"A century ago 75 per cent of the population lived on farms and 25 per cent in cities. Today the figures are exactly reversed. Hitherto, we have spoken of two types of living — urban and rural. I believe we can look forward to three rather than two types in the future, for there is a definite place for an intermediate type between the urban and the rural, namely, a rural-industrial group."

Governor Roosevelt reviewed the work of New York state for the past three years for the "better use of our agricultural industrial and human resources.

"As a nation we have only begun to scratch the surface along these lines and the possibility of diversifying our industrial life by sending a fair proportion of it into the rural districts is one of the definite possibilities of the future. Cheap electric power, good roads and automobile development made such a rural industrial development possible.

Boosts for Rural Sites
"In other words, there are without question many industries which can be brought to well-to-do rural communities and at the same time these rural communities will be given higher annual income capacity.

"It is for these reasons that I have spoken so definitely of a third and new type of American life, the rural industrial group. It is my thought that many of the problems of transportation of over-crowded cities, of high cost of living, of better health for the race, of a better balance of the states themselves during the population as a whole can be solved by the rural-industrial group.

He declared the present form of government, with its multiplicity of elective administrative officers, is an outgrowth of the colonial system which sought to hold about a royal appointee with restrictions, and added that such an arrangement would not be tolerated in the case of a business corporation.

"It is not proposed to infringe upon the responsibility of the legislature in determining what the state shall do in what activities it shall engage.
