

Talk Protection Of Fish Life At Board Sessions

PORTLAND, June 16 (AP)—Protection of fish life and the question of stream pollution were discussed by the state game commission at its late meeting here Monday after it had decided to retain the Portland headquarters and not move to Salem.

Franklin Promoted
Charles H. McClees, state game supervisor, was given authority to appoint five special game wardens to positions of full-fledged wardens. Those increased in rank were Fred L. Perry, Joseph C. Williams, Old Beach, Hugo Layva, Lakeview and Duncan McKay, of Bend. Their present salaries will not be increased, the commission decided.

POLLUTION OF THE WILLAMETTE RIVER by the death of thousands of fish below Oregon City falls was discussed by the commission from Oregon City. The commission agreed to appropriate $100 if Oregon City manufacturers would raise $500 to eradicate the trouble. A suggestion was offered that the fish might be caught and boiled for their oil. Fifteen tons of dead fish were burned last year.

PRICE SPREAD IN BERRIES IS WIDE IN MART

PORTLAND, June 16 (AP)—Offerings of berries were several times as great in volume on the east side farmers' market today as had been expected in view of the general downpour. Practically all sorts of berries were offering and there was a very wide price spread.

Loganberries were in liberal offering. The trade was evidently not ready for them and sales were made down to $1 a crate although some business was shown to $1.40 to $1.50. Raspberries showed a spread of $1.15 to $1.75 with the bulk of the early stuff $1.25 to $1.30 with a few $1.40 to $1.50 while the late varieties sold $1.50 to $1.75 with the bulk around the lower mark.

Blackberries were in rather fair offering with a slow call around $1.85 to $2.00 generally. Currants moved mostly $1.75 with a few $2 a crate. Head lettuce sales were 75-90¢ with fancy stuff moving well at 85¢ to 90¢. Real quality cauliflower was scarce and the best available sold $1.50. There has been much complaint from buyers regarding the junk. Green broccolis at 60¢ a box. Peas sold mostly 5-6¢ lb. Blackberries were generally 6-7¢ with selections up to 8¢ lb. Royal Ann cherries sold mostly 4¢ lb. for best. Spinach was 50¢ orange box. Labial celery sold around 1¢ lb. in bunches. Asparagus sales were around 75¢-90¢ doz bunches. Labial celery sold $1.25 down to 75¢ doz.

New potatoes were in good call; mostly 2 1/4-2 1/2¢ lb. Root vegetables held practically unchanged.

Erratic Trend Is Reflected In Butterfat Mart

PORTLAND, June 16 (AP)—Again the season of the produce exchange showed no change in the price of cube butter. Trade appears to be able to secure its needs of under-grade without difficulty but top score is less plentiful.

Very erratic trend is reflected in the market for butterfat. In the local market No. 1 is quoted 21-24¢ lb. both extreme being in effect. At country points prices very much in the same way the centralizers compete with co-ops.

Better maintained prices are showing for eggs since the last advance forced by the Pacific co-ops. Under-selling volume is decreasing as supplies dwindle for speculative account. Extreme weakness in the general chicken market continues unabated not only locally but along the coast generally. Poor quality is playing havoc with the price list as well as the demand, although the great increase of offerings is a decidedly bearish factor. It is the No. 2 grade that is hurting the price of No. 1 goods although demand for the finer stuff is fully up to the supply.

The temporary shortage of broilers noted last week is subsiding. Receipts are again increasing and are taking care of current trade requirements. While the market is easier on hot-house tomatoes and undergrade offerings are lower, fancy and extra fancy quality out of the Willamette valley is holding around $2.75 top for 20¢. Market for country killed hogs is steady to active with vein inclined to show strength. Lambs continue unchanged in price with demand such as a surplus is still showing.

Market for cherries continue to show extreme slowness in demand with prices held at the late low points. This applies to both Amnes and Bings. Practically no cracked stock has yet been received here. Liberally increased offerings out of the Columbia river section caused further price recessions for both green and wax beans. Sales are being made at 10-12¢ lb., both extremes.

POET'S CORNER
BUSES AND TRUCKS
It will not be long till our roads will be gone
If the trucks and the buses run
And when they're worn out, they'll
Just change their route.
And leave us the wreckage, you see.
Then we'll levy more taxes to blot
Out our tracks
And recondition our roads;
When this is done, like the
"Predigal Son,"
They'll return with their burdensome loads.
They haul people and freight at a very low rate
And the income should soon make them rich.
For not a day inspection insures your protection.
If you are wrecked or go in the ditch.
With a free right-of-way and no
taxes to pay,
It is justice for us to maintain.
Without some restriction, this constant affliction
With all of its suffering and pain?
There is no imposition in fair competition.
And the roads are built for our use.
A few stringent laws will help a just cause
And protect our good roads from abuse.
The railroads pay tax, yet maintain
their own tracks,
And employ a large number of men.
And with fair competition would be
in a position
To work them all steady again.
There is not the least doubt how we
all will come out
If the trucks and buses run free.
They contribute no share to the public wealth.
They care nothing about you and me.
No physical test or regular rest
For the driver of bus or truck.
That "Safety Sign" is not in their line.
It's your property, or life, against luck.
It has truly been said that the railroads have led
In fulfilling a great public need.
Shall we sit idly by, see them wither
and die
As a result of unscrupulous greed?

and a heavy snow at Donner summit in the Sierras, the first this late in the year since 1929.

SALEM, June 16 (AP)—With an estimated loss of $200,000 already sustained by the community because of cherries cracked by the rain showers today continue to do damage. Black cherry shippers were hanging in the balance as to whether or not there would be any black cherries shipped from this point this year. They had estimated shipments totaling as high as 125 cars. An airplane shipment of 600 pounds of black cherries which was to have started at midnight tonight from here for Denver probably will be postponed due to inability to get the cherries from the orchards in the rain. These cherries had been sold on a basis of 55¢ a car per pound.

RUSSIA TURNS TO BETTER METHODS
for which a permanent export demand is present. Wheat answers these requirements better than does any other product and the sudden enlargement of Russian exports this year is indicative of the problem which Russian industrialism puts up to wheat growers of all other countries.

plentiness of the detail involved in the plan it may be noted that the Soviets have established two great industrial towns devoted mainly to the building of tractors, with the ambitious expectation of turning out tractors by the tens of thousands or hundreds of thousands beginning in 1932. The up-to-date methods of capitalist industry are being drawn upon to carry out the program, but while waiting for the beginning of production, foreign industrial centers are furnishing farm machinery for immediate needs.

Profitable Agriculture Unimportant
Russia has manifest advantages in any competition with the rest of the world to determine who will sell wheat the most cheaply. Her rural scale of living is low, and her rural population patient under adversity.

These are the facts which American agriculture must face and any assumption that there is a community interest between wheat producers in Russia and in the other surplus countries is a fallacy. So far as the Russian peasant is concerned it is just a case of endurance. Under the plans for national industrialization and efforts at international partitioning of the world's markets are foredoomed to failure.

THE PROBLEM IS NOT A TEMPORARY one to be solved by storing and holding the surplus gathered from a good crop in expectation of a world decreased production the next year. The basic of crop volume in production, and with Russia determined to increase her acreage regardless of wheat prices, efforts by other countries to maintain an artificial price level merely aid in carrying through the Soviet plan of dominating the world wheat production.

Not all of our farms and farmers can meet this character of Russian competition, but on the other hand under the stress of necessity we have enormous areas that grow and market wheat as cheaply as can the Russian peasant. It is done by individual effort, the utilization of modern methods but not by any form of state subsidy aimed to continue production upon unprofitable areas.
