A. P. ALL-STAR ELEVEN PICKED; WEST GETS TWO

Schwegler, of Washington, and Pinckert, of Southern California, Named

By Alan Gould (Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Dec. 5 (AP)—As the smoke from the ballots of the All-American football team cleared away today, the great mid-west emerged with a clear-cut advantage over all rival sections on the football battlefield.

Repeating their conquests of 1930, the outstanding stars of the American midlands carried off six of the eleven positions on the All-American consensus, compiled by The Associated Press from the ballots of sports writers and editors in all parts of the country.

The south and far west, each of which disputes the mid-west's claims to team supremacy, gained two positions apiece. The lone eastern representative on the eleven is William Barry Wood Jr., Harvard's captain and the outstanding choice of the nation for the quarterback role occupied for the previous two years by Frank Carideo of Notre Dame.

Schwartz Repeats Notre Dame, with three places, and Northwestern, with two duplicate spots, are the only teams to repeat their achievements in the 1930 Associated Press balloting. The all-star representatives of the Fighting Irish are Marchmont Schwartz in the backfield, Captain Tom Yarr at center and Frank Hoffman at guard. Northwestern placed Pug Rentner among the ball carriers and Dallas Marvel at tackle.

The far west's contributions to the first team are Erny Pinckert, star blocking back of the University of Southern California, and Paul Schwegler, great tackle of the University of Washington.

Dalrymple Second in Votes The results of the Associated Press balloting in the seventh annual consensus came today. Both death indicate striking support for several of the choices. Schwartz was voted the year's outstanding back, with 255 votes out of a possible 370.

Dalrymple was not far behind in total votes, with 225, and Munn, with 201, takes as the outstanding lineman. Rentner, with 111, votes, and Wood, with 218, also were overwhelming favorites.

Leadership of the mid-west was maintained in the selection of second and third All-America teams. Of the total of 23 players placed, 14 go to the mid-west, eight to the east, five to the south, five to the far west and one to the southwest.

Last year the mid-west led with 11, while the far west gained nine places, the east eight, the south four and the southwest one.

Pinckert by a Nose The principal contests in the 1931 balloting involved the fourth backfield position and the second tackle job. Pinckert, the only repeater besides Schwartz, needed strong clearing support to stiff-arm such fine rivals as Gene McEyer of Tennessee, Don Zimmerman of Tulane and Bart Viviano of Cornell for the post of nose with Wood, Schwartz and Rentner.

Not far behind these performers in the roundup of ballots were Bill Morton of Dartmouth, the second team choice for quarterback; Carl Cramer, Ohio State's flashy sophomore; Orville Mobler of Southern California; Wilson (Speedy) Mason of Southern Methodist; and Albin Booth of Yale. All of these stars placed on the All-America squad.

Smith and Dalrymple easily proved the class of the ends, rising along on a tidal wave of votes. Captain Henry Cronkite of Kansas State and Captain Johnny Orl of Colgate gained strong support, as did Garrett Arbelbide of Southern California and a comparative stranger to the "big league" ballyhoo, Fred Felber of the University of North Dakota.

Cornell's star end, Jose Martinez-Zorrilla, attracted widespread attention among the critics. So did the "grand opera twins" of Holy Cross, Cavalieri and Coburn. Munn will be ahead of the field in the final tabulation of votes for tackle but Schwegler of Washington had a strenuous time gaining the decision on the other side of the line. Fine tackles were numerous, especially in the mid-west.

Kurtz and Krause of Notre Dame, Riley of Northwestern, McMorro and Quate of Pittsburgh, Price of the Army and Rhea of Nebraska all caught the eye of the experts. Kurtz especially ran strong and came close to giving Notre Dame a fourth first string spot in the All-American lineup.

Other Close Strung Munn and Hoffman were the outstanding choices for guards, although this position also developed strong backing for a number of good men. Johnny Baker of Southern California undoubtedly would have given either first string choice a stronger run if he had performed against all rivals as he did in playing the heroic role against Notre Dame.

Evans of Northwestern, Hickman of Tennessee and Kabat of Wisconsin were other leaders but the list of noteworthy guards also included Howards of Chicago, Zytell of Holy Cross and Zeller of Indiana.

Yarr's only real rivals in the balloting for center were Ralph Daugherty of Pittsburgh and Maynard Morrison of Michigan. Experts who have seen all three perform are sharply divided in opinion. Several expressed the belief Daugherty outplayed Yarr when they met on the gridiron at South Bend, even though Pittsburgh was humbled that day by the Bamblers. The Notre Dame captain had a big margin in the actual votes.

Many Brilliant Backs So bright and numerous were the year's backfield luminaries that the limitations of the All-America squad of 12 leaves a flock of stars with nothing better to show than an entry in the "honorable mention" list.

Over in West Virginia they regard Cliff Battles of West Virginia Wesleyan as a combination of Orange and Clegg. But Tosi of St. Mary's similarly impressed all who saw him perform on the Pacific Coast for the team that beat Southern California and California on successive Saturdays.

Monnet ran wild for Michigan State, Jack Crickard was a slashing backer for Harvard, Bob Jack Ferraro, Cornell sophomore, Ralph Hewitt of Columbia and Jim Murphy of Fordham, Minnesota partisans likened Manders to Joesting and Nagurski of All-American fame.

Notre Dame Dominates For the past three years Notre Dame has so far dominated the All-America selections as to double the number of entries from any other institution. Eight places have been won by the Fighting Irish aggregations of 1929-31, including Schwartz twice and Carideo twice. Northwestern has won four places, while two each have been gained by Minnesota, Harvard, Pittsburgh, Southern California, Alabama and Ohio State.

Wrestlers Will Take 440 Pounds Onto Local Mat

Wrestling fans of Union county and surrounding cities are expected to join with La Grande here Tuesday night at Eagles hall when a former Russian in the service of the czar, now turned grappler, will tangle on the mat with a bone-crusher from Denver. The match promises to be rough and full of action, with both men having a reputation of mauling it from the first.

The match was announced by Ray McCarroll two days ago and will be the second of the winter series in La Grande.

Count Harkovsky, who declares he was exiled from Russia when the czar was swept out of power, tips the beam at 235 pounds and Jack Root, of Denver, Colo., is no small man himself, scaling 215 pounds. Both men have been taking on all comers and making an enviable circle of themselves in western wrestling circuits.

Good preliminaries are assured, the promoter announces.

ALBANY WILL BE ADMITTED TO CIRCUIT

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5 (AP)—Admission of Albany college today to full membership in the Northwest conference was virtually assured.

The annual meeting of the conference opened here last night and faculty representatives said they considered admission of the college, which has been on probation for one year, but a matter of course. Albany's application for membership was received at last year's meeting of the conference.

Prof. Paul Murphy, College of Idaho, was elected president of the conference last night. He succeeds Charles H. Hobbs, College of Puget Sound. Prof. H. E. Hewitt, Lantieri college, was named secretary-treasurer.

Football schedules for 1932 were drawn up by conference coaches. Most of the basketball schedules also were written.

Dempsey Battles Quartet in Fargo

FARGO, N. D., Dec. 5 (AP)—A crowd of 5000, that paid $7900, one of the best in local ring history, saw Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, knock out two opponents in a light card here last night.

Two others, Christy Ezzard, Leonard N. D. and Tommy Davenport, lard the Ark, each stayed their full quota of one three-minute round with Dempsey.

A bowling green at a salvage depot in Birmingham, England, was built from 29,000 tons of dust extracted from refuse.

Utes, Orangemen Play Today For Sake of Charity

By Frank G. Gorrie (Associated Press Sports Writer) PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 5 (AP)—For the sake of charity the colorful football team of the University of Utah, champions of the Rocky Mountain conference, came all the way to the Pacific Northwest for the second time this season and hoped to conquer Oregon State college on a mud-covered field here today.

The Utes were a slight favorite among the fans of this city because of their undefeated record at home but they were competing against a team that has proved itself to be one of the greatest of inter-sectional winners in the past. The Beavers have not lost an inter-sectional contest since 1926, winning five and tying one.

It was the second time the Indians have knocked at the door of the Pacific Coast conference this season. Last September the Utes journeyed to Seattle and lost a 7 to 6 battle to the University of Washington. It was no secret that Utah would welcome an opportunity to become a member of the coast league and a victory over Oregon State would give the school a stronger chance.

Freezing temperatures followed by rain have left the Multnomah stadium gridiron covered with mud and a battle of power was looked for. Unsettled weather was predicted today. Only 7500 seats had been sold for the game last night and unless Portland fans became interested at the last minute a small crowd was the prospect.

MARKS WILL BE GOVERNOR THIS MONTH

and Friday. On Tuesday he said he came only to pay a call to his office but as a result, one of the greatest announcements of the year was issued. The elimination of the state tax levy on real property was effected in a conference between the governor and the state tax commission.

This amounts to slashing about four mills from the tax on real property, or a total of nearly $5,000,000. This elimination is for 1932 only but it is believed state tax levies in the future will be much lower than in the past. This is the first time in the history of the state that such a step has been taken.

It was made possible, Governor Meier said, by the intangibles, income and excise taxes returns, the repeal of the one-half mill road tax, the waiver for the year of the one-half mill world war veterans' tax and the savings in the past year in various departments and institutions of the state. In virtually every instance departments and institutions reported savings in excess of the 19 per cent required.

The tax commission, meanwhile, is making its final drive for full returns on the intangibles and income taxes and members believe there will be little field work necessary. Three calls have been issued to delinquents, the last sent out this week. Returns from these calls have been gratifying. Of the first 25,000 sent out, 13,800 replies were received and of the second 10,000, more than 7000 replies came in. About $40,000 was received in these drives.

Tax Delinquency Greater

The delinquency on real property, Charles V. Galloway, chairman of the commission, said, may be 25 per cent greater this year than last, judging from surface reports. In about ten days the commission will issue its state levy for next year, taking into consideration the elimination of the state levy. The two-mill elementary school tax, in reality a local tax, was not eliminated. The governor said that with Oregon tax levy reduced, capital and population for development of the state should be attracted to Oregon.

Early Use of Tobacco

Tobacco was introduced into Japan in 1545, which was as early as or even earlier than its use in Europe.

The meeting of the state board of higher education, set for Monday at Salem, will be one of the outstanding events of the week. In the social line a gridiron banquet of all heads of state departments and chief deputies and institutional heads has been arranged for Friday night. This is the first in recent years. Its purpose is to promote more intimate acquaintance. Invitations have been issued to 75 men.

Trojans Expect Stiff Struggle From Husky '11'

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 5 (AP)—A pack of hardy Huskies from Washington today stood between the University of Southern California football team and the coveted undisputed Pacific Coast conference championship—a title the Trojans in all their gridiron glory have never held.

White Coach Howard Jones' eleven, in possession of all its talent which two weeks ago terminated Notre Dame's long string of triumphs, was favored to turn back this last threat of the western slope there was a prevailing uneasiness within the vaulted walls of Troy.

This despite the fact that Coach Jimmy Pielan had announced that his team would not be up to its full strength with Bill Marsh, honor student quarterback, in good condition for the fray.

The lad whom the Trojans most feared was Merle Hulford, a 9.5 second halfback, who established quite a name in the past two years only to find himself in a comparatively slump this season. Southern Californians fear that he might break loose in all his old-time glory today at the expense of Troy.

Fifty thousand persons are expected to collect for the conflict, which brings together two of the newly crowned All-Americans, Paul Schwegler, Huskie tackle, and Ernie Pinckert, great blocking halfback of the Trojans.

Year's Hottest Season

Dog days comprise the hot, sultry season of summer during parts of July and August; so called from the fact that the rising of the dog star, Sirius, the brightest star in the heavens, is coincident with the rising of the sun. The ancients thought this conjunction caused the intense heat of summer and the maladies which then prevailed, hence the popular supposition that dogs are likely to go mad at this season.

Jewish Jubilee

In Jewish history the year of Jubilee was every fiftieth year, and was held sacred in memory of the deliverance from Egypt. Lands were allowed to lie fallow, lost lands were restored to owners, and all who had been obliged to let themselves out for hire were released from bondage.

Largest Pearl

The largest pearl ever known belonged to the famous Hope collection, and is now said to be in the South Kensington museum in London. It is 2 inches long, 4 1/2 inches in circumference, and weighs 3 ounces. What is said to be the finest existing pearl, called "La Polignona," is (or was several years ago) in a Moscow museum.—Gas Logie.

Soup Made of Seaweed

One celebrated soup called May Yuk Kook is made of seaweed and meat or dried shrimp. This soup appears occasionally in all Korean diets, but it is included regularly on menus for nursing mothers. It is thought to have the particular virtue of increasing the flow of mothers' milk and stimulating the circulation.

Papal Revenues

The pope has no fixed salary or stipend. There are immense revenues accruing to the Vatican and the pope receives from loyal members of the church all over the world a voluntary contribution known as Peter's pence, which is solely for his personal use, charities and benevolences.

Mexican "Noah"

The Noah of Mexican legend, who alone escaped the deluge, was named Coxaco.
