"I had to do it," Sheriff Fowler said. "It was either he or me. He made a move for a gun." Sheriff Fowler was charged with murder and released a $10,000 bond. The El Paso Times quoted the sheriff as saying Barnett, who lived in Alpine, Tex., had sought to obtain a loan from him Friday. "I declined to advance Barnett the money he requested," Fowler said, "and he became angry." The shooting occurred on the main street of this little village.

House and refused to give a petition to Richard Jervis, chief of the White House secret service, who had agreed to deliver it to President Hoover. The marchers arrived at the White House after a slow trek through back streets.

Benjamin asked Jervis that they be permitted to present their petition personally to President Hoover. Jervis refused. As Benjamin insisted that it should be done, Jervis said: "If you have a written petition, I will take it and see that it is handed immediately to President Hoover. There is no use arguing further." Benjamin apparently accepted this ultimatum and went to get the petition. After a brief conference with other leaders, however, Benjamin refused to give Jervis a petition, either oral or written.

Jervis informed them his decision was "absolute and irrevocable." Benjamin, hemmed in on all sides by policemen, told Jervis: "If the president cannot see even BUTTERFAT SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7 (AP)—Butterfat f. o. b. 34 1/2c. WOOL MARKET BOSTON, Dec. 7 (AP)—Quotations on domestic wools were fully steady compared with a week ago, despite the recent slower movement, a firm undertone in the market appeared to be based upon trade estimates that the supply of domestic wool is actually lighter and much smaller in relation to consumption than a year ago. Receipts of domestic wool at Boston during the week ending Dec. 5, amounted to 709,000 lbs., as compared with 284,800 lbs. during the previous week.

Relationship Two men who marry sisters are commonly called brothers-in-law, though Webster's dictionary defines a brother-in-law as "the brother of one's husband or wife" or "the husband of one's sister." The dictionary states that the term is sometimes inaccurately applied to "the husband of one's wife's or husband's sister," and that the relationship between brothers-in-law is called "affinity."

House Major Attraction The house was the major attraction. There a newly-elected Democratic majority rallied to elect John N. Garner, of Texas, speaker over the Republican Bertrand Snell, of New York. Throughout the morning Garner and Snell were attending to business as usual in their offices. Each had a string of callers from among the leaders of his party. Later Snell, frock-coated, called in Garner for a brief discussion of procedure. The rugged Texan wore, as usual, a brown suit with speckled tie. In the senate, with Vice President Curtis presiding, the meeting was for a few minutes only, given over to inducting new members into office and appointment of routine committees.

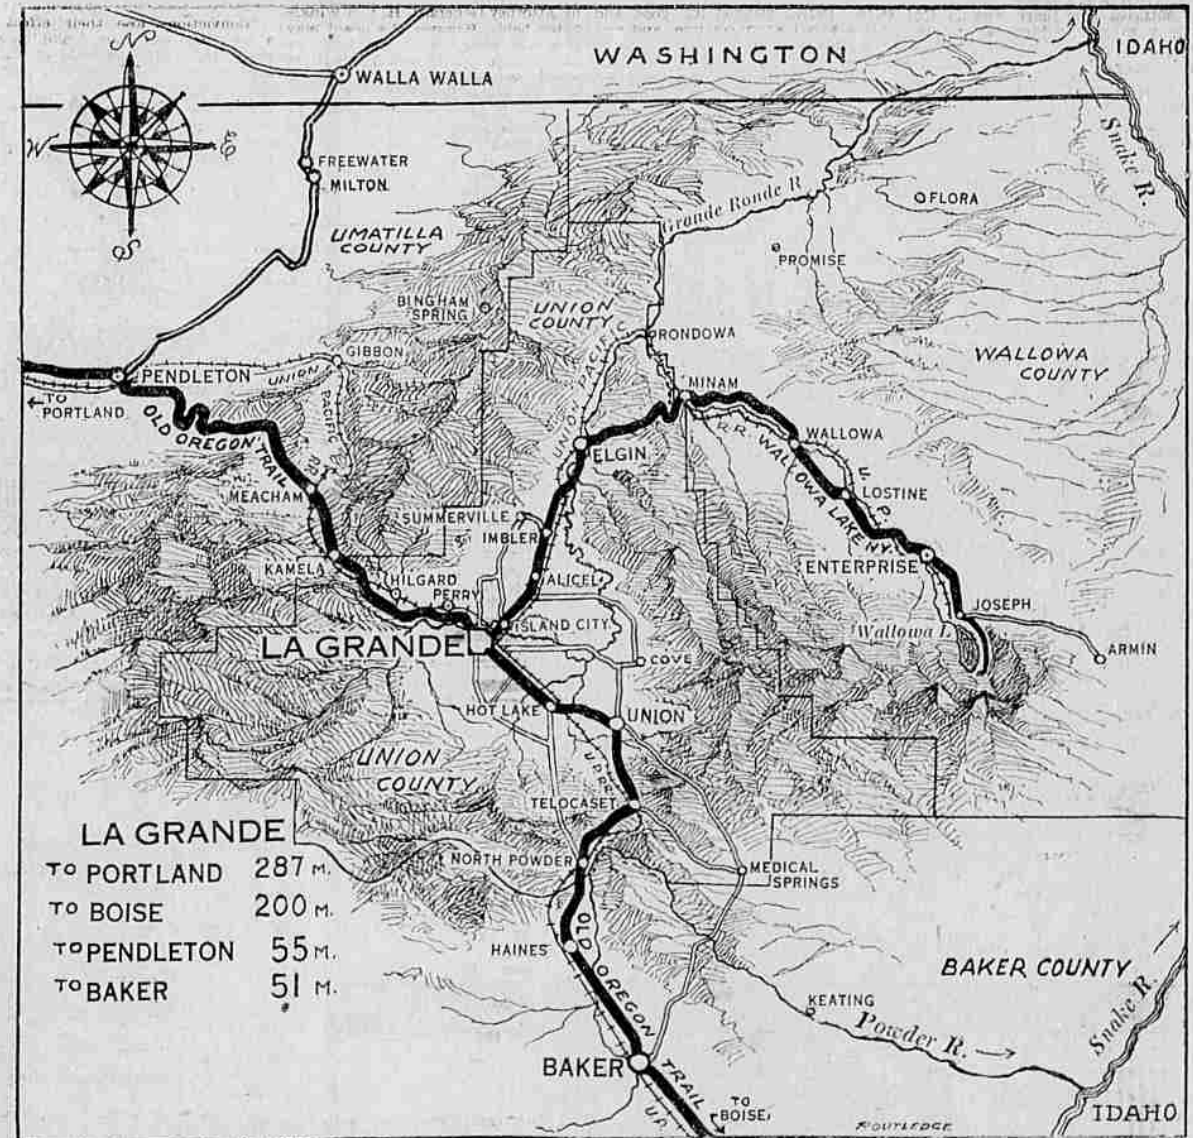

Thousands of bills were introduced, but most of them never will be heard of again. The major pieces of legislation await President Hoover's message tomorrow. In both senate and house galleries, women filled the sections reserved for members' families. Members were on the floor of senate and house early, smiling and handshaking. Among them were several former members, entitled by rule and tradition to the floor privilege. J. Thomas Heflin, Alabama's former senator, was on hand to see the senate opening session.
