

CLASSIFIED ADS

The Market Place of Union and Wallowa Counties

WANTED

WANTED—Good milk goat. Box 15, Imbler, Ore. 12-17-31

SALESMAN WANTED—Man with car who would like to sell radios. Call at Adler Music Co. 12-17-31

CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS—Exp. woman will care for children. Phone 366-U. 12-10-31

WANTED—Would like to make arrangements with party going to Cove each afternoon about 4:00 to carry small bundle. Please call at Observer office. 12-16-31

FOR SALE

HAVE EXCELLENT proposition for good Japanese garden, land under Owyhee dam. Call Main 690. 12-16-31

LIMITED SUPPLY of box wood while planer runs, $4.00 per load. Also dry chain wood, $4.50 per load. Frank Cleavinger, Main 151. 12-16-31

FOR SALE—Wood, price reasonable. Main 934, 1306 O Ave. 12-15-31

FOR SALE—Complete violin outfit, $10.00. See Mr. Bryant, I. O. O. F. temple. 12-15-31

FOR SALE—2-rm. house with new furniture, barn and 3 lots. Will sacrifice for quick sale. Would consider car as part payment. Box A, Observer. 12-15-31

25 SACKS CABBAGE, while they last, $1.35. Squash 1c lb. Orchard Market, 2124 Adams. Ph. 937-J. 12-15-31

FOR SALE—1928 Studebaker Commander sedan. In perfect condition, 1932 license, $285. PERKINS MOTOR CO. 12-12-31

DRY WOOD—Tann. pine, any length, $7.00. Ph. Observer or write M. Loree, Cove. 12-8-31

FOR SALE—Chain wood from Union sawmill, $4.00 and $4.50. Local agent Ray McCarroll, Main 284 or Main 1027. 11-24-31

FOR SALE—Willard Batteries—$6.95. A first choice battery at chain store prices, 75c on old battery. AUTOMOTIVE ELECTRIC CO. 1425 Adams Phone M 520 9-1-31

Professional Directory

Hospitals

DR. LEE B. BOUVV
Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital
3rd floor Foley Bldg.—Ph. Main 106

Osteopathic Physicians

DRS. J. L. & MARGARET INGLES
General Practice and Obstetrics
Sommer Bldg.
Office, Main 106 Res. Main 633

DR. E. L. FAUS
General Practice
New Foley Bldg., 3rd floor.
Phone Main 990 Res. 990-R.

Miscellaneous

ASTROLOGER
MRS. FREDERICK BALMES
203 N. Ave.
Readings Daily.

Observer Want Ad Rates

(Count five average words to the line.)
Per line, 1st insertion — 10c
Per line, each added consecutive insertion — 7c
Minimum charge on one order — 25c

RATES BY MONTH
2 lines, per month — $2.50
3 lines, per month — $3.25
4 lines, per month — $4.00
5 lines, per month — $4.75
Each additional line over five charged at 50c per line per month.
CASH IN ADVANCE is required on all Classified orders to earn these rates. Higher rates charged on all credit insertions.
Copy for all Classified orders must be in this office by 10 A. M. DAY OF INSERTION. Stop orders on ad inserted until further notice must be received by the same hour or extra insertion will be charged.
Telephone orders solicited. Cash rates may be earned on phone orders by payment on or before date of last insertion.

PHONE MAIN 600
"An Observer Want Ad Will Do It."

FOR RENT

PURN. HOUSE—Close in on Adams, $22.50 mo. to steady renters. Inq. H. W. Smith, Fox Farm. 12-13-31

2-RM. AND 1 3-RM. turn. or unfurn. Apts. Grande Ronde Apts. 12-10-31

FOR RENT—Comfortable steam-heated rooms, hot & cold water, close in. 1902 Second, cor. Wash. 12-8-11tp

PURN. HOUSES AND APTS. — With baths, clean, quiet, lowest rent. Adults, 1810 Greenwood. 12-11-31

FOR RENT—Large, mod. furn. apt., 901 O Ave. Ph. 238-J, Apt. 2. 11-21-31

PURN. APARTMENT — 1809 Adams, Main 582. 12-1-31

FOR RENT — Modern steamheated rooms, 1408 Washington. 12-2-31

MISCELLANEOUS

LA GRANDE MATTRESS and Upholstering and Rug Cleaning Works. Ph. 424-W. Chas. Edwards, Prop. 12-1-31

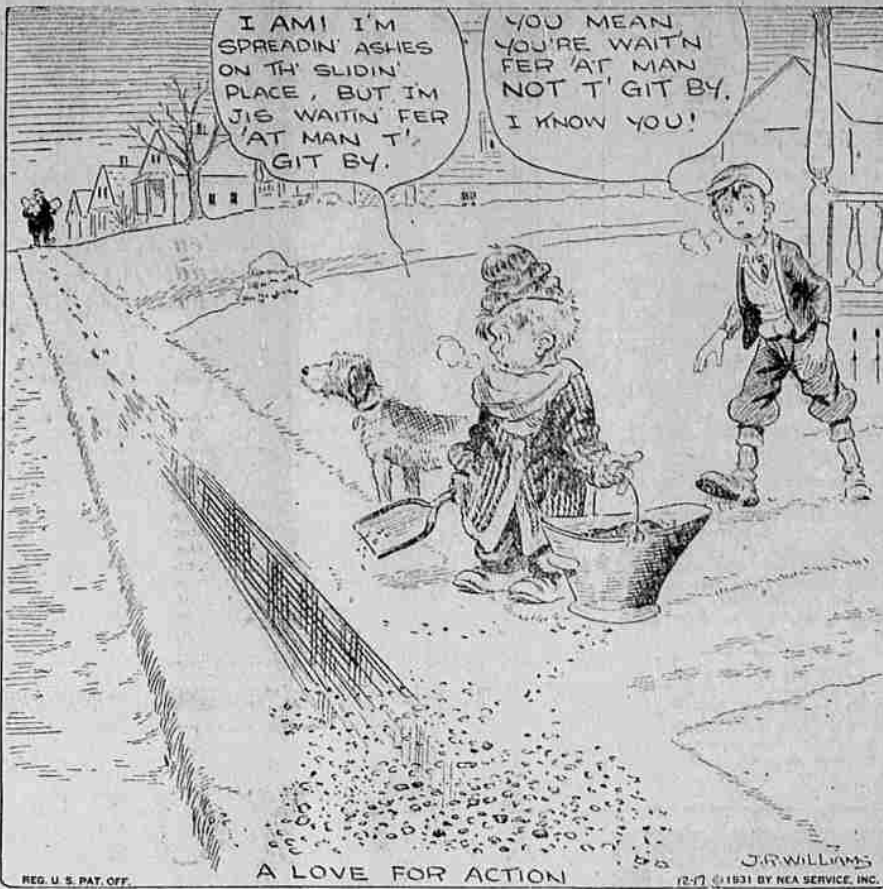

WISDOM demands that you secure the services of expert morticians who know the science and ethics of their profession and who have demonstrated their capacity and ability.

We Understand

SNODGRASS & ZIMMERMAN
Main 62

OUT OUR WAY

By J. R. Williams

Daughter Turns Back On Father At Murder Trial

SEATTLE, Dec. 17 (AP) — Turning her back on Everett Frank Lindsay, on trial here charged with the first degree murder of his wife in February, 1930, Pearl Lindsay, 13-year-old adopted daughter of the Lindseys, exclaimed in a burst of tears, "I don't want to talk to you," when approached by the defendant.

Lindsay, who received Prosecutor Robert M. Burdett's permission to speak to the child after she had testified against him for an hour in superior court yesterday, stammered, shook his head sadly, turned around and sank into a chair, weeping silently, his face buried in his hands.

It was the first meeting of the accused man and Pearl since he abandoned her in Oakland, Cal., in the spring of 1930, while in flight. The child told of preliminary steps taken by the Lindseys early in February, 1930, to adopt another girl, Helen McOmber and in a voice no low that the court often requested her to speak louder, gave the jury a history of what occurred in the Lindsay's West Seattle cottage from that time until she left Seattle with Lindsay on Easter morning that year.

Pearl, pale and nervous, was brought into the courtroom by her new foster father, County Detective William H. Sears, who stayed close beside her throughout her session on the stand, giving her encouraging glances while she watched him closely. The child followed routine witness-ness, acquaintances of Mrs. Lindsay, who told of identifying the woman's body after it was exhumed from the grave in the back yard of the Lindseys' cottage.

and, for that reason, the average person is not impressed with its importance.

It is, however, responsible for the largest proportion of heart disease among the young. It costs society untold wealth in crippled lives and in premature deaths.

In England and in the United States extensive research is being carried on to discover its cause and a method for its effective control. At present we are still uncertain as to its origin and the manner of its spread. Nor is there a specific remedy for it.

On the other hand, the damage it causes can in a large measure be limited by early diagnosis and proper care.

Early diagnosis is not entirely up to the physician. Too often the young patient is treated with home remedies by well meaning elders who do not know the serious nature of the disease.

Rheumatic fever may begin in one of several ways. There is an acute development, fortunate for the patient, because it leads to prompt medical treatment.

In this form of development several of the joints become inflamed and painful. The large joints are most commonly involved.

However, the disease may at times affect only one joint, and at that one of the smaller articulations, say, of the fingers or toes.

Any form of joint pain in a child needs prompt and expert medical care.

For, though attention is drawn to the painful articulation, it must be looked upon as merely a local manifestation of a disease which involves the entire body.

COAL

GORDON CREEK
UTAH COAL

If you don't like clinkers in your heater or furnace, try Gordon Creek. A Free Burning Utah Coal.

Van Petten
Lumber Company

Phone Main 732

"Good Service Quick"

If unsafe autos were forced to display their condition there would be fewer accidents and more insurance.

United States
INVESTMENT CO.
OW W ARNOCK MGR

Hitler Replies To Chancellor In Long Letter

BERLIN, Dec. 17 (AP) — Adolph Hitler's expected 40-page reply to Chancellor Bruening appeared today in the form of an open letter in which the Nazi leader charged the present government of Germany with following a policy of illusion.

It reiterated the national socialist bid for power, predicted the party's ultimate triumph and declared the Nazi movement legal.

"What you, Mr. Chancellor, demand," Hitler wrote, "is that there shall be no opposition whatever. The use of police power can, of course, forbid speaking and writing, but that is tolerable only when a government achieves great successes. If we are not to talk, why not give us the power and we will cease talking and go to work."

Referring to the chancellor's charge that the national socialist movement is illegal, Hitler said:

"The only illegal things about our movement are the agents provocateurs. The government itself, we can prove, puts those agents there. Fifteen national socialists have been killed during the past year and 4,000 injured. The movement, Hitler insisted, declines the delivery of Germany to bolshevism. Its spirit, he added, is one of liberty.

Hitler's letter failed to excite official circles and the Wilhelmstrasse did not seem inclined to reply.

The Berlin press paid little attention to the document and most papers gave inside space to brief excerpts.

BEATEN ONCE IN THREE YEARS

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Topeka High school's football eleven, playing difficult schedules, has suffered but one defeat in the past three seasons.

Eugene Brissle, 13, Hodges, S. C., read the papers and picked an All-Southern football team. Seven of his men were on The Associated Press eleven.

After a six-year lapse, the University of Missouri will renew football relations with Northwestern in 1932.

SUNSET PASS by Zane Grey

SYNOPSIS: Trueman Rock's love for Thiry Preston is childlike. By her fear of her brother Ash, she forbids any cowboy to approach. Thiry, who values Rock, who is intelligent because he knows that Ash has a bad character and is unworthy of her sympathy. Rock works for stage Preston. Thiry's father, who is growing mysteriously wealthy.

Chapter 17

ROCK GETS DEGRADATE

"THROUGH my brother Ash," said Thiry.

"Well, that's not hard to believe," rejoined Rock, with sharpness. "The other day he was a drunken, vulgar lout. He ought to have been kicked out of that corral, and I'd have done it but for you. Today, when he was sober, he was a different proposition to meet. He was cold, mean, vicious. He had no hospitality of the West—no idea what was due a tired and hungry stranger. But at that I'd prefer him drunk in my way on the range I've met some—"

Trueman bit his tongue. The girl had suddenly covered her face with her hands. He could see her slyly and almost writhed.

"Aw, Miss Preston, forgive me," he burst out. "I didn't mean to distress you. I just spoke out quick without thinking."

She drew her hands away and lifted her head. "You're quite right think I am, anyway?" retorted Rock, in turn, growing almost desperate. "I make a good deal of what Mother and Alice and Dad think," he said, gently.

"Well, what's that?" he queried, suddenly mollified. She could do anything with him.

"I would dare tell you, but it would only make this unfortunate situation worse. I only hint of it—because it's not fair to let you think we—or I—dislike you."

"Oh, then you don't?"

"No, I—I think I really like you, though it's such short notice for me. . . . And, Mr. Rock, if I had my way, I'd like to be friends with you."

"Thank you, Miss Thiry," he returned, gratefully, swayed by her unexpected avowal. "Honestly, I didn't hope for so much. All I wanted was a chance to prove I could deserve you—your friendship."

"I—I dare say you could," she returned, looking away. "Mr. Winter used to tell me about you. How fond you were of Nick—how you saved his life once. Then Dad. He liked all cowboys, but I never saw him taken with anyone as he is with you. . . . But the thing is I can't be friends with you."

"Because of Ash?"

"Yes. That's where the harm would come in. He will not let any —Mr. Rock," she said, unsteadily. "Ash is—all that you say. To my shame I confess it. All my life I've made excuses for him. It's no use. I—I cannot do it—any more. . . . But that's not the point."

Rock sat down beside her, his anger flown, but there was another kind of heat running along his veins. How this girl must love her brother!

"I know. The point was the harm that might come through Ash. Please be frank with me. If I've brought this distress upon you, I'm entitled to know why."

"I've always been very—very fond of Ash," she said, tremulously, struggling for a composure that would not return. "Partly because he was always so bad—and I seemed the only one who could influence him for good. Ash cares for nothing but me. Not for father, mother, brothers, or his other sisters. He hates men—he hates horses—he hates cattle. . . . And through these things I—I've stuck to him until now I—I— Mr. Rock, I can't tell you."

"Spare yourself, Miss Preston," returned Rock, impulsively. "It's wonderful—beautiful of you. I admire and respect you for it. But I can't understand."

"No one can," she said, sadly. "Alice thinks I'm mad. . . . Oh, how I dread this! But it has to be done—more with you than with any other who ever tried to be friends with me. I've known lots of boys, and liked them, too. But not lately. As I grow older Ash grows more jealous. He fears I might like some cowboy."

"Oh, I see! Is such a remarkable thing possible?" returned Rock, unable to resist a slight sarcasm.

"Of course it is," she retorted. Her eyes flashed at him. "What do you think I am, anyway?"

"Under the present circumstances I reckon I dare not tell you."

"Mr. Rock, you are going to disappoint me, presently."

"Good Heavens! What do you boy or man be friends with me—at least out here at Sunset?"

"Very well, I give up my job and go ride for some other outfit—if you will be my friend."

"That's fine and square of you, Mr. Rock, and I might promise so much."

"Much? That isn't much. I mean only friendship. Do you think I'm the kind of a man who'd want a girl to give more than friendship until he'd earned it? Well, I'm not. And I wouldn't ask anything."

"Mr. Rock, you're making this harder for me," she said, with pathos.

"I'm sorry. But go ahead."

"Cowboys have called on me here and many have come to ride for Dad. Just the regular run of cowboys. Ash soon got rid of them."

"I wonder how he did all that. I know cowboys well, there's a pretty girl is concerned. And I'm just curious."

"I'll tell you. Ash has chased them away in every conceivable manner. He's lied, as he lied to you about my not seeing riders who came to Sunset. He'd coolly invite them to leave. He'd bluff. He'd threaten. He'd cripple and shoot their horses. Oh, that was the vilest thing! He'd get them drunk while on guard—which Dad couldn't forgive. He'd ridicule any sensitive cowboy before the outfit—so terribly that the poor fellow would leave. He'd concoct devilish schemes to make a cowboy seem negligent or crooked. And as a last resource he'd pick fights. Oh, he has beaten several cowboys brutally. Then worst of all—he has thrown his gun on more than one. Archie Black will be a cripple for life. And Jack Worthington nearly died of a gun-shot."

"How very interesting!" exclaimed Rock, and for the life of him he could not keep his voice normal. "And has nothin' ever happened to this bully?"

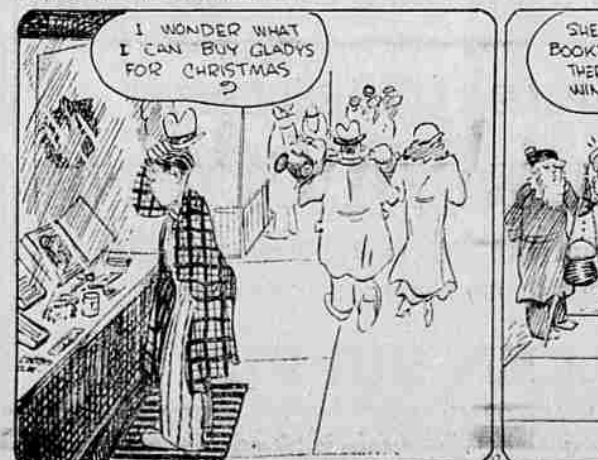

(Copyright, Zane Grey)

At last—Rock gains a clue Thiry's secret—tomorrow.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

THE NEWFANGLES

BIG SHOTS!

A GOOD TIP!

By Blosser

By Cowan

