Five tables of bridge were at play with Mrs. Max Sarvis receiving first prize, and Miss Ida McMeekin scoring second high. Consolation went to Miss Peggy Hess. A prize was also presented to the honor guest. A holiday color scheme was cleverly carried out with holly and carnations, and tiny Christmas trees used on the ice as refreshments were served. Miss M'Guire is a former resident of La Grande and has many friends in this city.

Christmas Party Given by Assembly

One of the largest affairs of the holiday season was the Christmas party given Saturday night by members of the La Grande Rainbow assembly at the Masonic temple. About 50 members of the younger set took part in the evening which was spent at cards, games and dancing. A Christmas tree in the lodge parlor and red and green decorations in the dining room carried out a holiday color scheme.

Guests for the evening included members of DeMolay and friends of the lodge members. Miss Edna Brown was in charge of the program and Miss Alice Milne arranged the refreshments. Patrons and patronesses were Mrs. O. M. Noyes, who acted as mother, and in the absence of Mrs. W. W. Nussbaum, Mrs. A. Milne and Mr. Rogers.

Preceding the party the assembly held a brief business meeting, with Miss Margaret Milne, worthy advisor, presiding. Plans for a public installation meeting, some time in January, were discussed.

Political Scorecard for 1931 Reveals Year of "Dope" Upsets

By Byron Price
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hopeful that brighter skies will smile on 1932, the American government is turning its back without regret on a year of tense endeavor and anxious vigil. Nationally, restless 1931 has been a time of political overturn, of social apprehension, of constant bickering of public confidence against the ill winds of depression and unemployment.

Internationally, the year's swift-moving tides of discontent have brought the United States ever nearer the center of affairs. At home and abroad, it has been a year of pent-up nervous tension. In Washington, for the first time since the war period, sweeping measures of national policy have been inaugurated by the common consent of all political parties.

So it was with the Hoover moratorium, perhaps the most spectacular of the president's effort for world stability. So it was with the emergency measures to release frozen credits. So it was with the patient and zealous preparations to lead the world toward disarmament in 1932.

Not all Mr. Hoover's policies, however, have received a similar reception. On the whole, the year saw his difficulties accumulate.

After a series of Republican upsets, a Democratic house took its place on Capitol Hill. A mounting treasury deficit impelled the administration to ask, on the eve of a presidential campaign for a tax increase.

Determined White House efforts to keep appropriations down led to much irritation and, in the case of the navy, kindled a high-blazing public controversy.

The Republican tariff came under fire, and a battle developed against the president's refusal to countenance treasury payments to the unemployed.

With it all, however, the year saw Mr. Hoover's renomination become a foregone conclusion, at the same time that Democratic hopes of victory in 1932 were being fed by Democratic sweeps in by-elections in far scattered sections.

Convinced that American prosperity never would return in full measure until other nations stabilized their economies, President Hoover proposed in June to help the whole family of nations by letting Europe forget her reparations and war debt payments for a year.

The world was electrified, and a series of new discussions of economic reconstruction revolved around Washington.

Secretaries Mellon and Stimson went abroad and were central figures at a seven-power financial conference at London. Premier Laval of France and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy visited the president here.

When a conflict developed in Manchuria peace overtures were made by the League of Nations at Geneva and for the first time an American representative sat in the league council and entered its debates.

Thus does the year-end find America gravitating toward closer

"Great Horn Spoon"

Authorities differ as to whether the expression, great horn spoon, is evolved from the spoons made from the horn of Big Horn sheep, but the Cook Museum of Natural History has spoons of this type in its collection and it seems probable that the expression was evolved from the horn ladies which were in common use by the Sioux and other tribes before trade utensils from the whites were available.

COURT MASTODONS!

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—It height and weight are everything necessary to make a basketball team, Coach Rich Fox at the University of Idaho will have a world-beater this year.

Here are the specifications of five of the men battling for places on the Vandal quintet: Kenneth Parks, 6 feet 6 inches, 193 pounds; Howard Greiner, 6 feet 5 inches, 205 pounds;

Wilbur McConnell, 6 feet 3 inches, 176 pounds; Edward Hurley, 6 feet 2 inches, 185 pounds, and Dan Au-cott, 6 feet, 195 pounds. The majority of Fox's veterans are in the medium size class, however, and it is not likely that all of the giants will win places. Parks was the regular center last year.

Mothers adopt Vick "Colds-Control" Plan

Means Reduction of the Number, Severity and High Costs of the Family's Colds

Doubly welcome to mothers is news that the makers of Vicks VapoRub have perfected a Plan for better "Control-of-Colds"—to lessen the number and severity of colds and reduce their costs in money, lost time and health. The plan is introduced along with Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, based on a new idea for preventing colds—companion product to VapoRub, the modern, external method of treating colds.

HERE, BRIEFLY, IS THE VICK PLAN:

- 1. BEFORE a Cold Starts
When children come in sniffing and sneezing, apply a few Vicks Drops up each nostril. Use the Drops yourself at that first scratchy, sneezy irritation of the nose or upper throat—Nature's warning that you are "catching cold." If you or the children catch cold easily, use the Drops after exposure to any condition you know is apt to be followed by a cold—dry, over-heated rooms—indoor crowds—sudden changes, wet or cold—dust and smoke—etc., etc.—and there is the slightest stuffiness. Used in time, many colds can be avoided.
- 2. AFTER a Cold Starts
At night, massage the throat and chest well with Vicks VapoRub. Spread on thick and cover with warm flannel. Leave bed-clothing loose around the neck so that the medicated vapors arising can be inhaled all night long. During the day—any time, any place—use Vicks Drops as needed for ease and comfort. This gives you full 24-hour treatment—and without the risks of constant internal "dosing," so often upsetting to digestion, especially the delicate digestions of children.

TRIAL OFFER BY LOCAL DRUGGISTS

You have Vicks VapoRub—now get Vicks Nose Drops and use together as directed in the Vick Plan for better "Control-of-Colds"—to reduce their number and severity. Unless you are delighted with results, your druggist is authorized to refund your money.

"I'll be fair with you.."

"I LIKE the way you put it up to us smokers to judge your cigarette by absolutely real things like mildness and better taste. Sounds like good common sense!"

Fair enough! That's all Chesterfield wants. That's all Chesterfield could ask for and does ask for—a trial.

"Promises fill no sack." After all, it's what you get out of a smoke that counts. And what you get out of Chesterfield, or anything else for that matter, depends on what goes in.

Better tobaccos don't grow than the tobaccos that go into Chesterfield. Ripe. Sweet. Aged and cured for two years under the watchful care of expert chemists.

Better cigarette paper can't be bought. Tasteless. Odorless. Pure!

Sanitary factories. Cleanliness in every step of the process. A purer cigarette than Chesterfield can't be made.

And the package! Absolutely moisture-proof. Sealed tight—yet the simplest thing in the world to open. And attractive to look at.

They're milder—they taste better—they're pure—They Satisfy!
