A HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Discuss Market—A meeting was held on Tuesday of this week at the office of the county agricultural agent to discuss the various phases of the public market, question, and the need of organization among the producers. That was a representation of those interested from all parts of the county at the meeting. The possibility of a public market is a question which has been under consideration for some time and the matter was given new and considerable impetus at the Grange fair last fall. It is announced that another meeting is to be held in the near future, when further and more definite plans will be made. In the meantime those who are especially interested are to take up the work in their own districts and to bring reports to the meeting.

Visiting—Mrs. J. B. Lamm, of Dunamur, California is here making a visit at the home of her mother, Mrs. I. A. Howell, in the Valeria district, and with her many other friends and relatives.

Return Home—Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Blokland have returned to their home near Lostine following a Christmas visit with relatives and friends in this valley.

Given Birthday Surprise—Mrs. Lillian Shafer, of near Island City, was the victim of a very happy surprise Wednesday evening at her home. It was her 70th birthday anniversary and her daughter, Mrs. Charles Morgan arranged the surprise to which she invited a group of relatives and some close friends. The evening was very happily spent, with visiting, playing pinocle and other features, and closed with the serving of some nice refreshments. Mrs. Shafer received many beautiful gifts from the guests who were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morgan and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ose Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Shafer, Mr. and Mrs. Beese McAllister, Mrs. Joe Harrison and Mrs. Willis Moss.

To Have Joint Meeting—This evening at the Pleasant Grove Grange hall, members of the Pleasant Grove, Mt. Fannie and Blue Mountain grange subdivisions will meet in joint session for the first time since the two subdivisions were reorganized for the year 1932. The exercises promise to be very interesting and a large crowd is expected.

Visits Grand-mother—Fredrick Hill, of Elgin, has been having a fine vacation and not the least important item of which was a visit of a few days at the home of his grand-mother, Mrs. C. D. Huffman, out on Cove avenue near La Grande. This is always a big event to make the visit alone.

To Muddy Creek—The Misses Eva, Edna, and Marie Ledbetter, Ray and Lytle Ledbetter, and their house guests, Prof. and Mrs. Guy Brace and daughter, Betty Lou, of Yakima, Wash., drove to Muddy Creek Wednesday where they were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loennig. That was the day of the heavy wind accompanied by snow. It will be remembered and the travelers had great difficulty in this country and also down near Haines. In two places they could not get through without help, as with all cars in that particular locality.

In Hospital—Friends of H. C. Cross, of Ladd canyon were very sorry to hear that he has been obliged to return to the hospital within the last few days for further treatment. Mr. Cross suffered a fractured leg while up in the mountains after wood, and was released in time to spend Christmas with his family.

In La Grande—Mrs. Theresa Leslie who teaches the Summerville school has been spending the holidays at her home in La Grande but hopes the roads will be in proper condition for her to get back to open the school Monday. The community program held at the school on Christmas eve and participated in by all residents of that neighborhood is reported to have been very successful, with a crowd as large as the school house would accommodate. The program opened with the singing of "Joy To The World" by the entire company. Then came a play "Lost, Strayed, or Stolen—Santa Claus" by a group of the pupils. Mrs. Irene Conrad, Mrs. Claire Hamilton and John Myers sang an appropriate number. There were two solos by Leo Wagoner, a duet by Jess Vermilyon and Dave Sanderson, a duet by Irene Conrad and Raymond Munson, and then the appearance of Santa Claus and the distribution of treats.

Entertainments—Mrs. William Perry, of Grange Hall, entertained a company of guests Tuesday afternoon at her home as a compliment to Mrs. Eddie Blokland of Lostine. The afternoon was very happily spent with sewing, visiting and enjoying the delicious refreshments which Mrs. Perry served.

That Wind—The heavy winds of Saturday and Monday, while perhaps a bit strong were not so disturbing to residents of some sections of the valley, particularly at Hot Lake, on the Sandridge, in La Grande and those places where winds are taken as a matter of course. But it was not so over in the direction of Cove where, we are told, the wind was the strongest which had been experienced in years and years and it extended clear up against the hills where such an occurrence is very rare. The silo on the Clearhart ranchland fruit ranch near Cove was blown over and other damage is reported such as blown over fences, poles, hay stacks, etc. During the worst part of the gale on Saturday night, was the time which the chimney on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher on Lower Cove selected to burn out. That the family was alarmed is expressing itself mildly, for the process required two hours, from six to eight, and the flames shot up several feet, reflecting on the trees, etc. There was nothing to do but to watch, and that the family did, although Josephine carried all of her choice possessions from her room on the second floor, just to be safe. Fortunately, the flames and sparks started no conflagration.

Returns to Corvallis—Russell McKennon returned Wednesday to his studies at the state college after a few days visit over Christmas at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKennon, near Imbler.

Back From W. Washington—Miss Grace Halling who teaches the Willowdale school, and who is so much liked by pupils and parents alike, has returned from a short vacation trip to Montesano, Washington where she was the guest of her sister.

Have Program—Although later than some of the others, the account of the program given by the folks at Dry Creek school is none the less interesting. The program was given before a packed house, and was enjoyed by people from four districts as this was the only program in the neighborhood. The 28 pupils presented the following numbers:—"Trimming the Christmas Tree" an exercise; song, "Jolly Old Santa Claus," by school; "Working Daddy" dialog; "Christmas Symbols" exercise; "Lay Elif," dialog and song; "Wishing Santa"; recitation; "Delia's Problems" dialog; "Christmas Bells" exercise; "Jolly Old Santa" song by the girls; "Trials at Headquarters" dialog; "The Christmas Story" consisting of recitations, Luther's Cradle Hymn, Silent Night, in song and pantomime; Santa Claus came and was very popular with the younger generation in the audience. Presents were very plentiful and Mrs. Earl Robinson and baby who have been guests at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Childers on Lower Cove, have returned to their home in Seattle. They stopped at Yakima to visit over Christmas at the Clyde Robinson home, where they were met by Mr. Robinson and together they all returned to Seattle this week.

New Year's Dinner—Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Park entertained at a family dinner at their home near Summerville. Mr. Park prepared a wonderful turkey and chicken dinner which was enjoyed by Mrs. E. Sanderson, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sanderson and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Oliver and family, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Sanderson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sanderson and Loraine Hug, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodell, Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Sanderson and son, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Park, Mr. and Mrs. Rattie Hudson, W. W. Park, Hugh Park and the host and hostess. This same family enjoyed their Christmas dinner together at the home of Grandma Sanderson in Summerville and will have the next big family gathering at the Burt Oliver home in Dry Creek on Easter. The Thanksgiving reunion was given at the Charles Sanderson home but on account of the weather and the roads quite a few could not be present.

Guests—Mr. and Mrs. Hartan Koger and children, who live on Lower Cove have had as recent dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Chadwick and sons, George and Virgil, and Mr. and Mrs. August Erickson and children, of La Grande and on one other day Mrs. A. E. Hartley and children and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Boswell, of Lower Cove. Mrs. Hartley is not very well we are told, and does not regain her strength after her recent illness as her friends would wish.

On Reynolds' Farm—Mr. and Mrs. Rayburn have recently moved to the Reynolds farm near La Grande, known as the "Sheep Sheds." Of their family of children, three are now pupils at the Liberty school. In the eighth, sixth and fifth grades respectively. Mrs. Mary B. Kall is the teacher of this school.

Imbler Aid—Mrs. Etta Welch will entertain the members of the Imbler Ladies Aid society on Thursday. In addition to other features of the afternoon, this is the time for the annual election of officers.

Home From Portland—Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Kiddie have returned to their home in Island City after having had a holiday visit with relatives and friends in Portland.

Passing of Mrs. Baker—We regret very much to record here the death of our friend, Mrs. Lillie Baker, which occurred New Year's eve at a La Grande hospital. Mrs. Baker was operated a few weeks ago for a ruptured appendix and while at times her family and friends were more encouraged over her chances for recovery, the greater part of the time they feared that that was impossible. Mrs. Baker was for many years a resident of the Pleasant Grove neighborhood, and for health reasons left the home farm and moved into La Grande two or three years ago. She was very widely known and was loved by all who knew her. Some of her children have been with her all the time at the hospital and others have all been here for longer or shorter periods of time, as they were able.

Have Much Rain—Mr. and Mrs. Willis Moss, of Moss Chapel, report that letters received from their daughter, Mrs. E. C. Alexander tell of the great amount of rainfall they have had in their particular section of the Willamette valley recently. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander moved from this valley last spring to a farm a mile out from Philomath. During the recent rains they say that at places on this one mile of road, the water ran a foot deep at one time. The Alexanders are all well, we are told, and enjoying their new home immensely. And they are certainly missed in these sections, too.

Word From Friend—Friends of Mrs. Fay Catlin, who had charge of Red Cross work in Union county during the war, will be interested to know that at present she is at Seaside, Oregon. The report is that she has been having very serious trouble with her eyes.

4-H Club Meets—The "Go-Getters," members of the 4-H club of Liberty school, near La Grande, held their last meeting on Friday, December 18. The club will finish its final records the next week after the Christmas vacation, it is reported.

In Corvallis—H. G. Avery, county agricultural agent has been in Corvallis for the last few days on business connected with his office and this week is attending the annual conference of county agents of the state. Those who are interested in the project will notice on the program in another column that Mr. Avery is to broadcast over station KOAC Tuesday evening at 7:20, telling something of the Union-Backer county lamb pool activities during the past season.

Conclude Visit—Rev. Josie Blokland returned yesterday afternoon to her home at Nyssa, Oregon, after having spent a week here at the home of her mother, Mrs. Mary Blokland near Island City.

Is Better—Word from Stanley Arnoldus who was called to Portland long since by the illness of his wife (Marie West) is to the effect that Mrs. Arnoldus is much better.

The Meneses—Charles and Donald Hefty, sons of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hefty, Evelyn Houston and Robert Hancock and Berneta Mungrave are some of the little folks over in home. Other guests are victims of the present epidemic of measles.

Return Home—Mr. and Mrs. Dave Sanderson who have spent the major part of this week visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Niederer in La Grande have returned to their home at Sanderson Springs.

Give Dinner—A very lovely New Year's eve dinner was given Thursday evening by the Misses Eva, Edna and Marie Ledbetter at the W. R. Ledbetter home near Alico. In addition to the members of the family, Mr. Ledbetter, his three daughters and son, Lytle, the invited Alice and Mrs. Guy Brace and daughter, Betty Lou, of Yakima, Wash., and the Misses Alice Kippel, Mabel Morton and Amanda Zabel of La Grande. The beautiful poinsettias with red tapers formed the table decorations and the Christmas colors were used very effectively in the menu also.

In Portland—R. W. Sovers, of near Cove, went to Portland last week where he has been making a holiday visit at the home of his sister.

Driving New Car—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Mills and their family of above the Cove started out the new year by driving a new car. The new car is a coach and is reported to be a much more comfortable than their former open car, we are sure.

To Klamath Falls—Miss Phyllis Sanderson has gone to Klamath Falls where she will stay for the rest of the present school year with relatives. Her brother, Verbal went to the southern city several weeks ago.

Visiting—Mrs. J. A. Gaskill, of near Imbler, is spending a few days visiting at the home of her daughters, Mrs. Lola Hutchison and Mrs. Wilma Hlat in La Grande.

Memorial Service—Attention is again called to the memorial service for the late Robert Withycombe, which is to be held tomorrow morning at the hour of the morning service at the Methodist church in Union. Rev. Lee, the pastor, will be in charge.

At Valeria—They had such a lovely time for Christmas out at Valeria school. There was the special Christmas program, and the pretty decorations, and the treats and then something else which we think was just wonderful—Grandma DeLong, whom everyone loves, made a gift for each child in the school and each gift was accompanied by a bit of original verse, which Mrs. DeLong had written for the holiday season. The school was very elaborately decorated. The program which the pupils gave under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Zilpha Howell, opened with an address by Marie Wells. Then the play "The Bird's Christmas Carol" was given with all of the school taking part. Donald Jasper, Etina Jasper, Jean Jasper, Eugene Becker, Violeta Wells, Dick Wells, Roy Lessman, Norbert Allen and Marie Wells. After a vocal solo by Norman Allen, a puppet show was given by the first graders. Then a monologue, "Learning a Peice" by Donald Jasper. Etina Jasper played an instrumental solo, Eugene Becker gave a vocal solo and the closing address was given by Jean Jasper. The children enjoyed a

A SEASONABLE RECIPE

1 cup butter
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup sour milk
1 whole egg and two yolks
1 teaspoon soda
3 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon lemon
Cinnamon, sugar and nuts dropped on top of each cookie. Drop with a spoon.

Christmas tree and refreshments were served to the whole crowd. Among those bringing treats to the children were Mrs. Maud Waisinger, Mrs. Frank Wright and Mrs. I. A. Howell and, as stated above, Grandma DeLong had a gift for each child. Mrs. J. B. Lamm, of Dunamur, Cal., attended the program. Valeria school had no vacation this year and school was resumed on Monday as usual.

Local Interest in Wedding—The many friends in the valley of the bridegroom and interest in the bride because of her official position in the state capitol, made news of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon F. Sackett, co-publisher of the New Oregon Statesman, of Salem, and publisher of the Coos Bay Times, at Marshfield, and Miss Beatrice Walton, private secretary to Governor Julius Meier, of considerable local interest. The marriage was celebrated Thursday evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Walton in Salem. Mrs. Sackett is a graduate of Mills college in California. She served as secretary to the late Governor Paterson and later of the present chief officer of the state. Mr. Sackett is a graduate of Willamette university, and after having taught a year, purchased the McMinnville Telephone-Register, going after the sale of that plant to Salem to be associated with Charles A. Sprague in the management of the Salem daily.

We Are Sorry—In the account of the family dinner which Mrs. Mary Blokland gave at her home on last Monday and which, we said, was attended by all of her children, we sort of contradicted ourselves when we omitted the names of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blokland of La Grande. Now this has must be correct—Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Blokland of near Lostine, Rev. Josie Blokland of Nyssa, Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blokland of La Grande, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Blokland and daughter, Margaret Anne of Island City, Mr. and Mrs. William Perry and daughter of Grange Hall, Esther Blokland of Wolf Creek, Mr. and Mrs. Blokland and family, Alfred, Gene, Wilbur and Herbert at home. Other guests were Mr. Bach, of Enterprise and Doris Cade of La Grande.

Variety Of Weather In Wallowa

A wide variety of weather conditions have been experienced in the vicinity of Wallowa, according to reports received from G. C. Meek, and covering the past ten days. The greater part of the time since winter set in has been quite cold, according to the report. The past week, however, has been exceptionally mild for this season of the year, with much rain, and with snow which has melted considerably. The frost appears to have been drawn from the soil over much of the hill sections, which had been quite deeply covered with snow. Such is the case in the valley has not been so extensive as in the higher sections of the community, because of a fog which has hung along the valley obliterating the sun much of the day. Reports from Maxville the latter part of the week state that thawing there during the past few days has been sufficient to start the water in some of the small creeks.

An exceptionally heavy fall of snow has been reported in the valley during the past few weeks and after settling considerably during the mild weather it is reported to be about forty inches deep on the level. The depth of snow in the Promise section is said to be between two and two and a half feet. The higher parts of this community are well blanketed with about fifteen inches of heavy snow, however, and the most of the snow next to the ground is proving an excellent thing from the moisture standpoint.

Some trouble from short water supplies are still being felt at a number of the farms in the hill sections yet, with some hauling from the river still being necessary. Feeding of all livestock is being done at this time. However, many of the farmers state that a large part of their feeding at this time consists largely of straw while stock are in good feed and able to do quite well on this kind of feed. Straw stacks have been in good demand here during recent weeks. There is also said to be a steady demand for small lots of hay which has sold at around $2 per ton since the first sales were made quite early in the fall. Some drifting of the snow at various places in the community has practically closed the most of the hill roads for car travel. E. E. Southwick, rural carrier on route No. 1, used his car up to the last of the week, but reports traveling quite bothersome at many places and has arranged for putting on his team the first of this week.

STAR'S UTMOST BRIGHTNESS REACHED EVERY SIX YEARS

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—It takes six years for Betelgeuse, a giant red star, to change from utmost brightness to maximum dullness and back to brightness again.

Such is the conclusion of Prof. Joel Stebbins following his studies at the Washburn observatory at the University of Wisconsin.

TRADITION UPHOLD

PORTLAND, Jan. 2 (AP)—Continuing an apparent family tradition for New Year's day arrivals, Mr. and Mrs. Russell M. Caldwell reported the birth of a daughter Friday.

The girl's father was born Jan. 1, 1900, and her great-grandfather was born Jan. 1, 1800.

HISTORY OF SLATER FAMILY IS VERY INTERESTINGLY TOLD BY PORTLAND FEATURE WRITER

Fred Lockley, feature writer on the Portland Journal, frequently gives his readers pioneer stories—and pioneer stories always have a certain fascination for all readers, but especially those in a section like this. Not long since Mr. Lockley reported an interview with John Lyman Slater, of Portland, a brother of J. D. Slater and Mrs. Nellie G. Nell of this city. Mr. Slater gave of his family, linked up as it is so closely with the Grande River valley, we believe is most worthy of repeating and for that reason we give excerpts from Mr. Lockley's story:

"I was born in La Grande on July 8, 1867. La Grande at that time was a village. The La Grande I knew as a boy is now known as Old Town. When the stage was succeeded by the railroad the new town of Old Town sprang up on both sides of the railroad track.

"My father, James Harvey Slater, was born near Springfield, Sangamon county, Illinois, in 1826. Father crossed the plains to California in 1849. The following year he came to what is now known as Corvallis but was then known as Marysville. Father was about 25 or 26 when he came to Corvallis. He attended school at making brick. Later he secured a position as school teacher there. While teaching school he studied law and in 1863 was appointed clerk of the United States district court, serving under Judge George H. Williams. In 1864 he was admitted to the bar. Father hung out his shingle and began practicing law. He served in the territorial legislature in 1867-68 and the being elected to the Democratic ticket. Father also served in the first state legislature. In 1869 he started a paper at Corvallis called the Oregon Weekly Union, which he ran till 1881.

"In 1882 father moved to Auburn, where he practiced law. He also did some mining there. He arrived at Auburn in September, 1892, and bought an interest in a claim operated by Jones Brothers. He was graduated from Washington and Lee university and has practiced law at La Grande since 1884.

"My brother Woodson Taylor Slater was born in Corvallis on November 18, 1868. He graduated from the University of Oregon in 1888, served as assistant state treasurer for a while and practiced law in Salem for many years.

"My sister Olive Slater lives here in Portland. My sister Bertha, now Mrs. Elmer E. Smith, is a teacher in the public schools. My sister Nellie, who married A. T. Neill, at one time county clerk of Union county, lives at La Grande, where she has taught school for more than 30 years. Frank was born at Baker on August 5, 1865. He was a banker at La Grande and also at Canyon City and is now in a bank in California. I was the next child. My sister, Edna, who married J. McKittrick of La Grande is dead. My sister, Ida, married A. D. Cherry, until recently city manager of La Grande."

"My first teacher," said Mr. Slater, "was Professor J. T. Outhouse, who, by the way, taught the first public school in Portland. This school was taught in the City hotel at the north-west corner of 1st and Oak streets and began on December 15, 1851. I'll say this for Professor Outhouse: he not only was a well qualified teacher, but he certainly was some disciplinarian! There was always a bundle of switches on his desk and some of them were as thick as your finger. The switches were not there for ornament, either; he not only knew how to use them, but did use them, frequently and effectively.

"Later I attended the famous old Blue Mountain academy at La Grande. For a while the Rev. Edna was the teacher. Later G. M. Irwin, a Methodist minister, became president of the university. He served as president from 1862 till 1885. Though he was a Democrat, he campaigned for Harrison, and Harrison appointed him superintendent of the Indian school at Chemawa. In 1884 he was elected superintendent of public instruction, serving four years.

"When I was 18 years old I attended Armstrong's Business college in Portland. Professor Wesco had charge of penmanship, and he was one of the best penmen I ever saw. It was over 45 years ago that I took penmanship of Professor Wesco and he is still in harness in the Portland public schools.

"My father when he first came to Corvallis, in the early '50s, made brick. My first work was as a carpenter. I went to Ellenburg, Wash., and worked on a number of new buildings, most 1862 which were destroyed in the big fire that almost wiped Ellenburg off the map in the late '80s, so I stayed there and helped rebuild the town. My father was planning to build the Slater building, so he asked me to come back to La Grande and help put up that building, which I did. Later I went to Colfax and from 1893 to '95 worked for J. M. Goode. In 1896 I was struck by the flu at the Slater building, but at Starbuck I met an old friend, Jimmie Cutler, an old-time stage driver under John Haley, who got me a job in the railroad shops. I worked at construction work with the O. & W. railroad for three years. I helped build the log hotel at Meacham, where Grandma Munra served travelers such wonderful meals. Later I went in business for myself as a contractor and built the La Grande National Bank building and the Stewart building and the Sommer hotel at La Grande. I opened an architect's office at La Grande which I operated until our country entered the World war, when I went to Vancouver, Wash., and worked for the government, putting up cottages for the workmen and also building the hotel at the Starbuck shipyard. From Vancouver I came to Portland.

"My mother, whose maiden name was Edna Gray, was about 19 years old when she crossed the plains with her parents to Oregon. With them came her two married sisters with their husbands and families—the Garretts and Taylors. My uncle, Mr. Taylor, had made two round trips across the plains prior to 1832, so he was elected captain of the wagon train. He saw to it that all of his relatives and friends started out properly provided with plenty of provisions to last until they reached the Willamette valley. Some of the others in the wagon train were unwilling to take advice, so they ran out of food before they reached Oregon and my people had to share with them.

"They crossed the Snake in an improvised ferry, made of a wagon box. He saw to it that all of his relatives and friends started out properly provided with plenty of provisions to last until they reached the Willamette valley. Some of the others in the wagon train were unwilling to take advice, so they ran out of food before they reached Oregon and my people had to share with them.

TIPS IS "SOME PUNKIN" IT WEIGHS 77 POUNDS

KINDER, La. (AP)—The characteristic southern expression to designate something of immense proportions—"Some punkin!"—might have originated here.

Eugene Butler grew one that weighed 77 pounds, which he brought to town and put on display in the lobby of a local bank. He said there were others on his farm just as large.

SCALES GIVE WOOL WARMTH

NEW YORK (AP)—Wool owes its warmth to microscopically small scales covering the fiber and to its crinkly shape.

Howard college, Birmingham, Ala., will engage North Dakota and Duquesne in football games next year.
