This Game of Golf

By O. H. Keeler

In what corresponds to the stove league of baseball, golfers will be doing a lot of talking this winter-up across the Canadian border, at one rate—a match in the Canadian women's championship at the Rosedale Golf club in the quarter-final round.

In the match Alexa Stirling Fraser emerged from retirement—a real retirement, so far as regular competition in American championships is concerned—to defeat the great English player, Miss Enid Wilson, British champion, in America to play in the United States and the Canadian title tourneys.

I wish I had seen that match, for a particular reason.

Miss Wilson, a tall and powerful girl with a grand and slashing style, played well in the qualifying rounds and won her first two matches convincingly.

Mrs. Fraser, United States champion of 1918-17-20, never a very robust young woman (I saw her play in the finals at St. Louis ten years ago when she weighed just 110), must have been in striking contrast to her adversary, a small, auburn-haired matron with a beautiful iron swing, learned nearly 20 years ago from Stewart Maiden, at East Lake.

Alexa Drops Four

You may recall that Miss Wilson, playing beautiful golf, started by winning the first four holes. Mrs. Fraser said afterward that she did not recall ever having won another match of any importance, after a start anything like as calamitous.

At the eighth tee, with seven holes played, Mrs. Fraser still was four down.

And then something happened. . . . One reason I wish I had seen that match was because of another one in which I saw Alexa Stirling and Mrs. Clarence Vanderbeck, in the semi-final round of the United States championship of 1920 at Mayfield.

The little Alexa, playing impeccable golf, then was four up as she stood on the eighth tee—only to see her opponent sink a 30-foot putt for a two at the next green; use only eight putts on the next seven greens; square the match at the fifteenth, and hole a 25-foot putt for a par five at the long sixteenth.

And then—Alexa Stirling just holed a 20-footer for a birdie four, and won at the next green 2-1.

Bally

After all these years (as the stories say) here was the little Alexa, four down at the eighth tee, to the British champion. Now, what?

Alexa won the very long eighth with a par five when Miss Wilson took three putts, but with a four at the ninth the English girl was out in 37 and still three up. A birdie three at the tenth by Mrs. Fraser cut the lead to two; she lost the eleventh but got back the twelfth on a mislay by Miss Wilson; and followed with a three and a 20-foot putt for a birdie four on the next two holes to square the match.

The British champion was not through yet, and she went back in front when Alexa's drive strayed from the fifteenth tee; but the former Atlanta girl's great iron shot across the ravine at the next hole squared again. . . . Alexa played the last nine holes in 36, three under women's par, for a card of 78, to win one up.

History repeats, at times with a sort of reverse English—no pun intended.

The United States supplied 80 per cent of Chile's petroleum imports in 1930.

EX-MARINE CHIEF'S DAUGHTER TO MARRY—A MARINE!

It was a romance of the marine corps that culminated in the engagement of Ethel Peters Butler (left), daughter of Maj-Gen. Smedley D. Butler, retired, and Lieut. John Wehle (right). They met at the Quantico, Va., marine post, formerly commanded by General Butler.

Army and Navy Mass For 'Attack' On Hawaii; Secrecy Cloaks Preparations

SAN FRANCISCO (P)—Preparations for the greatest military maneuvers held in the Pacific since 1918 have been clothed the war game scheduled to open in February with almost the secrecy of actual conflict.

At the Vallejo shipyards, work is being rushed on the mooring mast for the navy's huge new dirigible, the Akron, and local observers believe the great airship will participate, basing at Sunnyvale, where work on the new west coast dirigible field is under way.

Plans for the game, which will involve the use of every arm of the service, were laid two years ago and it is stated have no relation to any political developments of recent months in the far east.

The maneuvers will be a test of the defense of the Hawaiian islands, and San Francisco will be used as a base for the expeditionary force of the army.

The "attack" probably will be launched against the islands at some unrevealed date early in the month. Before the opening troops and guns will be taken to Hawaii, but it is planned to transport the artillery horses and infantry mule trains for use after landing if the attacking fleet is able to penetrate the defense of the islands.

The transports will be conveyed by destroyers and it is expected fast scout cruisers will be brought from the east coast through the Panama canal to join in the war game, some with their planes, being attached to the attacking forces and others to the defense.

These maneuvers will bring the big new type submarines into use under war conditions for the first time and will be one of the few joint operations of army and navy.

The naval part on behalf of the attacking force will be to reduce the defending submarine and surface fleets and to cover landing operations by bombardment of land fortifications.

The regular naval maneuvers will follow the sham military expedition against the nation's mid-Pacific territory.

TAR HEEL BOXING TEAM LEANS ON SOPH TALENT

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (P)—Sophomores will get a big chance on the University of North Carolina boxing team this year.

Marty Levinson, 125-pounder, is the only regular Coach Crayton Rowe has back in 1932, while George Elgas, 115, and Hugh Wilson, 175, are the only other men with varsity experience.

Rowe faces a tough problem finding men to replace such stars as Goodridge, Holderness, Davis and Warren.

NON-TRACTOR FARM SHOW PLANNED BY FINNISH CITY

VILPURI, Finland (P)—Finnish agriculturists hope some Americans will come to Vilpuri for the 1932 agricultural exhibit.

Use of tractors on American farms and want to demonstrate how much better a job a good Finnish horse can do.

The farm horse hereabouts can trot a mile and a quarter in three minutes and can pull a load of two tons without undue effort. Besides, your proud Finnish farmer will tell you, the horse doesn't develop motor trouble.

CO-EDS TO SHOOT WITH MEN

NORMAN, Okla. (P)—University of Oklahoma co-eds are going to shoot it out with the men. The women's rifle team of the university will meet the sharpshooters of Kemper Military school, Boonville, Mo., in February.

Luther M. Defoe, engineering instructor for 40 years at the University of Missouri, has been made "emeritus professor."

New Director of Athletics at Wisconsin Steps Beyond Pair of His Former Tutors

MADISON, Wis. (P)—The pupil-teacher angle, constantly cropping up in sports tales, seldom has been more acute than in the elevation of Irwin Uteritz to the post of athletic director of the University of Wisconsin.

"Utz," who is 32, is the youngest man in his job at any Big Ten school and perhaps in any major university, superseding two men who had been his tutors in athletics—both competitive and administrative.

George Little, who resigned the post Uteritz now occupies, was the new director's football coach in his college days at the University of Michigan, and was his boss in athletic administration here.

Glenn Thistlethwaite, who resigned as football coach here along with Little, was grid mentor at Oak Park, Ill., high school when Uteritz first won his spurs as a prepster, and Utz coached under Thistlethwaite as well as on the Badger campus.

Now the young man whom Fielding Yost characterized as "one of the few really great quarterbacks and the most certain tackler for a backfield man I have ever seen" is in, and Little and Thistlethwaite are out, so far as Wisconsin is concerned.

His record of 19 victories against only two defeats in four seasons as coach of the Wisconsin "B" football team may have had something to do with getting Utz his big promotion. His Bees were undefeated the last two seasons and won the conference "second team" title each year.

In addition to his success in that line, Uteritz has been unusually popular with fellow coaches, students and campus critics. He has coached freshman baseball, in which sport he also starred at Michigan, and assisted Guy Lowman with the varsity nine, taught classes in football and baseball in the university's physical education course, and during the last year assisted Little in his directorial duties.

Never weighing more than 140 pounds in his college playing days, Uteritz's greatest asset at Michigan were his flair for adapting plays to situations where they would do the most good, even to the point of improvising new details, and his extraordinary accuracy with the forward pass. Many of his flings fell into the arms of Harry Klopke, Michigan's young grid coach.

Utz was a regular for three seasons in both football and baseball at Michigan, captaining the nine his final year. He was on many all-western and all-conference honorary football teams, and named on the late Walter Camp's third all-America his junior year.

A few months' service in the army tank corps between high school and college, and two seasons' play with the Waterbury club of the Eastern baseball league (1924-25), in which he hit over 300 each year, are side-lights in Uteritz's career, which otherwise has been pretty well confined to playing and coaching university athletics.

You have never seen a Color Finish like this before

Color in and let us show you Flex. Here is the newest development in color finishes. It is neither an enamel nor a lacquer. It combines the best features of both.

You can brush this remarkable color finish in any direction. It smooths out without a sign of brush-marks. It will not "pile up" nor "stick" in your brush. Because it withstands wind and weather and wears so well, it makes a wonderful finish for the car. Dries quickly with a tough, durable, velvety lustre.
