

LOCAL BRIEFS

Scouts to Serve Waffles—Sunday morning at 8 o'clock the Methodist Boy Scout troop will serve a waffle breakfast to their fathers and members of the troop committee. Scout Master James D. Haun and Assistant Scout Master Harvey Carter explain the reason for not inviting the mothers to the breakfast by saying that neither the masters nor the scouts are certain of their ability as waffle makers and are timid about making the critical mothers' palates. "Maybe next time" they say.

Bronchial Trouble

MODESTO, CAL.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was of so much benefit to me years ago," said Mrs. A. H. Pemberton, of 106 Spruce St. "I was then a young woman but a malnourished and weakly child. I had a chronic weakness and bronchial trouble made me feel like an old one. I could scarcely drag around to attend to my household duties when I started to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, but a few bottles of it rid me entirely of all malarial symptoms and gave me strength and endurance. It also helped my bronchial trouble a great deal. I began to feel better, even while taking the first bottle." Ask your druggist for Dr. Pierce's Discovery

County Audit—The county auditors, who visit La Grande periodically, went over the county books yesterday it is reported.

Elks Meet—The Elks met last night at 8 o'clock at the temple for a regular business meeting, and Norman Desilek, chairman of the past exalted rulers night committee, reported on the activities of that group. Past exalted rulers night will be held Feb. 4.

Depew's Business Life

Chauncey Depew was so well known as an orator and after-lunch speaker that many people lose sight of the fact that he was a prominent lawyer, bank director and railway executive. He served ten terms in the United States senate and attended every Republican national convention from 1888 to 1924. In 1924 he was a delegate, but illness prevented his attendance.

Gay '90's To Be Alive Again At Y.W.E.A. Event

In the gay nineties, the day of the Floradora girl, when melodrama reigned supreme and "After the Ball" was the popular song of the day. Laura Jean Libbey, one of the most sentimental of the novelists, wrote, "Was She Sweetheart or Wife?" The wedding scene from that melodrama will be only one of the treats that will be presented at the Methodist church next Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when the program of "Gay Nineties" is produced for the second time.

When presented before the Young Women's Educational auxiliary at a recent meeting it met with instant success, and many requests were heard to have the entire program again. Miss Mabel Doty states. The casts of the various skits have been rehearsing, the program has been augmented and Miss Doty believes that it will be one of the most entertaining events of the entire winter.

"Was She Sweetheart or Wife?" This question will be answered by an able cast who present the wedding scene. Irene Thursby, the bride, is portrayed by Mrs. Con Harding Scott; while her fiancé, Austin Mordant, an adventurer with as black a character as woman ever painted in a melodramatic novel, is played by Mrs. Thomas McGuire, Guelda Forrest, who rises up from the past to haunt the adventurer, is Miss Alleen Morelock. Miss Berna Wallinger plays the part of Sarah Jones, who says "that justice will be done"; Miss Mae Stearns is the minister; Miss Nello Grinnett, mother of the bride; Mrs. Homer Lettel, as Senator Mordant, father of the bridegroom; Miss Sarah Williamson, father of the bride. Guests in costume also attend the ceremony.

Miss Mabel Doty will present the high lights of the '90s; after which Miss Morelock and Miss Myrtle Hoyt, assisted by the sextet, will pantomime "Daisy Belle," a song of the period. A skit, "All On a Summer's Day," will be presented by Miss Helen Williams, Miss Jean Williams, Miss Agnes Palmer and Mrs. E. L. Skeen. A sextet, composed of Mrs. Sherwood Williams, Mrs. Ray Fuller, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. H. C. McClay, Mrs. A. W. Nelson and Mrs. R. F. Tyler, will sing a group of songs of the '90s. Miss Ruth Margaret Hall has arranged a skit, "A Sunday Afternoon in 1890," which will be presented by Miss Neil Mahaffey, Mrs. E. S. Heasler, Mrs. Beatrice Young and Miss Jean Williams.

Rabbit Fur Widely Used
Use of rabbit skins in the fur trade is increasing rapidly, due to the disappearance of many of the finer pelts for animals. More rabbit fur is now used than any other kind in the making of fur garments, trimmings, glove linings and felt hats.

AS RAGING FLOODS MAROON 7500 IN MISSISSIPPI

New levee breaks on Tallahatchie river flooded 50,000 acres and marooned 7500 persons in the Mississippi delta area below Memphis, Tenn. Flood conditions were described as the worst in history in the entire Tallahatchie basin. The photo here shows a street in Sharkey, Miss., just after a break in the levee had sent the swirling flood waters into the little town.

This Game of Golf

By O. B. Keeler

Wifty Cox served notice in the first show of the winter season that he was going to be tough for the other boys. He won a good match play championship—the open affair at the Lake Merced country club of San Francisco. The tournament is one of the three most important events of the Pacific coast winter program.

As in the national open, George Von Elm was runner-up, knocking off Joe Kirkwood along the route to a meeting with Wifty. If you will pardon me, I will pause to insist that the name, or rather the nickname, is Wifty and not Whiffy.

I do not like Whiffy; it conveys an idea of whiffing, or striking out, as in baseball, which I used to write in large quantities, many years ago.

As I take it, the name is Wifty, a contraction of Wilfred. And certainly the Brooklyn boy's swing is sufficiently accurate to believe him of any suspicion of whiffing golf balls in any situation.

No Young Hotspur
Wifty is not among the flaming youth contingent. He is by no means elderly, or venerable. But he is along in the thirties; and his whimsical features are crinkled with lines which group themselves readily into a very flashing smile.

At Interlachen during the 1930 open championship it was extremely warm. It was warmer than that, with the pretty little lakes set about the countryside. Everybody was wilted and suffering and telling the world about it.

Bobby Jones came in from his first round in such shape that I had to cut his necktie off; the knot was drenched and "set." Cyril Tolley put in an appearance which inspired Herb Grafia to the best line of the tournament.

"Mr. Tolley," said Mr. Grafia, "resembled an iceman who has carried a hundred pounds of ice up five flights of stairs and found the lady of the house was out."

Charlie Hall, the hard-hitting Birmingham professional, now president of the American P. G. A., came in with a 92 and gave up.

"This championship," said Charlie, "will go to the man with the thickest skull!"

I told that to Bobby, after he'd won. He grinned.

"Maybe it did!" he rejoined.

Heat Veteran
Mr. Cox appeared to suffer less than anybody else. Habitually he appeared dry and hard and unconcerned. Then a story ran about the place that Wifty didn't mind the heat because he had been a stoker on the battleship Texas.

This had the makings of a good little story, if true. I went to Mr. Cox with it. He bridled somewhat—you never can tell what a golfer will get offended at these days.

"Why, no," he said. "There's nothing in that, as all. It was not the Texas. It was the Dakota!"

Sport Slants

By Alan J. Gould (Associated Press Sports Editor)

Pro. Billy McCarney, long one of pugilism's best known journeymen, so far forgot himself on the way to Miami recently as to step off the "retailer" and wire as follows to our Mr. Edward J. Neil, the boxing expert:

"Jacksonville Fla Jan. 9 937P
"Eddie Neil boxing editor Associated Press New York N.Y.
"Canvas of male passengers on train majority of them residents of Florida indicate whopper gate at Miami for Schmelling Walker fight.
"BILLY MCCARNEY."

The enthusiasm of Prof. McCarney, who has been peering intently for many years, cooled rapidly upon his arrival on Miami's famous shores. Forthwith he wired Joe Jacobs, Schmelling's manager, that the prospects for a "whopper gate" were very poor indeed and the fight was called off.

Fascinating, though, is that picture of Prof. McCarney, threading his way along the Pullman aisles and gaining a response so enthusiastic that he was moved to leap off at the first stop in Florida, rush into the telegraph office and send the glad tidings—prepaid.

Dropkick Record
A trifle belated, to the extent of 40 years, recognition has gone to a grey-haired citizen of Birmingham, Ala., for booting the longest dropkick field goal in football history.

He is, as you may already have noted, J. P. Ross, and he achieved his record performance in a game between the Birmingham A. C. and University of Alabama, Nov. 12, 1892.

To Jerry Bryan of Birmingham, I am indebted for a full story of the feat, all of which have now been substantiated by friends of Ross and placed in the hands of Parke St. Davis, gridiron historian and record-keeper. Ross' kick won the game for Birmingham A. C. 5 to 4, as field goals counted one point more than touchdowns in those days.

The constellation known as the Great Dipper seems to move around the North star once every 23 hours and about 50 minutes. This motion, of course, merely apparent, as it is the earth which actually moves.

RAILROAD WAGE DISPUTE APPEARS NEAR AGREEMENT

of the railroads adopting the six hour day.

The resolution was offered by Chairman Couzens of the interstate commerce committee, which earlier had approved it unanimously.

The commission would be asked to report by December 31, 1933.

Couzens said reports had come to him that if congress took some interest in the six hour day an agreement might be reached between contending factions.

Couzens said he had been informed the principal point of difference at the Chicago wage conference was the six hour day and there was a lack of information as to the effect the shorter work day would have on present conditions.

ELECTRIC CHAIR EXACTS PENALTY

when 100 or more police, armed with automatic rifles and tear gas bombs swarmed over an upper west side apartment house and dragged Crowley out, wounded and with two empty pistols still strapped to his legs.

He refused to see her yesterday when she went to the prison to say goodbye, because, he said, he had heard she was "going with a cop."

His last few minutes in his death cell were spent eating ice cream and admiring a picture he had drawn of the execution chamber.

He entered the death room with a grin on his face and his fists clenched.

"Hello, sarge," he said in greeting to one of the officers.

As the head electrode was fitted he mumbled, "My last wish is to send my love to my mother."

He referred to his foster mother, Mrs. Anna Crowley, who had given him the only name he ever had and to whom the body was turned over today.

It's got to be good to be ADVERTISED

All the king's horses . . . and all the king's men can't make a success out of a bad product. No amount of advertising will create a market for it. The more it's advertised, the more its defects become known.

But a good product well advertised grows as swiftly and naturally as a healthy plant. People try it and like it. They tell others. They like it. Soon that product is found everywhere . . . and its name, spread abroad by advertising, is on every tongue.

When you see something widely and consistently advertised, you can be pretty sure it's well worth having. If it weren't . . . if it didn't represent an honest and worthy value . . . the maker couldn't afford to advertise it.

Look over the advertisements in this paper. Some of these names you know. Others perhaps are newcomers, potential friends bringing some new comfort or convenience. But all are entitled to your trust . . . all are here because they have something real to contribute to your advantage . . . your service . . . your happiness.
