

Storage Season Opening; Trek To Ice Houses Due

PORTLAND, Feb. 3 (AP)—Opening of the storage season for eggs is practically on at this time. While no formal announcement of the beginning of the trek to the ice houses is shown, preparations have been completed.

Determination of the co-ops to protect the poultry industry from further ruthless killing of flocks appears as the chief factor in the trade at the moment. Although official action in regard to the storage of eggs by the co-ops at this time, has not been taken, leaders of the movement along the coast appear a unit in declaring this to be the only solution.

The local co-ops enter the new season even better entrenched financially than a year ago even though price conditions are not so good. The association's financial condition is unusually good.

Reports in the trade indicate that some storers were awaiting a further drop of 2c in the price before beginning operations but that the proposed action of the co-ops caused decision to store at once.

Market for butter continues to reflect more or less strength locally with little change in the price at any leading American center. Most of the local call continues in undergrades.

Still further eastness is reflected in the local chicken market as a result of the disastrous values on Puget Sound. Prices here were steady to 1c lower for the day, handlers reported.

Price of cabbage continues to move high here as a result of the local shortage and the need of importing Californian. General advance of 1/2 lb. is noted for the day.

Market for onions is today entirely a weather affair. Cold weather has practically put a stop to buying as well as loading operations at Willamette valley points. Local trade is slow but firm.

Spud Tone Stagnant

Stagnant tone is continued in the market for potatoes. So much stuff is being rolled unsold from Yakima and selling below established quotations that regular cash sales appear impossible generally at the source.

With the exception of undergrade hops, which appear a trifle easy, market in general for country killed meats is steady to firm along the wholesale way. Prices are maintained.

Smelt Running

Smelt are coming up the Columbia river in great schools. The main school has been located just off the docks at Rainier and is keeping well to the Oregon side. Whether they switch across the river and enter the Cowlitz, which is directly opposite, is keeping the trade guessing. In the meantime the cold weather is ruining the nets.

Notes of wholesale trading:

Head lettuce market is firmer with brokers asking an advance. A rise by jobbers is therefore expected.

Carload of Imperial valley spinach is due Thursday and a carload from Texas on Saturday. In the meantime a famine is shown here.

California endive, the curly sort, is being offered.

All citrus fruits are unchanged in price.

Honey continues very scarce for comb stock with prices stiffening.

Hothouse rhubarb is holding steady.

LENA REFUSES $500 OFFER BY DEMPSEY

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (AP)—What! Mrs. Lena Levy, manager of King Levine's, has turned down an offer of $500 for the Kingfish to meet Jack Dempsey in a four-round exhibition bout?

It's true, at least temporarily.

Matchmaker Nate Lewis of the Chicago stadium made the offer last night, seeking to fill out his program for Feb. 18, but Mrs. Levy failed to become excited at the prospect of watching her big brother work at the rate of $1250 per round, $4167 per minute, or $294 per second.

Mrs. Levy did, however, say she would think it over some more.

WALL STREET FIRMER

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (AP)—The stock market developed modest firmness in the late trading today, after quietly sagging during most of the day. Losses were largely regained, and several issues closed a point or more higher. The turnover, however, was barely 1,000,000 shares.

U. S. 30s and radio were bought in the last hour.

PORTLAND PRODUCE

PORTLAND, Feb. 3 (AP)—Hops—Nominal, 1930, 10/11c; 1931, 12/12c lb.

Over The Valley Personals

Eastern Oregon. This group is composed of the Smith-Hughes instructors in the high schools of the state, two high schools in this county being fortunate to have such departments—Imbler and Union. Also there are two in Wallawa county, Enterprise and Wallawa. The report goes that should the conference decide to come to Union, it will bring 50 agricultural teachers and their supervisors there for three days.

Returns Home—

Mrs. Frieda Fries has returned to her home at Pleasant Grove after spending three weeks at Hot Lake. She is reported as being some better.

To Have Party—

The "M" men of the Imbler L. D. S. church are planning a party for this evening at the church. Most of the evening will be devoted to free dancing with music furnished by the Hit and Miss orchestra.

Returns Home—

Hank McGoldrick has returned to his home near Imbler following two days spent with friends in La Grande. Lambing is the big item of work at the present on the McGoldrick sheep ranch.

Lambing—

Mike Royes, of Pleasant Grove is right in the midst of lambing season. His son, George Royes, who recently returned home from Eugene, is helping him.

Slightly Improved—

Mrs. Ada Tuttle, formerly of the valley, now living in La Grande, has been very ill but is reported now to be some better.

Attending Conference—

Mrs. Miles Woodell, of Dry Creek, grange, of Pleasant Grove grange, has spent Monday and Tuesday in La Grande attending the lecturers' conference. Mrs. Woodell had a time reaching the gravelled road Monday morning and was obliged to ride over drift, she says, which were three feet higher than the snow fences, between her home and the school house.

Is Better—

Mrs. Earnie Miller, of Lower Cove, who has been ill for some time was able to be in La Grande yesterday, attending the lecturers' conference. Mrs. Miller is the lecturer of Mt. Fannie grange. This group is to be the next hostess organization to the Union County Pomona grange.

Visit In Portland—

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ewin and baby daughter, Lois Jean, are in Portland, visiting Mr. Ewin's parents, Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Ewin and with other relatives. They drove down with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dobbin and are now expected home any day.

Mid-West Farmer Makes Plea For Frazier Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (AP)—John Simpson, president of the farmers union, headed a delegation of farmers from eight western states who appeared before a senate agricultural subcommittee Tuesday in support of the Frazier farm relief bill.

The farmers were from Oklahoma, South Dakota, Iowa, Colorado, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois and North Dakota.

Simpson testified that the Frazier bill, which would reduce interest rates on farm loans to 1 1/2 per cent, was "absolutely necessary."

"Good prices will not bring the farmer out of the burden of debt under prevailing high interest rates," Simpson said.

Senator Smith (D., S. C.) contended even if the farmers' debts were cancelled he could not do business profitably at present prices, and that some method must be found to improve the market for agricultural products.

William Lemke, of Fargo, N. D., said "if the farmer is to remain in the game he must have immediate refinancing."

Simpson in calling C. H. Hyde, of Oklahoma, to testify said "it's a bad name but he's all right."

"I understand he said he is no relation to Secretary Hyde," Frazier remarked.

"If he is we will fire him out of the union," Simpson replied.

story with the Mountaineers scoring consistently to take the long end of a 34 to 19 score.

Every man on the E. O. N. team figured in the Ashland rout with Baxter and Belts leading the scorers with 13 points each. Medcalf and Bredow each scored two field goals and a bang-up game at guard.

Stewart, the Ashland sharpshooter of Monday night, was held to one free throw and McDonald, who relieved him eventually, couldn't even make a point. Hines, negro guard, duplicated his first night's record with two field goals and each of the starting forwards scored a couple from the floor.

CUBA ROCKED BY TREMORS; MANY KILLED

ous injury in the first shock, poured into the dark and narrow streets in night clothing, stampeding for the comparative safety of the beautiful city's parks and open squares.

But even as they scrambled over debris and human bodies in a frenzied rush for safety the second shock rumbled across the eastern tip of Cuba and others were buried by tumbling stone.

Cathedral Wrecked

The great cathedral like all other principal buildings in the city, was ruined, huge blocks of masonry falling upon screaming throngs.

The municipal prison collapsed, crushing the prisoners helpless in their cells.

At the city hospital, where prospective mothers waited through the night in expectation of giving new life, the roof of the maternity ward fell in, bringing death to helpless inmates of the place dedicated to continuing life.

The quakes put the city power plants out of commission and it was in inky darkness that horror laid its hands on struggling hundreds.

Striking them down as they plunged madly toward hoped for safety, the water supply was also cut off and officials were given the added anxiety of having no means to combat fires resulting from the first disaster.

Rescue Crews at Work

The machinery of rescue and rehabilitation was placed in full operation, however, even before the successive shocks, which fortunately showed lessening intensity, were over.

The military took complete control of the city and superintended removal of the more seriously injured to hospitals and improvised emergency stations in abandoned homes.

As dawn brought realization of the extent of the ruin spread throughout the bustling city in a ring of hills, planes were already heading eastward with medical supplies for the stricken inhabitants.

First they started from Havana, at the opposite end of the island, and later two more large flying boats took off from Miami.

Pending their arrival rescue work went forward swiftly, ambulance and morgue wagons trundling continuously through the littered streets and doctors and nurses working against time to save the more seriously injured and ease the pain of those less seriously hurt. Accurate estimate of dead and injured was impossible in the early hours of the day but all reports agreed that the numbers probably would be large.

It is time for us to sit down with other nations and say to them, 'This tariff fence business, on our part and yours, is preventing world trade. Let us see if we can work out reciprocal methods by which we can start the actual interchange of goods.'" he "enjoys politics." Whether he will campaign against McNary four years hence or seek larger fields, such as vice president, is regarded as problematical, but his associates say his power campaign is too well laid for him to leave the fruit of his labors to others.

Concerning the governor's attendance at the national convention next June, there is already a movement on foot in Salem to organize a party to join the delegation there. This party would be headed by the governor.

His influence at the convention is expected to be strengthened by a united northwest on the power question. The winner in Oregon, primary for president, it is explained, could ill afford to ignore this question and the northwest support, if united. If President Hoover is again the choice the group expects him to soften his opposition to the Columbia river development in this event.

With a strong delegation at the convention it is expected that at least one man from the northwest can be placed on the national platform committee. In this event the power development plank could be inserted. All this would have to do with some plan of developing the Columbia river for power, which was urged before the engineers this week.

The selection of Col. A. E. Clark to represent the hydro-electric commission as well as the public utilities commission at the Washington hearing has significance, the Associated Press is informed. The support of the administration is said to be thrown behind Clark to defeat Steiwer for senator. The governor financed this excursion to Washington, and in addition has taken his political adviser and campaign manager, Henry Hansen, with him.

The Clark campaign will start in earnest immediately upon the party's return, under the guidance of the governor and Hansen. Clark has represented the governor in his power program before the last legislature, and since that time has appeared as attorney for the public utilities commission in the Portland street car case, and will represent the state in the Northwest Electric company investigation early in March.

With the governor supporting Clark it is regarded here as improbable that Hany would seek the Democratic nomination, explaining why he has not stated whether he would or would not run. Hany is a member of the law firm, with John Veatch, representing the governor in his private legal affairs.

The power program as a predominant issue in Oregon politics has been strengthened by two events the past week. The first is the congressional act being furthered by Thomas, as public utilities commissioner, to strip lower federal courts of jurisdiction over rates of utilities. In this he is receiving the support of the majority of state commissions.

The next was the warning issued by Clark in his address before the engineers, that unless public utilities voluntarily forego the sanctuary of lower federal courts and submit to regulation measured by the standard which a municipal utility would be compelled to charge, public ownership would result. The utilities still have the state courts and the United States supreme court to which to appeal from any rate-making decision.

Another move by Thomas is to seek control over municipal utilities as well as private utilities. This he will request of the next legislature. At the present time the public utilities commissioner has jurisdiction over private concerns only.

Green fees at both the Wichita Falls, Tex. Golf and Country club and the municipal links in the city will be reduced this year.
