

Butter Prices Cut One Cent Except Extras

PORTLAND, Feb. 11 (AP)—Out of 16 lb. in the price of all cube butter except extras during the late season of the Portland produce exchange was by no means surprising. In fact such action was necessary in view of the fact that three different scores of butter were quoted at the same price and there was a differential of but 1c between top and bottom scores.

The cut in butter naturally caused the trade to show recession in the butterfat buying price.

The fact that butter is today being quoted as high, if not higher than the market and eastern markets gives a rather queer twist to an abnormal trade situation.

Somewhat better demand for live chickens is reflected in the local trade with slightly better prices in spots although this is not reflected in the country buying price.

Market for dressed turkeys remains slow with heavy hen offerings in no better call than tom.

Higher prices are being named for some California vegetables as a result of the stormy period there.

First arrival of hothouse radishes of the season was reported in the local supply was from Walla Walla and the quality was very good.

Market is almost bare of spinach with practically none due until Monday.

Peas are very scarce; in fact in too small supply to quote.

Hothouse rhubarb is about steady with fancy $1.10 and choice $0.90 to $1.00 for 10s.

WASHINGTON

In 1753, he was sent to warn the French to desist from encroachment in the Ohio valley.

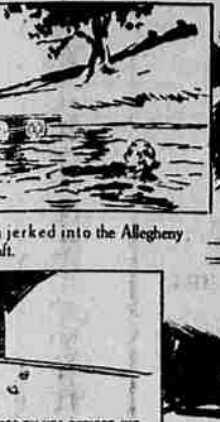

He enjoyed fox hunting and rode to hounds with the gusto of an English squire.

He often played billiards and cards, hunted, fished, and was fond of picnics.

He narrowly escaped death when jerked into the Allegheny while floating down the river on a raft.

Washington's first taste of military life came in 1753, when Governor Dinwiddie sent him with a small party to warn the French to desist from encroachment on Ohio valley lands claimed by Virginia for the British crown.

Returning homeward, Washington narrowly escaped death when thrown from a raft into the ice-filled Allegheny river.

He devoted much time to social life at Mount Vernon.

HIS LIFE STORY IN PICTURES, COMMEMORATING THE 200TH ANNIVERSARY OF HIS BIRTH

3. The Man

Out of the maze of contradictory stories about Washington, there emerges a great plantation owner — hard-headed, efficient, punctual, industrious, close-fisted, practical and cautious.

He was one of Virginia's richest and most successful tobacco-planters. He practiced crop rotation, diversified his products and experimented in breeding horses and cattle.

He disliked slavery on economic rather than moral grounds. He carefully clothed and fed his hands and employed a doctor to care for the sick.

House parties were frequent at Mt. Vernon. Washington liked afternoon tea served on the veranda in the summer; he was fond of picnics, barbecues, clam bakes; he played cards and billiards, hunted, fished, and still danced at the age of 64.

Washington's first taste of military life came in 1753, when Governor Dinwiddie sent him with a small party to warn the French to desist from encroachment on Ohio valley lands claimed by Virginia for the British crown.

The French received him courteously enough, but told him they intended to take possession of the Ohio, nevertheless.

FORD CONFIRMS NEW CAR RUMORS

Industry and the material men begin to raise prices, the whole effort may be throttled. In times like these everyone has to take some risk, make some sacrifice and even be willing for a time to do business without profit in order to start the normal processes of industry and business again.

Mr. Ford confirmed earlier reports that an improved four cylinder model had been placed in production in December only to be scrapped when he decided upon further alterations.

First showing in March "We're not abandoning the four either in principle or in production," Mr. Ford emphasized, in discussing the proposed eight cylinder model.

The improved four probably will be presented at a special showing shortly after March 1.

Stocks Rocket Today In Wall Street Trading

NEW YORK, Feb. 11 (AP)—Stocks surged upward in the broadest advance since mid-December today, in response to the Washington project to add new flexibility to the banking system.

Important quarters in Wall street viewed the proposed revision of the federal reserve act as the most promising of all measures yet undertaken to break the vicious circle of deflation, although there was some difference of opinion.

Final prices were in the main close to the day's best, which were largely made in the middle of the afternoon.

Wild Beasts in Captivity Some wild animals are so fretful in captivity that their lives are shortened materially. This is true of foxes and monkeys. Elephants and snakes do not seem to suffer much from captivity, but are strongly inclined to long lives in an environment. The mortality among wild animals in zoological parks is very high.

PORTLAND, Feb. 11 (AP)—There was only a small supply offering on the east side farmers' wholesale market today in contrast to the big loads the previous day.

Prices however were easier for root vegetables generally. Carrots, beets, turnips and parsnips were not quite so high either for bulk or bunched offerings.

Cabbage held steady with an active tone. Apple movement is very liberal with a slight improvement in the price. Some better grade face and fill sold up to 70c @ the box but the general range was around 50c @ 60c box.

Some spinach was offered and nominally quoted.

Hurried Movement Of Western Apples To Great Britain

Corvallis, Ore., Feb. 11 (AP)—Hurried movement of western apples to Great Britain to avoid the new ten per cent tariff duty taking effect March 1 is noted in the review of last week's fruit and vegetable trade, according to a report from the O. S. C. extension service in co-operation with the U. S. D. A. bureau of agricultural economics.

Northwestern apple prices continue low, the report said, with no indication of a definite improvement. Yellow Newtowns are the only variety showing any strength. Most large shipments of apples are going on an outright purchase.

Oregon fresh vegetables are scarce, the report said, and shipped in stiff is high in price, causing a slow movement.

The San Francisco hay market advanced $1 to $2 during the week, the hay review showed, but northwest markets were quiet with prices generally 1 or more below those a year ago, and showing little normal seasonal variations. Portland receipts have been 425 cars this season compared with 521 cars a year ago.
