Ralston Speaks Of Trip Through Europe at Lunch

Recently returned from a trip to Vienna, Nice, Monte Carlo, Venice and other European cities, Dr. F. L. Ralston spoke in an interesting way of conditions in Central Europe at today's luncheon of the Lions at the Sacajawea Inn.

Discussing the drinking of water in Europe, he said it was rarely done—that entire families drank wine or beer, although they never seemed to become intoxicated.

Concerning train service there, he said it was very poor. "You can't enjoy yourself on first or second class accommodations there as much as you can in America on the coast," he said, adding that pullman service there was very costly.

He also said that it was very expensive for Americans in Europe, although the Europeans lived without a great deal of expense. "Europeans can live there reasonably," he said, "but the American is nothing more or less than legitimate prey. . . . They get you coming and going."

In Austria he found the opera very good, and fairly reasonable in price. But he couldn't reconcile himself to the sight of the audience eating two enormous sandwiches about half way through the performance and then following this with a huge chunk of cake. "They eat at least six times a day in Austria," he declared. "There are practically no slender people within the country." In France and Italy, however, the people were more like Americans in their eating habits, he said.

Incidentally, Dr. Ralston said that common talk in Europe was that another big war would come within the next five years, and in France it was expected that an invasion of the Ruhr by France would be necessary in the next few years providing Germany doesn't pay her debts.

required to give his written consent—in a letter to the secretary of state or to each candidate for delegate who wishes to run pledged to him.

It is expected, the article said, that he will file a blanket consent with the secretary of state, and that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt will adopt a similar course.

BOOST JOHN GARNER
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 22 (AP)—Cowboys from the Rio Grande met here today with bankers, politicians and officials from upstate to boost John N. Garner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Texas was making what seemed a belated proffer of a native son for the presidency. C. M. Chambers, mayor of San Antonio, and Harry P. Hornby, country newspaper publisher of Uvalde, Garner's home town, who planned an all-Texas rally for Garner soon after he had been elected speaker of the house, felt their thunder had been stolen prematurely by William G. McAdoo, former member of the cabinet of the late Woodrow Wilson and other leaders to boost the Texan for the presidency.

Rev. Cutler To Hold Services All This Week

Rev. G. W. Cutler, who has been holding evangelistic services in his chapel car here since last Wednesday evening, preached at both the morning and the evening services of the Baptist church Sunday, and good-sized congregations enjoyed both of his fine sermons. In the morning he spoke on the subject "Favorites of Fortune—Or Delights of the Depression," and in the evening he spoke on "Religion a Life and Death Matter."

Services will be held in the chapel car at the Fir street crossing each evening this week at 7:30 and the evangelist promises that the meetings will be only one hour long. The subject of tonight's sermon is "Sanctification—What it Means." Tomorrow evening he will speak on "Religion in a Rain Barrel." Special music is planned for several of this week's services.

All children of school age are invited to a special service to be held in the chapel car at four o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A program of much interest is planned for them, and Rev. Cutler and his wife plan to organize them into a children's choir which will sing at the services in the church next Sunday. Younger children are asked to go first to the Baptist church at Sixth and Spring, where an adult will meet them and escort them safely to the chapel car.

Rev. Cutler and his wife visited Burns, Vale and Baker during the past few months, and are just stopping off in La Grande for a short evangelistic campaign before being assigned to their next location.

Their specific purpose in carrying on the chapel car work, however, is that of organizing and building up churches in small towns and cities. The chapel car is side-tracked in one of these churchless communities and the evangelists start out in their small auto, on horseback, or on foot to call on the people for twenty to thirty miles around and let them know of the services which are to be held.

A small mining town in one of our western states offers a good example of the results of chapel car work. Upon arriving, the workers visited among the people (the population was 700) and found only one Christian man in the community, but meetings were started and finally fifty persons were converted. They organized a church and decided they must build a meeting house. A young man came with a note from his mother deeding two lots, and subscriptions were taken for money with which to build. On Monday of the following week the stone was donated; Tuesday the stone was hauled; Wednesday the masons began work; Saturday the foundations were completed and the walls and floor were laid. In two and a half months the structure was completed and dedicated without debt and no money had been given by the state or national organization. The chapel car missionaries had raised all the money in the field.

There are at present four chapel cars engaged in just that kind of work. They are supported by the American Baptist Publication society with the American Baptist Home Mission society co-operating. In the past five years those four crews have visited 663,917 families, have brought about 17,118 conversions, organized 359 Sunday schools and churches, and distributed 202,629 Bibles, Testaments and books and 5,112,851 tracts.

Officers said information from their preliminary investigation was that Pontius and his mother, Mrs. Ina Nichols, drove Bohanan home after a drinking party and a dispute ensued.

Police said Steve Honan, with whom Bohanan was staying, told them he heard the row, then a shot, and rushing outside, he found Pontius dead and Bohanan threatening Mrs. Nichols. Honan drew Bohanan aside while Mrs. Nichols phoned the sheriff here.

The sheriff's office said Bohanan did not admit knowing anything about the affair. They were told he is separated from his wife who cooks at the University of Idaho at Moscow. Pontius is survived by a widow and two children in Montana.

Miss Mary Gould Parsons appeared recently as the girl in "Pan of Pimlico," presented by the Student players at the university. A review of the play in the Oregon Daily Emerald states: "Albert Culverwell, as Dickson, and Miss Parsons, as the girl, were the outstanding actors of the program. Both fitted in to their parts and rendered their interpretations without hesitation."

Miss Anita Knotts and Miss Myrtle McDaniels, both of whom have visited frequently in La Grande, are among the co-ed chorus girls who danced in "The Hi-Yeller Revue" at the Colonial Bout Friday evening.
