Ing schools immeasurably easier when she uses one of the modern-type ranges with the automatic oven. In fact, she says she could hardly put on a cooking school without this modern appliance, because "she has innumerable things to do on her platform at once, and simply must have the assistance of the automatic oven range."

She declares that any housewife is at a great disadvantage without it. Miss Heath will give practical demonstrations of her recipes in connection with her lecture on baking, the most intricate and at the same time the most fascinating branch of cookery. Every housewife should make it a point that regardless of whether or not she is able to attend one of the four lectures, that she be present to see and hear Miss Heath's baking demonstration.

Miss Heath will announce the day on which she plans this demonstration when she arrives here next week. Biscuits, cakes, pastry, pies, cookies—all come in for a share of the talks and demonstrations.

"In baking the element of time must be double-checked," declares Miss Heath. "A matter of minutes may mean the difference between a culinary masterpiece and almost undisguised indigestion."

"I have seen too many beautiful cakes or biscuits almost cremated when a housewife makes a miscalculation of just a few moments in baking time. That is just another reason why I am so enthusiastic about the subject of the automatically regulated oven."

"The item of temperature is almost as important as that of time. Modern automatic stoves are a great advance in temperature regulation also. "Baking has a lot of historical romance about it, too," says Miss Heath. "The earliest biblical reference to cooking is to the art of baking. Archaeologists find baking utensils in the very earliest human times."

"Today baking has reached its zenith in the hands of the Germans—from pumpernickel to pretzels. The German baker reigns supreme."

Local housewives are warned that all sessions of the "Kitchen Chautauqua" start promptly at 2 p. m. on Mar. 8, 9, 10, 11. There will be plenty of comfortable seats, but come early if you want to be sure to have a good one.

We advise you to bring paper and pencil and to jot down every one of the intimate and helpful suggestions on baking and every one of the topics to be presented to you by Miss Heath in her modern home-making exposition—the "Kitchen Chautauqua." Do not forget—it is only a few days away.

CHINESE LINE FORCED BACK BY JAPANESE

At 2:30 this morning a roaring fire half a mile long was blazing in the ruins of Chung. The flames leapt high and were plainly visible from the international settlement. The big guns whose shells had set the area ablaze were silent as though the gunners were satisfied with their night's work.

CHINA READY TO FIGHT NANKING, CHINA, Mar. 1 (AP)—Wang Ching-wei, premier of China, declared in a speech at Loyang today that China "must resist to the end at Shanghai for its national existence."

The government, he said, is ardently supporting the 18th route army defending Shanghai. In government circles reports of elaborate Japanese preparations for renewal of the attack over-shadowed interest in the peace parleys going on at Shanghai.

By Glenn Babb (Associated Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1932, By The Associated Press) TOKYO, Mar. 1—Peace proposals to end the conflict at Shanghai made by Joseph Paul-Boncour, French delegate at the league of nations council at Geneva yesterday, were accepted by the Japanese government today.

The proposals of M. Boncour, which called for a conference of the powers at Shanghai, with representatives of China and Japan, were also accepted by Admiral Osumi and General Araki, heads of the war and navy departments with Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa.

Permanent Solution Sought They reported to Tokyo by Naotake Sato, Japanese representative at the league council, by cablegram. The government was understood to have interpreted M. Paul-Boncour's suggestions as meaning that a conference at Shanghai, covering a long period of time, would be likely and that the conference would seek a permanent solution of the problem there.

It was understood that instructions would be sent to M. Sato advising him to accept the Paul Boncour proposals.

By Morris J. Harris (Associated Press Staff Correspondent) (Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press) SHANGHAI, March 1 (AP)—Japanese officials claimed late this afternoon the entire Chinese line, from Chapel northward through the western environs of Kiangwan to Maochongchen, was driven back by their forces in the most terrific battle the Shanghai front has seen.

Backed up by 12,000 reinforcements who landed here during the last 36 hours, the Japanese early this morning began a tremendous assault along the whole front. They used artillery, airplanes, machine guns, and a squadron of tanks in the tremendous push which Tokyo expected to defeat the Chinese sooner than League of Nations peace proposals could become operative.

County Clerk's Office In "Dog License Rush"

Licenses for 306 dogs were issued by the county clerk, C. K. McCormick, by last night, and the time of obtaining licenses without an extra fee of $2, was extended until this evening. Forty dogs this morning received licenses, and many more owners were expected to apply during the afternoon. Less than 100 dogs had been licensed near the end of last week.

Before the bill was passed in the last legislature exempting all dogs in towns the size of La Grande from licensing by the city, a city, county and state tax were placed on them. Now only a fee of $1 for males and $2 for females is paid to the county, and the fee goes into a fund which is used to reimburse the owners of sheep killed by dogs.

The penalty of $2 for all licenses is expected to go into effect tomorrow morning.

It seemed likely that the Japanese battlefield would be extended to include the surface and the depths of the Whangpo which yesterday was declared international water, following a request of the powers that the flagship Idzumo be removed from there.

"Time" Blasts U.S. The mines were "time" blasts, according to naval officials aboard the Idzumo. They were not close enough to do damage, officials said, although they caused great excitement aboard both warships. Officials said the Late tonight the rumble of artillery fire and the crash of the mines still set up a terrific din along the entire front. As evening approached the firing was concentrated on the Chinese left wing, south of Kiangwan. A spokesman for the Japanese intimated that their casualties also had been very heavy. A Japanese colonel and a captain, he said, were killed by machine gun fire in assaulting Chinese trenches.

A fruitless attempt to blow up two Japanese warships in the Whangpo river today resulted in an afternoon of terror for the international settlement while the most spectacular battle of the season of hostilities raged along the line from Chapel to Kiangwan.

Fear Earthquake Two powerful mines exploded near the flagship Idzumo and the Japanese cruiser Oi in the river early this afternoon and caused hundreds of dwellers in the international settlement to rush from their homes screaming "earthquake." But when the shouting was over, the warships were found to be unharmed.

The explosions rocked buildings throughout the city. Shortly after they happened a party of Japanese sailors left the flagship Idzumo in an armed launch, proceeded a short distance down river and arrested six Chinese in two sampans, accusing them of being connected with the explosion. As a result of these developments ships would not change their location.

The shocks caused great consternation among the population of the business district of Shanghai, where the buildings were filled with office workers, the streets crowded and clubs filled with foreign business people during the lunch hour.

Everybody thought an earthquake had struck Shanghai—something which occurs about once every ten years.

The mines apparently were laid deep in the river, although directly in the center of the stream, through which shipping from all parts of the world, including passenger lines from everywhere, passes on going and coming from Shanghai's harbor.

They were so powerful that when they exploded they threw a stream of water 50 yards into the air. No ships happened to be passing at the moment. The first blast occurred within 20 yards of the flagship Idzumo which has been the target of Chinese artillery on numerous occasions.

Near American flagship The thunderous blast rocked the ship. A few minutes later a similar blast burst up within 50 yards of the cruiser Oi, 500 yards further down the river. The cruiser was rocked and a great column of water was thrown into the air. This second blast shot up only a short distance from the bow of the American flagship Houston which is anchored in the middle of the river a short distance below the Japanese consulate.

The British flagship, the cruiser Kent, also lay on the opposite shore of the Whangpo across from the Japanese cruiser Oi, while the Italian flagship Libia was anchored a short distance below the Kent. None of these foreign vessels were damaged although they all were within a short distance of the mine explosion.

STORIES OF SERVICE

IN THE MEMORY

The importance of the funeral lies chiefly in the memory picture that remains with those left behind. Through the long years they will recall this hour as the final parting with a loved one. For that reason, we do all that we can to make this sacred rite impressive and sublime.
