

Farm Boy Gives Dempsey Scare In Akron, Ohio

AKRON, O., Mar. 11.—A 14-year-old farm boy from Lancaster, O., with 200 pounds of muscle, sent Jack Dempsey, fighting like the tiger of old, and the husky young man, slugged it out for a few minutes.

Hankinson landed a haymaking hit on the former champion's chin in the first 30 seconds that the two met with anything like a real fight. The younger man then started over him with a follow-up attack that only a skilled veteran could have survived.

Dempsey came out of it with a severe nose attack and continued to fight the fight.

Dempsey was badly starting at the second round. He drifted into him to Hankinson and the boy went down for three counts.

Hankinson got up and slugged blow-for-blow with Dempsey again until four minutes on the clock elapsed and the third and last round. The count was six when Manager Harry Welch tossed in the sponge.

Wisconsin Seeks Spears As Head Football Coach

EUGENE, Ore., Mar. 11.—University of Wisconsin officials have asked Dr. Clarence W. Spears, football coach at the University of Oregon, to come to Madison for a conference regarding the possibility of his appointment as head football coach.

Following persistent reports from the media that Dr. Spears was mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Coach Thistlethwaite, resigned, Spears admitted last night that he had been approached in the matter.

The Oregon coach said Wisconsin authorities had called him for long distance telephone and asked him to come east for the conference. He would not say definitely whether or not he would go but indicated that he might. He refused to say if the matter was being discussed.

Spears continued at Oregon does not expect to leave until the summer. He said he would be glad to accept the position if the university could make a change.

Football Beliefs Die Hard

Most of us know that while the football season the football fan is generally considered a fanatic. However, when the season is over, the fan is still a fan.

The Garden

NEVER A BETTER TIME TO PLANT TREES, SHRUBS AND ROSES

It has been many years since landscape improvements could be made as economically as they can be at present. Never have conditions been more favorable for the development of a modern outdoor living room, the addition of a water garden, rocky, flowering hedge, windbreak, the re-arrangement of foundation planting, evergreen and shrubby groups and flower borders. In fact, this spring is your golden opportunity to realize the maximum returns from an investment in planting, whether large or small. For the best varieties of trees, shrubs, evergreens, roses and other flowers may be secured in good sizes at extremely moderate prices.

Of course, there never has been any question that planting adds immeasurably to the value of property, makes the home more inviting, more comfortable, more attractive and more enjoyable. Planting done this year will yield these satisfying returns in its even greater degree. Present indications are that in two years real estate values will be greatly increased, and this year's investment in plants will then be worth many times its value to the property.

In Washington

By Herbert Plummer
WASHINGTON — The final signature to the house petition seeking a vote to discharge the judiciary committee from further consideration of the bill aimed at the 18th amendment was affixed amid perhaps the most dramatic scenes witnessed in many a day on "the hill."

The "gentleman in the wheel chair" — Mansfield of Texas — the 145th representative to sign, afforded a fitting climax to a succession of events which for days have held the almost undivided attention of members of congress.

Freeman Signs

Signatures were affixed at the corner of the speaker's desk to the right of the chamber on the Democratic side of the well.

Big Pat Hargan, the man who called the roll of the house the night war was declared on Germany, was kneeling away on items in the appropriation bill for the treasury. Suddenly there came a ripple of applause.
