War Time Surtax Rates on Bigger Incomes Adopted

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18 (AP)—The war-time surtax rates on incomes of $100,000 and over were forced into the new revenue bill today in the house. This house also approved, 121 to 81, the La Guardia proposal to increase the rate on incomes of more than $8000 a year to 7 per cent. The committee had recommended 6. The house approved increases from 1 1/2 per cent to 2 per cent on incomes of $4000 and an increase from 3 to 4 per cent on the second $4000 as recommended by the committee. Acting Chairman Crippen estimated it would raise $20,000,000 in a full calendar year. Earlier, the ways and means committee had decided not to impose a tax on copper imports as agreed upon yesterday because such a tax would necessitate the revision of a number of tariff schedules. This decision leaves $11,000,000 of revenue yet to be provided for if the bill is to raise the amount the committee estimates is necessary to balance the budget.

HEAVY RAINS CAUSE NEAR FLOOD HERE

near the river just north of Eugene, was threatened by the high water this morning. Seven or eight families are living in tents and makeshift shacks and may be forced to move. RAIN AT THE DALLES THE DALLES, Ore., Mar. 18 (AP)—A half inch of rain had fallen here in the 24-hour period ending at noon today and the fall continued during the day. The rain storm approached cloudburst proportions in sections to the south, damaging truck gardens and roads. CHURCHILL IS LIKELY HEAD OF SCHOOLS (Continued From Page One) The chancellor's salary should be $15,000 annually, the committee recommended, and suggested that this figure should be the maximum. The committee held to the position that the chancellor should be selected with the feeling that "administrative ability should take precedence over academic qualifications." Recommendation was made that two members of the board make trips to other states to interview men for the position of chancellor. The committee feels it has done all that can be done through correspondence and that the next move must be toward proper contact. The unification committee of the state board of higher education today submitted to the board its recommendations as to deans and directors of the several schools set up under the reorganization of the University of Oregon, Oregon State college and the three state normal schools. At its last week's meeting the board adopted a report bringing closer together the university and college, eliminating duplication of courses at the two institutions, and establishing 13 major schools, six each at Eugene and Corvallis, and one, the medical school, at Portland. The recommendations as to personnel of the major schools follow: Dean and director of literature language and art: Clarence V. Boyer, of Eugene, to remain at Eugene. Dean and director of home economics: Ava B. Milam, of Corvallis, to remain at Corvallis. Dean and director of social sciences: James Henry Gilbert, of Eugene, to remain at Eugene. Dean and director of agriculture: William A. Schoenfeld, of Corvallis, to remain at Corvallis. Dean and director of law: Wayne L. Morse, of Eugene, to remain at Eugene. Dean and director of medicine: Dr. Richard B. Dillehunt, of Portland, remains at Portland. Director of elementary training and president of Oregon Normal school: J. A. Churchill, president of Southern Oregon Normal school of Ashland, to go to Monmouth. Director of extension: Alfred Powers, of Eugene, remains at Eugene. Director of co-operative extension: F. V. Maris, of Corvallis, remains at Corvallis. Director of lower division: Elwood M. Smith, Corvallis. Dean and director of sciences: Earl LeRoy Packard, of Eugene, goes to Corvallis. Dean and director of business administration and commerce: Harrison Val Hoyt, of Corvallis, goes to Eugene. Dean and director of engineering: H. S. Rogers, of Corvallis, remains at Corvallis. Dean and director of fine arts: Ellis F. Lawrence, of Portland and Eugene, to remain at Eugene. Dean and director of forestry: George W. Peavy, of Corvallis, remains at Corvallis. Dean and director of physical education: John F. Howard, of Eugene, remains at Eugene. Director of high school training and dean of school of education: J. H. Jewell, of Corvallis, goes to Eugene. Dean and director of pharmacy: Adolph Zelle, of Corvallis, remains at Corvallis. Director of research: To be named later. Director of co-operative research: William A. Schoenfeld, of Corvallis, to remain at Corvallis. The report was submitted to the board by the unification committee composed of Albert Burch, chairman; B. F. Irvine, Edward C. Pease and C. L. Starr, chairman of the board. E. C. Sammons, the fifth member of the committee is in the Orient.

Valuable Honeybees

Honeybees are so helpful in cross pollinating fruit trees that in many sections they are kept for this purpose rather than for the production of honey. State bee specialists say that in Oregon, which is a good honey-producing state, it has been estimated that bees are from four to five times more valuable to fruit growers than to beekeepers. National's Toll Bridges There are about 300 toll bridges in the United States. They are privately owned and fees are only supposed to be assessed until the costs of the bridges are defrayed. The government has the power to fix the fees, but only interferes when the fee charged by the owner is excessive. Sanctioned by Usage The use of the word "pretty" in the sense of a comfortable degree is sanctioned, as "pretty well," "pretty sure."

Structural Idey

Recessional building is a term applied to the new style of architecture, seen, for example, in many of the New York structures. As the building increases in height the width of the floors is reduced, so that seemingly the building tapers.

Washington in New York

President Washington had three residences in New York at different times. The first was the house of Walter Franklin, on Dover street; the second was provided by congress, and was at 3 Cherry street; the third, McComb's house, on Broadway, near Bowling Green.

"Latin-America"

Latin-America includes all countries of South America except the Guianas, all countries of Central America, Cuba, Haiti, Santo Domingo and Porto Rico. Latin-Americans are people mostly descended from a union of the so-called Latin races of the Old world with the native races of the New world.

story of having left New Jersey March 6 in a closed car with a Pennsylvania license. Later, he declared, according to Ernest Stoops, chief of detectives, the car bore a New Jersey license. He and his companions slept in the car on the way out here Stoops was told. An attempt to find the car and other companions failed. Blaustein was arrested here March 15 with a portable typewriter, clothes and watches which police said were those stolen from a fraternity house on the campus of the University of Idaho, Southern Branch, at Pocatello. Blaustein admitted, Stoops said, that he was on parole from prison in Concord, N. H., where he was serving a term for grand larceny. "Our investigators are still out checking on the story related by Mr. Lightfoot and until such time as they return and report their findings it will be impossible to inform you of anything definite concerning the Engenstonbergs. "Whether or not there is any connection between their sudden departure and the circumstance of the kidnaping is to be determined. "The Engenstonbergs have been located and investigators will question them this morning. As soon as our investigators have heard their story and informed us of the circumstance we will communicate information to the press representatives." Schwarzkopf also told of a statement by a student at a Princeton preparatory school that on March 1, the day of the kidnaping, the student saw an automobile drawn to one side of the Lindbergh lane. The student said there were ladders laid across the tops of the seats but he did not take the license number of the car nor did he notice the driver closely enough to give any description. "With the information at hand," Schwarzkopf said, "this matter was investigated as far as possible without being able to obtain any information of value." He said his subordinates were out on several phases of the investigation but had reported nothing of importance. Detectives En Route to Idaho Two Newark detectives left this morning for Pocatello, Idaho to question Ignace Blaustein, who told police there he was the driver of the automobile in which the Lindbergh baby was kidnaped. Deputy Chief of Police Frank Brix of the Newark force said he spoke to Blaustein last night by telephone and his conversation was important enough to warrant sending men to Pocatello. The men Brix sent are Acting Captain Thomas Rowe and Sergeant Strong. Brix has been active in the investigation since it began, being stationed first at the Lindbergh home and later taking charge of the examination of John-

MAN HELD AT POCATELLO

BOISE, Idaho, March 18 (AP)—Ignace Blaustein, held in Pocatello on a burglary charge, gave police arresting him here a story which conflicted with much he told Pocatello officers later. Blaustein, who gave also the name of Harry Schwartz, was questioned here regarding the Lindbergh kidnaping case and said he knew nothing of it until he reached Waterbury, Utah, on his way West from New Jersey. He said he was accompanied by two men and a woman, the latter the wife of one of the men. He told a

SECRET CONFERENCES HELD

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 18 (AP)—Fresh from a secret conference at Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's home, police pressed on today in their search for his 20-month-old child. The conference, held last evening at the close of a day that brought only disappointment, was attended by most of the police officials at the head of the hunt. While it was on, all automobiles except those occupied by police were turned back at the road to the Lindbergh home. Meanwhile, from Mexico City, came a dispatch indicating belief that the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr. may possibly have escaped the country by airplane. Mexican officials announced that 10 crack secret service operatives were en route to the Mexican borders. Eight were sent to the Mexican-Guatemalan border and they were all instructed to check airplane movements carefully. A theory that the kidnapers might have reached Mexico by air before officials could stop them led to the order. The agents are working inconspicuously. More Clues Eliminated More tenuous "clues" were eliminated last night. Babels in Trenton, the Bronx and Creston, Iowa, were investigated and found not to be the Lindbergh child. Police in Waterbury, Conn., said three members of the New York bomb squad arrived there, announced they sought three suspects in the kidnaping case, and visited several rooming houses. No information was obtainable on this angle here or in New York.

REPUBLICANS NOT SURPRISED

Among the Republicans, the results were not much of a surprise. The party organization in North Dakota has been in the hands of the insurgents, and President Hoover was not even entered in the primaries. The preference vote was divided between Joseph I. France of Maryland, and Jacob S. Coxy of Ohio, but there is no assurance that, under the peculiar state law, either of them will have a single delegate. A majority of delegates favoring Hoover was elected. The extraordinary number of Republicans who voted in the Democratic primary, however, occasioned curiosity and concern among the party regulars. It was hardly expected the Democratic total would be so great. Senator Nye, a Republican independent, said this was proof of widespread dissatisfaction with the administration's farm policies. The Hoover leaders were alarmed. In the country generally, it was a week of comparative political quiet, and North Dakota had the spotlight almost entirely to herself. There was plenty of local maneuvering, particularly among the badly-split Massachusetts Democrats, but without decisive result.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 18 (AP)—Republican prohibitionists were silent today on the predicted in Chicago by Secretary Hurley that the Republican national convention in June would adopt a "more liberal" platform on prohibition.
