Dog's Voice Goes Around the World

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Apr. 5 (AP)—"Short," a little wire haired terrier, barked into a microphone today, and the bark came back to him over a loud speaker after circling the world by way of Holland, Java and Australia.

It was great fun for the terrier and he kept up a barking contest with himself until the power was shut off.

The dog, belonging to one of the General Electric engineers, was in the radio station when the company was testing a round-the-world short wave hookup. He jumped on an operator's lap and barked at the mike and the sport began.

The hookup was being tested for a demonstration on April 22 when district Rotary club members will send a "good will" message around the world.

GAME HEADS HOLD HEARING IN LA GRANDE

ing, and the talks were followed by a presentation of suggestions and recommendations by sportsmen of Wallowa and Union counties.

A formal hearing and business session of the commission will be held in Baker tonight.

Mr. Coolidge suggested to the commission that the federal government establish a lake between Baker and Union counties for the planting of fresh water fish.

J. A. Burling, of Enterprise, expressed the appreciation of the commission on their prompt repair of the screens at Wallowa Lake. Since the Wallowa Lake region is the playground of Northeastern Oregon, Burling asked the game commission to reconsider the closing of the high mountain lakes until June 15, a move which has not met with the approval of East Oregon sportsmen. He stated that fishing was not the problem but lack of food for the fish is causing the depletion of the lake stocks. Since there is little fishing there here for the season opens on June 15, the Wallowa county sportsmen feel that the few who enjoy winter fishing should be allowed to do so without breaking the law.

Few game problems worry the Wallowa county sportsmen, according to Mr. Burling since there are over 10,000 mule deer there and also an abundance of elk. The speaker asked the commission to make a study of the game problems with a view to opening a season on elk. Both Washington and Idaho, which neighbor on Wallowa county, have open seasons, and elk raised in Oregon cross the imaginary boundary into those states and are killed by Washington and Idaho hunters. Mr. Burling expressed the opinion that to be general among Wallowa sportsmen, that the county is slighted in fish stocking, since the fishing is heavy in their lakes and streams, while they have never been restocked.

C. C. Franklin outlined the method of caring for the deer last winter that came in for winter range. Seventy deer were lost on Catherine creek, he stated, but their death was due to the dog menace mostly and to lack of food.

Judge J. W. Knowles, of La Grande, has written to Senator McNary, asking him to give his support to a bill in congress to lower the bag limit on ducks, he informed the commission. Five Knowles recommends a limit of five a day and 15 a week rather than the present limit of 13 day than the present limit of 13 day.

Dr. Vining stated that he has received complaints against the limit as being too low, after which Dr. Hibbird stated that from his own experience he knew that the birdlife is being rapidly depleted.

The ten-year plan of the commission was discussed by Mr. Corrigan. The commission, after due consideration, found that the game problems of the state can not be settled in a few months or a year, and they have set aside the next ten years for working out the problems of breeding, conservation, restocking and so forth. The commission collected $60,000 less in revenue during 1931 than in 1930, and it was necessary, but they have absorbed a large deficit and kept their activities within the receipts during their regime.

A budget has been instituted, Mr. Corrigan states, allowing 40 per cent to hatcheries, 12 per cent to the game farms, 30 per cent to the hatcheries and the remainder to administration. Twenty hatcheries are operating in the state, along with three game farms.

The commission now has in preparation of budget of fish liberated to make the allocation on an equitable basis. The fish will then be distributed by an agency through the co-operation of the people. To insure enforcement of the game laws, it has been put under the state police by Governor Meier, and $180,000 is paid every two years to the state police for enforcement. The game commission has no control over the choice of officers or the direction of them.

The game warden service will eventually be linked up with the education service and men will be educated, rather than being forced to do so. Mr. Silven, head of the department of game law enforcement, believes. At present the officers are working under difficulties, he stated. Mr. Silven introduced the warden of Eastern Oregon, Phil Pettman, of Burns; C. C. Franklin, Baker; Frank Osmond, La Grande; George Glenn, Umatilla; and George Rogers, Wallowa.

Dr. Hibbird made his debut with the commission last night, following his recent appointment. Dr. Hibbird is an authority on game birds, and estimated the worth of the wild life in the state at $20,000,000. A recent survey has stated that in 10 years it will be worth only $100,000,000, and will pay only $100,000,000 in carrying out the program of educating the children and acquainting them with the wild life so that they will protect birds and animals. When the wild life of Oregon is built up, tourists will come here from other parts of the country and will pay to see them, he believes.

Too many mistakes have been made in the distribution of fish. Art Fitch, research director, believes, because of lack of knowledge of conditions. His department is making a scientific survey of conditions in all parts of the country, and they plan to make the allocation country by country, each of report of liberations. They are also going to try to appoint county committees to guard against streams with unscrupulous irrigation ditches or turbines, and polluted streams, and to report them to the state commission.

Ernest Crockett, educational director, explained the use of fresh water shrimp, imported from Utah, which are being fattened at the McKenzie hatchery and will be later put out in lakes and rivers for fish food. Mr. Crockett also explained the use of the holding pens for preservation of pheasants, and announced the broad-trails must have irrigation, electricity, and the commission can not misuse

SELECTING JURY IN MURDER CASE

Intense Feeling Against Defendants Expressed by Hawaiian Venireman

HONOLULU, Apr. 5 (AP)—Intense feeling against the four defendants in the Kahahawai murder case was expressed today by William Huihui, Hawaiian and prospective jurymen, who admitted he had thought the defendants "ought to be shot."

Huihui was being questioned by Clarence Darrow, chief defense counsel.

Again a crowd filled the courtroom and like yesterday a majority were natives.

The four defendants, accused of the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai, Hawaiian charged with attacking Mrs. Thalia Masiis, wife of the naval lieutenant and daughter of Mrs. Fortescue, were dressed in the same attire as when the trial opened. Mrs. Fortescue appeared pale. Mrs. Masiis was not present.

HAWAIIAN ENFORCEMENT LAW

WASHINGTON, Apr. 5 (AP)—Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson summarized his report to the senate Monday on the law enforcement in the Hawaiian islands as follows:

General crime conditions: We found in Hawaii no organized crime, no important criminal class and no criminal markets.

We did not find substantial evidence that a crime wave, so-called, was in existence in Honolulu, either disproportionate with the increase in the population, or when viewed in comparison with crime records in cities of similar size on the mainland.

Law Agencies Law

We found however, ample evidence of extreme laxity in the administration of law enforcement agencies.

We found a condition of inefficiency in the administration of justice which, in effect, constituted an invitation to the commission of crime, and which had largely destroyed the morale of the law enforcement agencies, with a resulting loss of public confidence.

We found that such conditions had given rise to a feeling of personal unsafety among a substantial portion of the citizens.

We therefore believe that the unusual conditions of race, society and industry in the territory, make a continuance of such laxity fraught with much social and political danger.

We found in the territory no present serious racial prejudices. The races seemed to be still carrying on together with exceedingly little friction.

We are quite cognizant of the suggestion that if the condition of affairs in the islands today seems fairly comparable with conditions on the mainland, the mainland ought not to ask of Hawaii more law observance than it itself presents.

STEIWER ENTERS RACE FOR SENATE

chairman, and Will R. Masters, secretary.

Coincident with the filing of his candidacy here Senator Steiwer from Washington; released the following statement:

"My declaration of candidacy has been mailed to the secretary of state. In it I have summarized the planks of my platform. Necessarily a complete presentation could not be made within the limitations of the 100 word statement. I accordingly submit to the voters this additional statement of the principles for which I stand.

Economic Recovery

"The first duty of government is restoration of confidence and stability in business, industry and agriculture. Conditions cannot be normal in Oregon until agriculture, livestock and the lumber industry are placed on a profitable basis. I have stood aggressively, and will continue to stand, for justice to these industries.

Conditions cannot be normal in my efforts for an increased tariff on lumber and will seek to repeal the tariff by which rough lumber enters the United States duty free. I demand that the agriculture marketing act produce results. If it does not, I shall vote for its repeal. In any event, I favor amendments strengthening prices, either by debenture or some plan equivalent to the equalization fee.

"I have supported and will continue to support federal legislation authorizing public works to provide employment for idle men. I have advocated further appropriations for federal projects. I voted for the LaFollette-Costigan bill to provide federal aid to those in want and federal construction of highways to relieve unemployment. I favor a balanced budget, but I cannot conclude government financing justifies starvation.

"I advocate immediate federal development of hydro-electric power on the Columbia river. I voted for Boulder dam and the Norris resolution for government operation at Muscle Shoals. As one of the organizers, 11 years ago, of the Umatilla tend to the duties of the office if elected.

"The constitution of this state provides: 'No court shall be secret, but each which will be made over five radio stations describing the hunting and fishing conditions in Oregon.

Two Ideas Conflict

Oregon is confronted with two conflicting ideas, according to Dr. Vining, the conservation of wild life and the development of industry. Industry justice shall be administered openly and without delay, completely and without delay, and every man shall have remedy by due course of law for injury done him in his person, property, or reputation."

"That provision of the constitution not only shows that the framers of the constitution recognized the importance of a judicial position but it emphasizes the need of keeping such position entirely above suspicion. If elected I will strictly conform to that section of the constitution."

Mr. Ringo is 51 years of age. He is a native of Nebraska from where he moved to Oregon in 1910. He studied law at the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor from where he graduated in 1904. He served four years as prosecuting attorney in Nebraska and a similar period as district attorney at Salem, Ore. During the World War he served as state counsel for the alien property custodian. Two years ago he was elected as a member of the local school board, being high man in a field of six. He has resided in La Grande 12 years during which time he has been actively engaged in the practice of his profession.

MR. HESS' STATEMENT

Mr. Hess, in filing for the nomination for state senator, announced that he advocated and supported:

1. Progressive legislation for relief of unemployment.
2. Economy in state government without interfering with efficiency.
3. Lower taxes on farms, homes and other property through increase of income taxes on large incomes.
4. An investigation of telephone, light and power companies with the object of lowering their rates.
5. Modification of the workmen's compensation laws with more liberality to injured workmen—in particular in regard filing and hearing on claims and with preference to local physicians where chosen by injured workmen.
6. Legislation generally for the benefit of the masses as against special privileges.

His slogan: "Lower taxes farms and homes. Relief of unemployment. Modification workmen's compensation law."

Mr. Eberhard's statement appeared in the Observer yesterday. His candidacy also was filed yesterday in Salem.

COLONEL CLARK FILES

Colonel Alfred E. Clark, of Portland, filed his candidacy Monday. A statement, issued by the Clark-for-Senator headquarters, follows:

Alfred E. Clark was born of Scotch-Irish ancestry under frontier conditions and was reared on a homestead in Western Minnesota.

Earned His Education

Amid hardships and with only the schools of pioneer life, he earned his way through school by working as a farm hand, logger and cowboy.

He studied law while teaching school, was admitted to the bar in 1900, opened an office in Mankato, and during the next nine years, built up one of the best law practices in that portion of Minnesota.

Chose Oregon for Home

In 1905, while at the Lewis and Clark Exposition, he was so impressed with the opportunities of Oregon that he decided to locate here. The following year he opened a law office in Portland, where he has served in many civic capacities and soon became one of the leaders of the Oregon bar.

Services Are Outstanding

Colonel Alfred E. Clark has a record of distinguished services to this state and nation.

His services to the national government in and following the World

WAR IN OPPOSING JUSTICE, WASTE AND MILITARY AUTOCRACY, ARE OUTSTANDING

He prepared for Governor Meier very important water power legislation passed by the 1931 legislature, and with the governor, urged recently at Washington, the federal development of the Columbia river for power and navigation for the benefit of all the people of this state; he has aided the governor and recently formed tax leagues in their fight for lower taxes; and as chairman of the state wide telephone investigation committee—under act of the legislature—urged federal control in order to secure adequate service at fair rates for all users.

He has fought for the dairymen of this state in their continued struggle for fair standards and prices for their products and has assisted other producers in their efforts to place and maintain their industries on a profit basis through co-operative means.

Stands for Progressive Laws

Colonel Alfred E. Clark stands four-square for legislation which will cut down the cost of government; provide against recurring depressions; effectively suppress and punish crime; place agriculture on an equal economic basis with other industries; make practicable cheap power for the homes and industries of the farms and cities; cut out useless bureaus; care of disabled and needy war veterans and their families. These and other issues are discussed more fully in his platform.

Colonel Clark is a forceful, courageous and interesting speaker. His campaign is being vigorously waged throughout the state.
