PORTIONS OF REVENUE BILL ARE OPPOSED

(Continued From Page One) 45 per cent estate tax, and the taxes on stock and bond transfers. Assails Certain Levies Several times Mills departed from his statement and raised his voice to assail particular levies. "How can the railroads, prostrate on their back," he asked, "get the capital they must have while these punitive business taxes prevail?"

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrat, asked Mills for his specific program. The treasury head said he felt the committee could take the treasury's original recommendations to supplement revenue lost by elimination of provisions against which he complained. Harrison proposed Mills submit a new and specific program. "Frankly," replied Mills, "I much prefer the treasury's original program. I think the bill proposed by the ways and means committee was all right but I prefer our first program."

Chairman Smoot and Harrison asked Mills to submit in detailed form just what he would cut out of the bill and substitute. Opposes Retroactive Tax Replying to Senator Connally, (D., Texas) the secretary opposed any attempt now to impose a retroactive increase in the income tax on last year's income payable this year. "The treasury believes the time is now past for levying a retroactive tax increase," replied Mills. "The income taxes were paid on March 15. It is out of the question in our mind. It is impracticable and you do the taxpayer an injustice. We favored such a move prior to the first tax payments on March 15."

The discussion turned to the general sales tax which was stricken from the bill by the house. "Let us get it straight," said Senator Gore (D., Okla.) "in view of the decisive house vote against the sales tax we aren't going to waste time and try to revive it." "The treasury," replied Mills firmly, "has no recommendation for the manufacturers sales tax now."

Harrison argued the increased income and inheritance taxes would bring in more than $250,000,000 in 1934 than is estimated, for 1933. "I don't know how much," said Mills, "but more would be collected in 1934. But bear in mind we contemplate that. We want to balance the budget in 1933 without meeting the sinking fund requirement. We want a real balanced budget in 1934, meeting the sinking fund obligation."

Mills declined to express an opinion on the policy of putting tariff rates in the revenue bill as was done by the house in levying import duties on coal and oil. Democrats pressed him closely, but he flatly declined to go on record. The committee then adjourned until two o'clock when Mills will resume.

President Will Veto Philippine Bill, Is Belief WASHINGTON, Apr. 6 (AP)—A veto apparently waits at the White House for legislation to grant independence to the Philippine Islands.

By an astonishing margin—306 to 47—the Hare bill under which independence would come after eight or ten years, passed the house Monday. Later this session, perhaps in a month, this bill or a substitute for it will be taken up by the senate, with fair chances of passage. It may, therefore, be up to the president to meet this long-standing issue. The two members of his cabinet most concerned in the question, are definitely and sharply opposed.

Secretary Hurley, following Tuesday's cabinet meeting, said the passage of the bill was ill-advised and did not meet the essential requirements of withdrawal of American sovereignty from the islands. Raising the time limit for independence from five years, as originally proposed in the house, to eight, the war secretary said does not remove his own fundamental objections to the bill.

He has said that much ground work remains to be completed before the Philippines are ready for self government.

Must Answer For Hunting Accident OREGON CITY, Ore., Apr. 6 (AP)— Investigation into a hunting accident in which Arthur J. Lamm was shot to death last September resulted this week in the indictment of R. H. Campnyol, his companion, on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. The indictment was secret. Campnyol was arrested and released on $1000 bond. The grand jury is said to have worked on the case for several months.

Campnyol declared he and Lamm were hunting near Esfacada and separated. He said he shot at a deer and heard Lamm shout. He ran to the place and found Lamm dead, the heavy bullet having struck him above the heart.

Dogfish Is Curse The curse of the rod fisherman is the dogfish. These voracious creatures will savagely attack a hooked salmon and literally eat him alive, and seem to be possessed of incredible cunning. Many a fisherman will vouch for it that a dogfish will sever a line with his teeth in order to free another caught on the hook. If there are many dogfish, which happens periodically, it makes no difference how many salmon there are, the fisherman may as well go back to camp.

HINDENBURG CHEERED BERLIN, Apr. 6 (AP)—A crowd of several hundred gathered outside a dentist's office on a west end boulevard last night when it became known that President Paul von Hindenburg, candidate for re-election as president, was having dental work done inside. The crowd waited for a half hour until the veteran president emerged, when they cheered him wildly.

Gloria Has Baby LONDON, Apr. 6 (AP)—A daughter was born last night to Gloria Swanson, American movie picture actress. Mrs. Swanson has been in London for some time with her husband, Michael Farmer.

Choir Concert Enjoyed By Wallowa People

By Mrs. C. A. Hunter (Observer Correspondent) WALLOWA (Special)—A real musical treat was given to the people of Wallowa Sunday evening when the choir of the Enterprise Methodist church repeated their Easter cantata "Life Eternal," at the Methodist church here. This was not the first time this group of singers has presented an evening of music in Wallowa and a large crowd greeted them here. The choir is composed of 16 voices and is directed by Mrs. Jennie Wilderodt. The women of the local church served light refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed following the program.

The Presbyterian Ladies Aid held its regular business meeting and election of officers in the church parlors Wednesday. The different reports of the last year's work were given and the following officers elected: vice president, Mrs. C. A. Hunter; president, Mrs. W. F. Poole; secretary, Mrs. Boss Hood; assistant secretary, Mrs. William McBeth; treasurer, Mrs. Earnest Fliley; pianist, Mrs. Hugh Deane; organist, Mrs. Hollis Bull. Following the meeting a no-hostess luncheon was enjoyed. Each person in attendance brought a lunch which was placed on a table and numbered. Corresponding numbers were passed to members, thus exchanging lunches. The next meeting of the aid will be at the home of Mrs. Mary Dorsey on Apr. 13.

Marvin Landers and Dr. J. L. McPherson, of La Grande, were in Wallowa Sunday in the interest of Christian Endeavor work. They called at the Presbyterian church during the Sunday school hour and each made an interesting talk before the Sunday school.

C. A. McClaran came to Wallowa the last of the week from Lightning creek and remained until Monday. He is assisting his son, Joe, who runs two bands of sheep and stated that lambing was just starting on the river.

Leonard Evans, of Yakima, Wash., arrived in Wallowa Saturday for a short visit with his daughter here. The Misses Agatha and Eula Marvin drove to La Grande Saturday where Miss Eula Marvin is receiving medical treatment for sinus trouble. Lydie Baird, who is teaching at Cascade Locks, spent the weekend in Wallowa with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Baird.

M. J. Seiver, of Berkeley, Cal., has been in Wallowa for a week, looking after spring work on his large stock ranch west of town. On Thursday he made a trip to Idaho where he bought several carloads of beef cattle and shipped them from Burley to San Francisco returning to Wallowa on Saturday. Mr. Seiver left for his home in Berkeley, Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Evans, of Wallowa, are visiting in Emmit, Ida., with their daughter, Mrs. Walter Smoke. Orin Morgan, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Campbell, drove to La Grande Saturday and spent the day transacting business.

Mrs. J. H. Thompson, of Enterprise, who has been seriously ill at the Wallowa hospital from an infection in her hand which caused blood poisoning, is reported to be improving nicely now. While cutting wood at the E. K. Hunter farm Wednesday, Charlie Henderson had the misfortune to cut his hand so badly that it required 12 stitches to close the wound. He was rushed to town and received medical attention at the local hospital.

J. L. Maxwell, of Wallowa, has announced his candidacy for county assessor. Milton Parker, employe in the Wallowa forest service left Wednesday for his home in Eugene to spend a week's vacation visiting with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Furst drove to Baker Saturday to visit with friends until Monday. Thorsten Shell, senior at the University of Oregon, returned home last week and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Shell. He expects to leave in a short time to accept a position in Seattle.

Mrs. C. T. Daniel and son, Donald, who have spent the last two months at Coquille, Ore., returned home Saturday. The largest and one of the most delightful social events of the early spring was the Friday evening bridge party at which Mrs. L. F. Allen entertained guests to form seven tables of bridge at her home. Mrs. Edwin Marvin and Mrs. Fred Furst received first and second high scores and were awarded beautiful prizes. Following cards, lunch was served at the center tables each of which had a centerpiece of sweet peas. Mrs. O. P. Campbell and Mrs. Lawton McDaniel assisted Mrs. Allen in serving the lunch.

Orin Morgan, principal of the local grade school, relates witnessing an unusual sight Sunday afternoon while driving around the Wallowa lake with his sister, Mrs. J. C. Crader, of Innaba. The lake is still frozen over and a large elk had attempted to cross on the ice and had broken through. Mr. Morgan states they watched the animal for an hour as it swam and struggled to regain a foothold on the ice. Several times it reached places strong enough to hold it for a distance of 20 feet and then would drop into the water again. When they left, the elk was standing on solid ice in the middle of the lake. The elk was dropped and it was apparently worn out by its efforts to reach shore.

OPTIMISTIC NOTE MAINTAINED AT HOPEWELL TODAY

(Continued From Page One) brightened. The island of Martha's Vineyard was a center of interest again yesterday. Not many miles offshore five coastguard vessels hovered, while an amphibian like the one fisherman said they saw Lindbergh piloting Sunday flew over Nashawena Island. Later a dragger, believed to be the A. A. steamer past Martha's Vineyard, was said to have boarded this craft Sunday and the work was linked with the visit of the plane. Mystery still marked the visit to England of Maj. Charles H. Schoeffel of the state police. Instead of going to Glasgow, as he was reported in a letter to do, he stayed in London yesterday. In Glasgow lives the mother of Betty Gow, the baby's nursemaid.

Col. Schwarzkopf disclosed that investigations abroad showed that none of the Lindbergh servants had any criminal record before coming to this country. In his morning bulletin Col. Schwarzkopf declared "no lights have been burnt under any unusual circumstances in the nursery and there are no circumstances of any significance in this connection." He ignored a question which asked verification or denial of a report the baby was returned to the home more than a day ago.

The rest of the bulletin detailed clues which had faded into nothing as fast as they were investigated.

SHIP ELIMINATED NEW BEDFORD, Mass., April 6 (AP)—The schooner Alva, several times mentioned in connection with the search for the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, early today was definitely eliminated from any connection with the search. She arrived here shortly after midnight with 4000 pounds of fish. Captain Joseph Roche denied that any crew member of the schooner had boarded his craft and said that he had been fishing off Martha's Vineyard since Sunday.

Racial Hatred Held Likely In Hawaii RACIAL LINES DRAWN TIGHTER HONOLULU, April 6 (AP)—Racial lines were drawn tighter today in the selection of a jury to try Mrs. Granville Fortescue and three natives for the lynching of Joseph Kahahawai, young Hawaiian. Twelve men were discarded one by one as Clarence Darrow, defense attorney, and Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley maneuvered for more than an hour to pick a juror to replace Kenneth Bunkerston, young American who was struck off peremptorily by the prosecution. Both sides finally accepted Manuel Souza, a Portuguese.

Charles King, an American, at first was drawn to replace Bunkerston. He indicated he favored the defense and was eliminated. Next was James Williams, a Hawaiian, who said he had been a friend of Kahahawai and made no secret of his feelings toward the prosecution. Charles Chute, American salesman born in New York, was called next but was excused for favoring the defense.

Although the changes in the jury box were slower than before, attorneys predicted the jury would be chosen by Friday noon.

WORK PROMOTION DRIVE TO BEGIN (Continued From Page One) at the court house, Main 735, and the county judge will see that a laborer is sent immediately, the committee announced.

"At present, and for several weeks to come, it is well for everyone to keep in mind the objects of this campaign," the committee, headed by Chairman H. C. Boone, states. "In brief, if you are going to purchase materials, merchandise, or labor within the near future, will you pledge the approximate amount and turn it over to one of the committees on the great work promotion plan? If your neighbors are in the market for part time labor, material, merchandise, paint, home furnishings and so forth, will you please sell them on the idea of speeding up their purchase?"

Pledge blanks are to be signed in order to get the committee an approximate total for each day's solicitation, and to furnish some indication of the progress made in reaching the goal of $50,000. The signatures will not be published and citizens will not be solicited for work they have designated, according to the rules of the work promotion plan.

Vines, Allison, Van Ryn, Shields On Tennis Team

NEW YORK, April 6 (AP)—The burden of American Davis Cup tennis hopes in the first round contest with Canada will be shouldered by H. Ellsworth Vines, Frank Shields, John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison. Vines, Shields and Van Ryn hold three of the first four places in the national singles rankings and Allison and Van Ryn rate as the No. 1 doubles combination of the nation. Allison, originally slated for an alternate's position on the squad, moved up to the "varsity" when George M. Lott announced that business would prevent him from participating in Davis Cup play this year. Undoubtedly Vines and Shields will be picked to play singles against Canada with Van Ryn and Allison confining their attention to the doubles in which they are the current champions. Against this squad Canada will throw a team composed of Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville of Montreal, Gilbert Nunn of Toronto, and Walter Martin of Regina. Wright and Rainville, in all probability will play the singles and Allison will play the doubles to carry on in doubles as well, perhaps with Wright.

HIGH SALARIED OFFICERS HELD AS "RACKETEERS" (Continued From Page One) aries ranged up to $75,000 a year and that they came from the pockets of the "impoverished farmers" or from the federal government. FAVORS ROOT PROTOCOL WASHINGTON, Apr. 6 (AP)—Secretary Stimson, in a two-hour appearance before the senate foreign relations committee today, elaborated his view that the Root protocol for American adherence to the world court would fully protect this country's rights. The secretary of state testified in executive session and neither he nor Chairman Borah would reveal what took place. Vite Expected Soon The committee took no action on the treaty, but Borah said the prospect for a vote at this session of congress was "reasonably good."

Borah indicated the hearings on the court were completed and said he expected the committee to vote next week on the Pittman resolution to ask other signatories to interpret the Root protocol. Borah said he would not "attempt to construe" Stimson's testimony, but that it would be made public as soon as revised by the secretary. Stimson said he expected to leave for New York on his Geneva trip Friday and it was believed the testimony would be made public by then.

NORRIS DEPLORES CELEBRATION WASHINGTON, Apr. 6 (AP)—Senator Norris (R., Neb.) who voted against the declaration of war 15 years ago, told the senate today "the last thing we ought to do is to celebrate our entry into the World War." The Nebraska asserted that a celebration should be foreborne "out of respect for a sentiment in this country that occupies millions and millions of thinking men."

Senator Dill (D., Wash.) who as a member of the house also voted against the war declaration, objected to the request of Senator McNary (R., Ore.) for unanimous consent to a recess, but the proposal was carried by a viva voce vote. WOULD HALT GAMBLING WASHINGTON, Apr. 6 (AP)—A bill intended to halt operation of gambling ships beyond the three mile limit was reported favorably today by the house merchant marine committee.

SENATOR McNARY OBJECTS WASHINGTON, Apr. 6 (AP)—Senator Byrnes (D., S. C.), today introduced a resolution requesting President Hoover to submit specific economy recommendations but action was delayed on objections by Senator McNary (R., Ore.).

WAR DECLARED 15 YEARS AGO (Continued From Page One) morning of April 6 and President Wilson affixed his signature at 1:11 that afternoon. The senate vote came at the conclusion of 18 hours of continuous debate before a huge gallery completely hushed by the solemnity of the occasion. The debate was opened by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, leading the support of President Wilson's decision that the nation must fight to protect its honor and democracy throughout the world. "We of all nations," he said, "will spend our treasure and our blood without the thought of a possibility of gain."

The sentiment of many of his colleagues was expressed by Senator Swanson of Virginia, who, in referring to Germany's unrestricted submarine campaign, said: "The issue is not peace or war. War has already been declared upon us."

Leading the little band of six who opposed the resolution was the late Robert M. LaFollette Sr. He launched into an impassioned three-hour speech by reading a letter from a North Dakota woman protesting in behalf of her son against the slaughter of war. Predicting that the people would be taxed double again and again, the Wisconsin insurgent shouted: "The poor who are called to rot in the trenches have now no organized mouthpiece; they have no press, but the day is coming when they will be heard."

And later with dramatic intensity he cried: "The man who says I am unpatriotic lies in his throat." Said Senator Norris of Nebraska: "I am most emphatically opposed to taking any step that will force this country into useless and senseless war. But I shall not permit my feelings to interfere with bringing victory to American arms."

"We are going into war upon command of gold," he continued. "We are about to do the bidding of money's terrible mandate, make millions of our countrymen suffer, untold generations bear burdens and shed their life blood all because we want to preserve our commercial right to deliver munitions to the belligerents."

Of the six senators — characterized by President Wilson as that "little group of wilful men" who voted against the resolution — only Norris is still living. The others were LaFollette, William J. Stone of Missouri, James Vardaman of Mississippi, Aale J. Gronna of North Dakota and Harry Lane of Oregon. In the house there still are several members who voted against war, among them Fred Britton of Illinois, now making Republican member of the naval affairs committee, and Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, who relinquished his seat to enlist as a private. Senator Dill of Washington was then a member of the house who opposed the war resolution.

NEWFOUNDLAND IN BATTLE WITH MOB (Continued From Page One) mob, shouting demands for increased doles for the jobless, attacked and roughly handled the premier. The disturbance yesterday, which started at the colonial house but quickly spread over the city, resulted from a charge that Sir Richard falsified council minutes to facilitate transfer of public money to a political fund. Ten thousand strong, the citizens, numbering many unemployed, marched to the colonial building, crying for a "proper investigation." The mob grew sullen and then clamorous as its deputization encountered delay in gaining admittance. "Mounties" tried to push the crowd back. A ragged man tore a policeman's cap off. Drawing batons, the officers belatedly crowded, and in a trice tumult roared. Flinging sticks and stones, the mob forced police to retreat. They smashed almost every window in the building, crashed down doors and tossed every movable object out of the basement, even a piano. Official documents, tattered, littered the street. The librarian, Miss Morris, was hit by a stone. The crowd's rush was so violent it knocked a policeman's horse off its feet. Peened inside the building with the police, the prime minister was rescued by two ministers and a priest, who escorted him through the crowding throng to a private house. Later he left the house by a rear door. One of his rescuers, the Rev. W. A. Godfrey, had sponsored the resolution demanding that the charges against Sir Richard be investigated. Unemployment and budget deficits have had Newfoundland in hot water. Last December a new system of treasury management, intended to keep expenditures down to receipts, was inaugurated under experts from Great Britain. Dissatisfaction with duties on foodstuffs and fishermen's supplies was believed to have added fuel to the crowd's unrest.
