BYRD'S PLAN FOR WET-DRY VOTE GAINS

Six States Want Vote The Democratic committee of New York state, by adopting a resolution for repeal of the eighteenth amendment, brought to six the list of state organizations in the party which so far recorded themselves for repeal or reestablishment in their preparations for the Democratic convention. The New York action, said Governor Roosevelt, who is now the leading presidential candidate, was in keeping with his ideas.

A prediction that the Republican national convention would go on record for repeal was made in Chicago in an interview given by Nicholas Murray Butler, who said he would force a roll call on a resolution to that effect and that there would be no "passing out."

Up to Hoover

Bishop Cannon at the same time said responsibility will rest on President Hoover for whatever prohibition action is taken by the Republican convention. He expounded these views in an address before the state Anty-Saloon League convention, and expanded them to discuss the possibility of both parties adopt planks for reestablishment or repeal.

He hinted at a third party movement in that event. The declaration of the Wyoming senator was brief: "We are for reestablishment of the prohibition question to the people of the several states. We are unalterably opposed to a return to the saloon with its attendant evils. We would consider favorably a plan of federal control and regulation of the liquor traffic under which the rights of the dry states would be fully protected."

Kendrick has voted for every prohibition measure including the eighteenth amendment. Carry, elected governor in 1918 on a dry platform, favored a referendum in 1930 when running for the senate. Democratic state conventions or committees which have expressed themselves for a change or a new vote on prohibition include New York, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, and Washington. Of the other states holding such meetings, Arkansas, Louisiana, Kentucky and Oklahoma ignored the question; Missouri defeated an anti-prohibition resolution and Georgia declared flat-

MARRIAGE? IT'S NOT FOR RERI; HER STAGE CAREER COMES FIRST

Reri, the South Sea Island girl who attained stardom on screen and stage, has become Americanized. She speaks excellent English, loathes the subway and likes taxicab rides. But her career comes before marriage, she says.

NEW YORK (AP)—Reri will have no part of matrimony, and she says so emphatically in a jumble of mixed French and Tahitian words. When this exotic movie actress and dancer came here from her native islands in the South Sea a year ago she thought American men "of charming excellence" and thought it possible she might choose one as a mate. But that was a year ago when Reri, then the star of the picture "Tabu," still was imbued with the romance of the South Seas. Now she has become Americanized to the extent that her career comes first.

"I want to be a star in the theatre for many years," she said, as she began a nation-wide stage tour. "When I do not favor any plan that will permit the people of a particular state to vote that state out of the control of the constitution of the United States while other states remain under the constitution. I stand, therefore, upon these beliefs: (A) "That prohibition is the law and should not be nullified by deliberate failure to observe it, but (B) "That it is still a human law that may be amended or changed, and (C) "That as a question affecting the lives and habits of the people it should be decided by a popular vote by the people themselves."

Amendment Necessary "No matter what plan is proposed, a constitutional amendment is necessary. I suggest an amendment to provide the legal machinery to permit the people themselves to determine this vexing question. The amendment could read as follows: (A) "The congress, whenever two-thirds of both houses shall deem it necessary, shall propose an amendment or amendments to or the repeal of article XVIII of the amendments of this constitution, or to any future amendment or amendments thereof, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this constitution, when ratified at an election to be held in each of the several states on a certain day, to be designated by congress, by the majority of the electors voting thereon in three-fourths of the several states. The electors in each state shall have the qualifications requisite for the electors of the most numerous branch of the state legislature."

"This will enable (A) "When two-thirds of congress desire, the question of the repeal or modification of the 18th amendment can be submitted to every qualified voter in every state on a day selected by congress when no other election is held. (B) "Each state will vote as a unit, and three-fourths of the states, as at present, will be necessary to change the existing amendment. "As I see it, in no other way can the voice of the people in secret ballot be given expression. A constitutional amendment submitted to legislatures does not enable a direct expression from the people; neither does an amendment submitted to the state conventions."

Mt. Glen Personals.

By Mrs. E. D. Whiting (Observer Correspondent) MT. GLEN (Special)—Victor Waite, of Hyde Park, Utah, has been visiting at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Ella Waite here. He also has visited relatives in Idaho cities. From here he will go to the coast where he expects to spend some time before returning. The annual L. D. S. Mrs. George Baxter, of Union, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Peck, of Cove.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Larsen and children, Kenneth and Joan, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Larsen and sons, Wilbur and Clyde, of Baker, spent the weekend with relatives in the community. M. Peck has returned to his work at the O-W. R. & N. shops after having been at his home here for two months. Frank Russell place and have moved onto it. They expect to make a dairy and chicken ranch of it. Mr. Clark is the cashier for the express company in La Grande. Due to the shortage of feed, many farmers have found it necessary to turn their cattle on the range earlier than usual. A number of young folks from the community attended the Pleasant Grove dance Saturday night. About 14 guests were entertained at the home of the Misses Eida and Arda Berry Wednesday evening. The affair was a backwards party. Many clever costume combinations added to the merriment of the occasion. Games and contests were enjoyed after which refreshments were served. Many local people attended the opening day at the Cove swimming pool Sunday. The L. D. S. chapel here has been remodelled and the interior has been redecorated. The improvements made will aid much in preparing the building for the summer services.
