

SOCIETY NEWS

Miss Bess Duke, Society Editor
Telephone Main 570 12th N.W. & S.

Mrs. Longfellow To Head Club In The Coming Year

Mrs. J. T. Longfellow was chosen yesterday to steer the activities of the Neighborhood club as president for 1932-1933. At the annual meeting following a 12:30 o'clock luncheon, at which the winning team in the membership drive, of which Mrs. H. E. Brady is captain, was entertained by the losing team, headed by Mrs. C. R. Eberhard, at the Presbyterian church. Mrs. H. G. Avery was elected first vice president; Mrs. Julius Roesch, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Graham, recording secretary; Mrs. Gene Walker, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. J. J. Broughton, treasurer. Mrs. F. L. Meyers presented the report of the nominating committee.

KC BAKING POWDER

BAKING POWDER

SAME PRICE FOR OVER 40 YEARS

Guaranteed pure and efficient. USE less than of high priced brands. 25 ounces for 25¢

MILIONS OF POUNDS USED BY OUR GOVERNMENT

art and literature clubs will be discontinued, it was decided, but the music club will be continued. Mrs. Morgan made closing remarks at the end of the meeting on her year's work, thanking the department heads and members for their cooperation during her term as president.

The budget was discussed and outlined, after which the meeting closed. Their sessions will be resumed the first Tuesday in October and will continue during the winter, ending with the last regular meeting in April, according to the revised by-laws.

Women Golfers To Open Their Season

The golf course at the La Grande country club will be dotted with bright spring sport suits tomorrow when the women formally open their season with a flag tournament. Mrs. L. K. Kinsel, chairman of the tournament committee, and her assistants, Mrs. John Thelton and Mrs. Ann Stanga, have scheduled an interesting season of club and inter-city tournaments for the season, which will be conducted on Thursday, women's day, during the coming summer.

Many of La Grande's leading women golfers have been seen on the links during the bright sunny days for the past few weeks and Bob Duncan, pro at the country club, predicts a brilliant season for women golfers. A potluck luncheon will be served in the club house at one o'clock. The club house has been renovated by the house committee, headed by Mrs. Charles Reynolds, and is ready for the season.

Newmans Honored At Bridge Party

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Newman, of El Paso, Texas, who have been the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wright for several days, the latter entertained last night at their home at the La Grande hotel. Twelve were invited for bridge and the prizes for high scores were awarded to Mr. Newman and Miss Bess Duke. Mrs. Jack Ferris received the consolation prize.

Mrs. Stevens Is Guest at Party

Mrs. Robert Stevens, who is leaving later in the week to make her home in Walla Walla, was honored at a party last night at which Mrs. H. V. Lefell entertained at her home. Sixteen were invited for bridge and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. F. L. Tribe, first, and Mrs. Otis Palmer, fourth. The guest of honor was presented with a prize.

Mrs. Stevens received a miscellaneous shower after bridge. Unique combined tally cards and favors, on which was a picture of the Stevens family, were presented to each of the guests.

Mrs. McDonald Is Hostess to Club

The country home of Mrs. Peter A. McDonald was the scene of a delightful event last night, when she entertained for her club. Bridge was played during the evening and the prize for high score among the guests was awarded to Mrs. Elizabeth Donnelly and Mrs. Turner Oliver was high scorer for the members.

Bridge Club Meets At Bramwell Home

Misses Leah Bramwell and Eva Riggs entertained at the home of the former for their bridge club last night. Twelve were present including two guests, Mrs. Craig Carroll and Mrs. Velma Rogers.

Y.W.E.A. Prepares For Annual Dinner

The annual banquet of the Young Women's Educational auxiliary, to which the members look forward throughout the year, will be held on May 10, at the La Grande hotel. A program motif has been worked out by the committee, headed by Mrs. Renwick Clark, and will be carried out in the table decorations and in the program which will follow.

The banquet climaxes the season's meeting for the Y. W. E. A., and always draws one of the largest attendances for the year. In former years it has been set for the first Tuesday in May, but out of courtesy to the Neighborhood club which is sponsoring national music week observance in La Grande next week, the auxiliary has postponed the banquet until a week later.

English Painting Topic of Meeting

A study of English painting enjoyed by members of the Delphinian society last night at the Sacajawea Inn with Miss Beatrice Young as leader. Three portrait artists, Hogarth, Reynolds and Gainsborough, and two great painters of landscape, Constable and Turner, were considered.

Mrs. B. W. Hibbits Hostess Tuesday

Mrs. B. W. Hibbits was hostess yesterday afternoon at her home for the Box Quilting club. Eleven women, including one guest, Mrs. Alta Turnure, of Red Cloud, Neb., spent the afternoon sewing on quilt blocks.

Large Attendance At Benefit Party

A large group enjoyed the benefit card party at which the Women's Benefit association entertained last night at the small ballroom at the Sacajawea Inn. A short business meeting preceded the event over which Mrs. Audrey Coleman, president, presided.

Grand Chief Will Visit Local Lodge

The grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, Mrs. Hardesty, of Portland, will be in La Grande next Monday evening for the regular lodge meeting, and plans for her visit were made yesterday when the Pythian Social club met at the home of Mrs. H. W. Riley. Wild flowers, placed about the rooms, furnished an attractive setting for the event.

KITTY FREW by JANE ABBOTT

SYNOPSIS: Kitty Frew is relieved to hear that Marge Crosby is going abroad. Her husband, Gar, and Kitty leave her secretly. Kitty runs across David Frew, Gar's half-brother, for the first time since she learned he loves her.

Chapter 35

AN AUTOMOBILE CRASH "ARE you going to say you didn't see me?" David laughed. "I didn't honestly. I was thinking—"

Kitty found she wasn't embarrassed at meeting him, that quite naturally she slipped her hand through his arm in her old manner of greeting, that she was glad, glad to see him!

"Tea?" he asked. And presently they were sitting at their table behind the chintz-hung window. And she was asking him about the new story.

His stay in the country had agreed with him, or perhaps his work—he was ruddy, heavier, immensely cheerful.

He told her that the best thing that ever had happened to him was "Jungle's" downfall.

She told him nothing of her own troubled state of mind. Somehow, with him, she forgot it.

He'd come in only for the day. He was taking the six o'clock bus back.

"David, you're really happy?" Kitty asked impulsively. He nodded, smiling. "In a fool's way, perhaps if this story isn't any good, I'm through. But I'm getting a kick out of it."

She walked back to the Tudor Arms, musing on David's work and eagerness in it, which had been so lacking in his labor with the "Jungle." This story would go. That was it, one built on one's failures. She would build so, too.

She walked fast, enjoying the cold air, the gray dusk, the gleam of lighted windows. The late day traffic rushed by her, big cars, small cars, freighted with home-going humanity. And suddenly among them she saw Gar's roadster. Marge was riding beside Gar, snuggled deep in her fur coat, her shoulder close to Gar's. She was laughing, her face lifted to Gar's.

Kitty, halted in the shadow of a tree, felt a wave of physical sickness pass over her. She did not argue with herself: "It's all right. He might have met her somewhere. Of course if he did he'd run her home."

She shrank from Gar's coming in. She wouldn't ask him— But she did: "You passed me on Elm Avenue, Gar. You were with Marge." She could have said it so carelessly, laughed at it. But she said it in the new sharp tone she found herself using, now, so often.

Gar's answer was careless enough. "Marge and I were having tea with Mother. Marge wanted to say good-by."

The old nameless fear smote Kitty. Fight—she'd fight, but with what? She knew that Gar was trying to tell her something.

"Kit, I know you're going to make a fuss but I can't help it. I can't get off to go to Bridgewater." "Gar!" He did not look at her. He had walked to the window and he stood there, his back to the room.

men, including one guest, Mrs. Alta Turnure, of Red Cloud, Neb., spent the afternoon sewing on quilt blocks. Mrs. Hibbits served refreshments late in the afternoon, assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Clara Lynch.

Large Attendance At Benefit Party

A large group enjoyed the benefit card party at which the Women's Benefit association entertained last night at the small ballroom at the Sacajawea Inn. A short business meeting preceded the event over which Mrs. Audrey Coleman, president, presided.

Seven tables were arranged for picnic and the prizes were awarded to Mrs. L. J. Ebert and James Coleman, high; and Mrs. R. E. McAnulty and Renwick Clark, consolation. Five tables of bridge were at play with Mrs. H. W. Riley and Bert Webb high scorers, and Mrs. W. L. Lane and Dr. H. W. Riley receiving the consolation.

Grand Chief Will Visit Local Lodge

The grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, Mrs. Hardesty, of Portland, will be in La Grande next Monday evening for the regular lodge meeting, and plans for her visit were made yesterday when the Pythian Social club met at the home of Mrs. H. W. Riley. Wild flowers, placed about the rooms, furnished an attractive setting for the event.

Mrs. B. W. Hibbits Hostess Tuesday

Mrs. B. W. Hibbits was hostess yesterday afternoon at her home for the Box Quilting club. Eleven women, including one guest, Mrs. Alta Turnure, of Red Cloud, Neb., spent the afternoon sewing on quilt blocks.

KITTY FREW by JANE ABBOTT

SYNOPSIS: Kitty Frew is relieved to hear that Marge Crosby is going abroad. Her husband, Gar, and Kitty leave her secretly. Kitty runs across David Frew, Gar's half-brother, for the first time since she learned he loves her.

Chapter 35

AN AUTOMOBILE CRASH "ARE you going to say you didn't see me?" David laughed. "I didn't honestly. I was thinking—"

Kitty found she wasn't embarrassed at meeting him, that quite naturally she slipped her hand through his arm in her old manner of greeting, that she was glad, glad to see him!

"Tea?" he asked. And presently they were sitting at their table behind the chintz-hung window. And she was asking him about the new story.

His stay in the country had agreed with him, or perhaps his work—he was ruddy, heavier, immensely cheerful.

He told her that the best thing that ever had happened to him was "Jungle's" downfall.

She told him nothing of her own troubled state of mind. Somehow, with him, she forgot it.

He'd come in only for the day. He was taking the six o'clock bus back.

"David, you're really happy?" Kitty asked impulsively. He nodded, smiling. "In a fool's way, perhaps if this story isn't any good, I'm through. But I'm getting a kick out of it."

She walked back to the Tudor Arms, musing on David's work and eagerness in it, which had been so lacking in his labor with the "Jungle." This story would go. That was it, one built on one's failures. She would build so, too.

She walked fast, enjoying the cold air, the gray dusk, the gleam of lighted windows. The late day traffic rushed by her, big cars, small cars, freighted with home-going humanity. And suddenly among them she saw Gar's roadster. Marge was riding beside Gar, snuggled deep in her fur coat, her shoulder close to Gar's. She was laughing, her face lifted to Gar's.

Kitty, halted in the shadow of a tree, felt a wave of physical sickness pass over her. She did not argue with herself: "It's all right. He might have met her somewhere. Of course if he did he'd run her home."

She shrank from Gar's coming in. She wouldn't ask him— But she did: "You passed me on Elm Avenue, Gar. You were with Marge." She could have said it so carelessly, laughed at it. But she said it in the new sharp tone she found herself using, now, so often.

Gar's answer was careless enough. "Marge and I were having tea with Mother. Marge wanted to say good-by."

The old nameless fear smote Kitty. Fight—she'd fight, but with what? She knew that Gar was trying to tell her something.

"Kit, I know you're going to make a fuss but I can't help it. I can't get off to go to Bridgewater." "Gar!" He did not look at her. He had walked to the window and he stood there, his back to the room.

will entertain, assisted by Mrs. Clara Moss.

SOCIAL CALENDAR

Wednesday, April 27
8:00 Queen Esther Standard Bearers, with Miss Bernita Pier-son.
7:30 Crystal Rebekah lodge, No. 60, at the Odd Fellows hall.
7:30 Literature group of the American Association of University Women, with Mrs. Fred E. Kiddle, Island City.
8:00 Order of the Eastern Star, at the Masonic hall.
8:00 No-hostess Bridge club, with Mrs. Doyle Zimmerman.

Thursday, April 28
1:00 Thursday Bridge club, with Mrs. Emma Grady.
1:00 Women's luncheon and tournament, at the La Grande country club.
1:15 Thursday Bridge club, with Mrs. S. B. Riley, at the Sacajawea Inn.
2:00 Frances Brown auxiliary Daughters of the Pioneers, with Mrs. Kate Hanley, 504 Pennsylvania.
2:00 Lutheran Ladies Aid, with Mrs. Ernest Stodak, 2105 Oak street.

Friday, April 29
1:00 Lucky Dosem club, with Mrs. W. W. Kinzie, luncheon, at 1906 Third street.
1:15 Bridge club luncheon, with Mrs. John Larson.
1:15 Hi Lo club, with Mrs. C. R. Brace.
8:30 Busy Bee Four-H club, with Miss Margaret Young.
7:30 Riverside Ladies Aid entertainment, at Lane chapel.
7:30 Women of the Moose, at the Moose temple.
8:00 Bridge club, with Mrs. Haskell Andrews.

Saturday, April 30
2:00 Neighbors of Woodcraft, at the Odd Fellows hall.
8:00 George Washington inaugural ball, at the Masonic temple.
Monday, May 2
1:00 Monday Bridge club, with Mrs. Peter A. McDonald.
2:00 Art Rambler club, with Mrs. Robert S. Eakin.
2:00 Wakelita club, with Mrs. James Oneal.
7:30 Island City Parent Teacher association, at the school.
7:30 Pythian Sisters, at the Knights of Pythias hall.

STIMSON TO SAIL FOR U. S. MAY 4

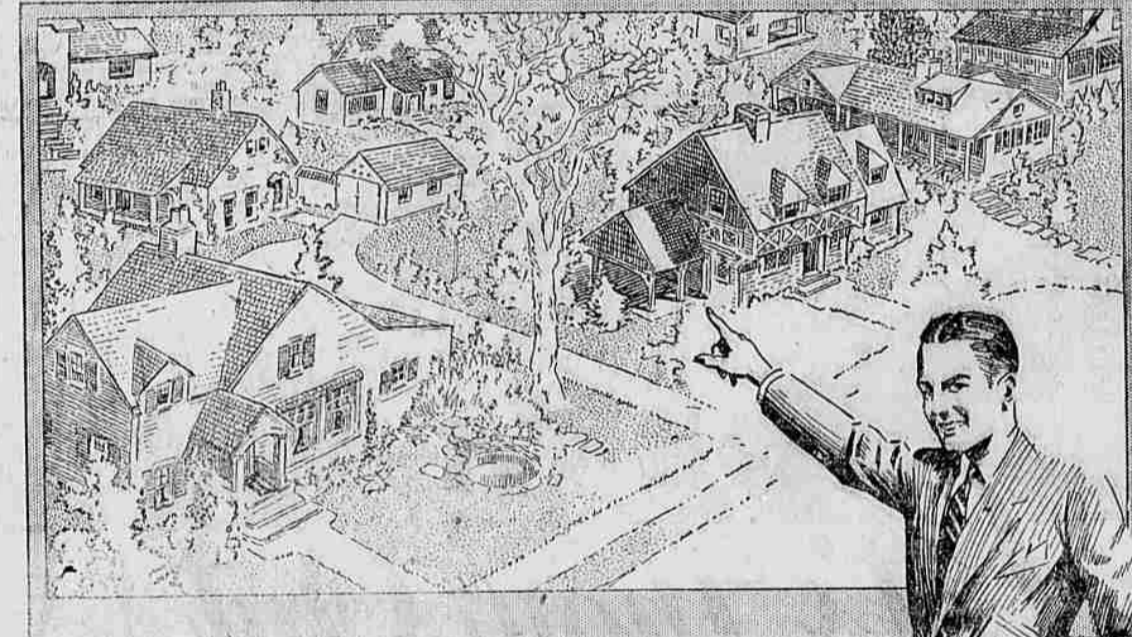

(Continued From Page One)
lend the world disarmament conference, he has been unable to bring together various diplomats representing the "big five" in disarmament conference negotiations.

He has sought to break the deadlock on the French and American disarmament plans.

Premier Tardieu failed to appear for a conference with Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, of Germany. Later he promised to come here Friday for a meeting of the "big five," but today announced an attack of laryngitis prevented his coming.

It has been suggested the recent German elections and the coming French elections have added to the uncertainty of discussions of disarmament problems.

STROMBERG AND CARTER CARBURETORS & PARTS SERVICE
Burgess Battery & Electric
Phone Main 125 1308 Jeff. Ave.

“ . . . and the Observer delivers your 'store news' to hundreds of HOMES like these”

IT is in these homes that the vast majority of La Grande's "buying decisions" are made, whether the purchase be one directly concerning every member of the family or an individual purchase by an individual member of that family.

You as a merchant should therefore, be sure that your "store news" is being placed in the hands of ALL of these potential buyers BEFORE these family "buying decisions" have been reached . . . To do so economically.

Concentrate Your Advertising in The Evening Observer

LIBERTY

Wild Oats and LAST DAY
THIS IS THE NIGHT
with LILY DAMITA CHARLIE RUGGLES ROLAND YOUNG

STARTING THURSDAY

DOOMED

because the world knew him as — her brother? . . . Their passion Buried Alive —with an "Alias" for its epitaph?! The answer will stun your senses — in the most stupendous climax ever devised for a talking picture!

RICHARD BARTHELMLESS in "ALIAS THE DOCTOR" with Mariam Marsh — It Was Illegal For Him to Save His Own Life . . . But . . . He Did . . . And Paid!

Here Is The First "Swap" Ad

Will trade postage stamps, call at 1309 N. Ave.

What have YOU to trade? Write the copy for your "Swap" Ad — Limit it to 15 words — Turn it in at the Observer and the Liberty will print it in this space free!