YOUNG PEOPLE OBSERVE LIFE SERVICE DAY

The young people of Zion English Lutheran church had charge of the morning service yesterday to present a service for their annual Life Service day. Juanita Stitzinger, life service and missionary secretary of the Luther League was in charge, assisted by the other members of the group. Imogene Schilling read the scripture; Genevieve Nelson offered the prayer.
A pageant, "Life's High Way," by Irene D. Gruhn, was well presented by a group of the young people. Homer Schroeder enacted the part of the Traveller, who found himself at the cross-roads of life's highway, one of which led the "Way of Self," the other the "Way of Service." Unable to decide which way to take, a stranger, Herbert Langren, bade him sit down and meditate upon the things he saw. First a fashionably dressed young man, Edward Schumann, paused just a moment before he went down the "Way of Self." A beggar, Fred Matthes Jr., stopped long enough to give a crumb of bread to the stranger, but as he left he found that the crumbs in his sack had changed to gold. Finally a professor of those who had dedicated their lives to Jesus Christ passed by, convincing the traveller that he, too, should go the "Way of Service."
Leonard Fields, minister; Helen Jensen, missionary; Barbara Stitzinger, deaconess; Helen Hughes, part time worker; Katie Keller, parish worker; and Irma Schilling, Children's girl, were the ones who made up the procession.
A large crowd attended the service and enjoyed the pageant which the young people presented.
