took to New York. From the note, it was asserted, tracings were made for the use of Salvatore Spitalo and Irving Bitz, also chosen by the Lindberghs to deal with the underworld. Other theories and possibilities were also entertained. One of the latter was put forward by Marshall. He said there was just a chance a resident of the Sourland country took the baby, killed him and then by prearrangement turned over the sleeping garment to gangsters for a sum.

NICKNAMES GIVEN HOPEWELL, N. J., May 14 (AP)—The nicknames and descriptions of five men with whom he negotiated on behalf of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for the return of the kidnapped baby were furnished to New Jersey state police by John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., boat builder. Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police head announced today. Curtis also described to police a boat in which he said the alleged kidnapers were using and through federal agencies, cooperating with the New Jersey state police, the coast guard was requested to make a search

COOKING SCHOOL CLOSED FRIDAY

Miss Margaret Coates Ends Demonstrations For La Grande Women

Over 250 La Grande home-makers attended the closing program of the home-makers' bureau cooking school presented in La Grande during the last three days by the Safetyway Stores at the Sacajawea Inn. Miss Margaret Coates and her charming manner of presenting the programs each afternoon deserves much of the responsibility for the success of the school which endeavored to teach new and attractive ways of fixing old dishes in order to make them more appetizing.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Coates demonstrated prepared lamb shoulder roast, which was stuffed with dressing, seasoned with garlic, onion and celery salt, and cooked with potatoes. Pineapple stuffing was used with the roast.

Miss Coates demonstrated vegetable and fish cookery and suggested a delightful cracker stuffing for baked fish which she demonstrated.

Four different types of mayonnaise were made during the class by the instructor, cream, mayonnaise, Russian dressing, 1000 Island dressing and tartar sauce.

Other recipes which she demonstrated were kindergarten sandwiches, gravy for roast lamb, iced coffee, breakfast eggs in cases, mornieff salad, spider bread, chocolate mousse, chocolate sauce, glazed ham with syrup and baked oranges.

for the vessel. Colonel Schwarzkopf said that as yet no report has been received concerning the results of the search.

SECRET SERVICE TO HELP WASHINGTON, May 14 (AP)—The treasury department today directed the United States secret service and the intelligence unit of the internal revenue bureau to do what they could in the search for the kidnapers and slayers of Charles Augustus Lindbergh Jr.

By Robert J. Cavanaugh HOPEWELL, N. J., May 14 (AP)—The metal scoop of a broken shovel was found in the undergrowth today close to the spot where the body of the Lindbergh baby was discovered Thursday. Police said there were indications it had been recently used.

The prosecutors of Hunterdon and Mercer counties visited the place where the body was found with various police officials and while they were there Robert Coar Jr., a Jersey City detective who was a member of the party, hunted around in the tangled bushes adjacent to the spot where the body lay.

Findings Stopped Search Suddenly he stooped, thrust his hands into the dense undergrowth and brought out the shovel scoop. Hasty examination showed dirt clinging to the metal which police believed to indicate that recent use had been made of the instrument.

The prosecutors and police officials were plainly impressed with the find but would not make any statement as to what they inferred from the discovery. The scoop was carefully wrapped in paper to prevent erasure of possible finger prints or other valuable clues, and taken to the police station in the Lindbergh garage.

The prosecutors both said there had been no other development of importance in the case since yesterday.

Spot Is Walled Up As the little body was being cremated yesterday, state police built a two foot high wall of concrete blocks around the spot where the long hunt for the kidnaped baby ended Thursday.

Previously the police had merely stood guard over the place, but the wall was raised to make doubly sure that no bungling step might destroy possible valuable clues.

Not only was the entire surface scraped up for analysis, but a burlap bag found near the spot was also sent to the experts.

Just what it was the police hoped to find from the scientific analysis was not made clear in the morning bulletin from Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of state police, in which the bare statement was made the analysis was to be obtained. But it was learned in police circles that considerable hope for some sort of help in the investigation from the analysis was felt in official circles.

Rosner, Curtis Examined The remainder of the morning bulletin dealt with the examination of Miss Rosner and John Hughes Curtis, two of Col. Lindbergh's intermediaries in the long search for the baby. John F. Condon, another intermediary who paid a $50,000 ransom in a futile effort to obtain return of the child, was released yesterday after lengthy questioning. "A written statement is being taken from Rosner," Schwarzkopf reported. "Nothing in any way connecting him with the kidnapers has been ascertained during his questioning. His activities apparently were confined to endeavoring to make contact which would assist the family in contacting the actual kidnapers."

National Guard Company Given "V.S." Rating

Company E, 188th Infantry, Oregon national guard, is one of the three rifle companies in the regiment which received a very satisfactory rating at the annual federal inspection held in March, according to a report received this morning by Captain Walter A. Bean, head of the La Grande company. The "very satisfactory" rating is the highest which is given to any company, and La Grande is especially honored since there are nine rifle companies in the regiment.

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—A mysterious vessel, believed to carry persons who may be the Lindbergh kidnapers was sought today somewhere between Boston and Cape May in one of the most intensive ocean hunts ever organized.

For more than 24 hours 25 coast guard craft have been darting to and fro on the Atlantic watching for the vessel, with which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is understood to have made contact Wednesday.

Wired instructions from Washington started the hunt. They contained a meagre description of the mysterious boat, but this was withheld.

RED JOHNSON WEEPS NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—A young sailor sat in a detention pen at Ellis Island and wept over a newspaper telling of the death of the Lindbergh baby.

He was Henry (Red) Johnson, sailor suitor of Betty Goo, the baby's nurse. He had been cleared of all connection with the kidnaping—only to be held for deportation on the charge he entered the country illegally.

He recalled how he had played with the infant during visits to the Lindbergh estate, and seemed to forget his own plight in sorrow.

Master Mechanic Goes to Portland

The offices of L. W. Shirley, master mechanic, will be transferred to Astoria next week, according to announcement today by local railroad officials. With his territory ranging from Seattle to Huntington, Portland was held to be a better geographical location for the office.

Only two persons are involved in the change, it is announced. Miss Mae Donovan who works in the office of the general foreman of the roundhouse, has been transferred to Portland, and leaves tonight. J. D. Killian, engine house foreman, left last night for Pocatello where he will take a similar position. W. J. Nowland is acting foreman in his place. Mrs. Killian plans to join her husband after the close of school in La Grande.

Events scheduled for this morning were as follows: over-the-top race, arch-golf race, all-up race, slap-out race, n-and-out race, centipede race, tug-of-war, circle-dodge ball, baseball games. Both girls and boys were competing except in the tug-of-war.

This afternoon's schedule called for 15 dashes, from 25 to 100 yards, both boys and girls, and two hurdle races for boys; also nine field events for boys and girls, and eight relay races for boys and girls.

The weather was a bit chilly this morning, but it was warmer this afternoon.

Heavy Undertone At Market Close

NEW YORK, May 14 (AP)—There was some retarding of the decline of the last two sessions in today's stock market, but net losses of fractions to a point or more embraced most of the list. After showing rather pronounced heaviness early the list recovered a little late, some issues rallying a point, but a heavy undertone prevailed at the close. Turnover was only about half a million shares.

Marching with the mayor as vice chairman of the parade committee were Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Mrs. William Mevick, Mrs. Malcolm Meacham, Edward P. Spafford, former New York state commander of the American Legion and Joseph P. Ryan, president of the central trades and labor council.

Hearing a contingent of leaders in industry, who rode in handsome cabs, where three men wearing straw hats and marching abreast. They were Walter Chrysler, E. F. Hutton and James Moffat. On the arm of each was a cloth band with the word "repeal."

Near the head of the parade was a float which depicted the pouring of beer from a brewery which was supposed to set in motion the "wheels of industry." A large sign on the side of the float read "end the business stagnation with beer taxation."

Traffic police took to the air to handle the crowds. Observers in the blimp resolute soared above the parade area and kept a record of the movement of the parade and traffic conditions on a black board. As traffic snarls were noted, the information was transmitted by short wave radio to the traffic control bureau. The procession halted at 12 o'clock for one minute of respect to the memory of the slain Lindbergh baby.

MERCURY IN DIVE FRIDAY EVENING (Continued From Page One)

At any rate, the mercury slumped 13 degrees last night below the previous minimum, and at 7 o'clock this morning was 17 degrees below yesterday's 7 o'clock reading.

Yesterday's maximum of 75 was less than Thursday's high, 10 degrees below, in fact. The minimum last night was 40 above and a breeze this morning was chilly.

As the morning progressed, however, it appeared that better weather was in store, with the sun occasionally breaking through the clouds and the temperature mounting.

The official weather forecast from Portland for tonight and Sunday is for fair skies and warmer weather in the interior.

A warm week is in prospect, according to his forecast, which promises fair weather except for occasional thunder storms in the intermountain region, with the temperature above normal in the interior.

Yesterday had been his black Friday. His baby—his heir and namesake, in whose veins had run the blood of congressmen and of great adventurers—had been taken in a simple casket to Roselink cemetery, Linden.

Three colonels had stood there in the crematory chapel. One wore the colonelcy of law—Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the state police of New Jersey, commander of the forces charged with deep responsibility for bringing to justice the murderer of Charles Lindbergh Jr. One was a colonel of the great war—of France, of the A.
