make a stop at London or Paris. He planned to follow a course slightly to the south of the steamer lines. Hausner lifted his plane into the air after running 3,500 feet down the concrete runway, passing about 30 feet over a small crowd assembled to see him off. As he gained altitude, he turned the plane around and headed eastward.

A navy plane also accompanied him as an escort. He carried fifty letters, some of which he planned to drop over the Crowden airport near London, and, if conditions were favorable he hoped to fly over Le Bourget, Paris, to drop some. His plane carried 525 gallons of gasoline, and he took along four chicken sandwiches, two ham sandwiches, a gallon of coffee and a gallon of water.

Cool at Departure
Hausner appeared cool as he supervised the final tuning up of his plane. He took out his watch, kissed his wife goodbye and then calmly said: "Well, let's go."

FRED E. KIDDLE HOLDING LEAD IN SENATORIAL RACE

Zimmerman of Yamhill in his list, behind himself, 12 votes short of enough to give him the office.

Recently a rumor sprang up to the effect that Willard Marks of Lincoln county would like to succeed Zimmerman, he having been the president of the 1931 session, a position which he holds under the organization of the 1933 senate. It is definitely known, however, that Marks has aligned himself with Kiddle and that it has been his position all along that he would not consider becoming a candidate for re-election except in the event of a deadlock, which now appears to be out of the picture as a possibility.

Senator Jay Dixon of Bend also was a tentative candidate but he has abandoned the thought and intends to go into the Kiddle camp whenever convinced that the latter has 15 sure votes.

Fight All Over
Accordingly, on the face of the statement of Senator Kiddle, the senate organization fight is all over and the prospective members of the upper house can devote their full time to clinching their elections in November. And in this connection, it might be stated, the Kiddle lineup consists of holdover senators and those having no opposition in the fall campaign, with one or two exceptions, so that his pledges stand little, if any, danger of being rendered ineffective by the defeat of the givers.

Senator Kiddle returned to Island City Thursday night, but plans to come to Portland again in about a month at which time, it is presumed, he will have made some little progress in the study of the science of committee assignments.

FLOODS HIT OKLAHOMA; FIVE DEAD

taken from Lightning creek at South-east 2nd street. J. M. Moore, former deputy sheriff, reported that the body of a woman about 45 years old was taken from a tree on South 21st street and that of another woman, about 40, was recovered at South 25th street and Santa Fe.

The body of a 5-year-old boy was taken from the water in the south-east section. A man on horseback who attempted to cross deep water near the Taylor school for boys, where 65 youths were marooned upstairs was reported drowned.

Wells Shutdown
The backing up of flood waters caused a shutdown on nearly every well in the north end of the Oklahoma City field, as well as a pipeline and gas compressor stations. The flooded area included the community camp, peopled by hundreds of unemployed.

The Canadian river and several creeks left their banks after an all night downpour which measured six inches. John L. Kennedy told police his wife had drowned and that he had saved his infant child.

The body of another woman was reported on a trestle, which could not reached because of high water. Podr of a family of five were reported missing, the father, marooned in a tree, shouting he did not know what had become of the others.

Those in the community camp fled their tent homes. Many destitute families living outside the camp were homeless.

At one time water stood two feet deep at Main and Broadway, in the heart of the business district. National guard troops were called out for police and rescue work.

Darkness Aids to Terror
Hours of darkness in the southern suburb of Capitol Hill and the failure of seven thousand telephones and 90 toll lines added to the terrors of families struggling to leave their flooded homes. Some looting was reported in downtown business streets where basements were flooded.

Scores of persons were in hospitals receiving treatment for exposure, a number were reported missing and hundreds more were receiving food and attention in hastily arranged emergency shelters.

Half a hundred national guardsmen were called into duty by Lieutenant-Governor Robert Burns.

The community camp, tent city of jobs and the Lightning creek bottoms appeared hardest hit. Houses were swept away and persons sought refuge on roofs and in tree tops.

At the camp refugees waded out through water neck deep, fathers and mothers carrying children on their shoulders. Invalids in some sections were taken out in ambulances. One woman was reported trapped in a cellar in the camp.

The rain kept coming down at mid-morning although the flood waters had receded.

Her back broken and in a cast, one woman was removed from the community camp through water two feet deep. Three children with broken legs also were carried from the camp.
